NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

Explanatory memo. on Quarterly Statement ending 30th September 1916, Ajmer Central Bank, Limited.

PART I—

Column (6). Represents deposits from Rural Societies.

„ (11). Represents Building Fund.

„ (13). Represents cash credit, which Pisangan Central Bank has got with Ajmer Central Bank.

„ (22). Represents loans to Beawar Central Bank, Rs. 37,469, and to Pisangan Central Bank, Rs. 3,500.

„ (26). Represents loans to members of the Central Bank.

PART II—

Column (4). The repayment of this amount will be covered by column (8), Part II, and (14), Part I, but by experience of past years it is clear that about three-fourths of the deposits are renewed and not actually withdrawn. So the entire amount shown in column (4), Part II, will not be withdrawn. Owing to famine and war, long term deposits are not forthcoming, because depositors for the sake of interest, withdraw the money each year but re-deposit it.

Explanatory memo. on Quarterly Statement ending 30th September 1916, Nasirabad Co-operative Bank.

PART I—

Column (26). Shows the loans given to the individual members of the Societies.

„ (28). Rates of interest on the deposits are as under :—

6 per cent. for 1 year.
7 per cent. for 2 years.
8 per cent. for 3 years.

„ (29). Shows that interest at 9 per cent. is given to the individual members of the Societies and at 10 per cent. to the Societies.

Explanatory memo. on Quarterly Statement ending 30th September 1916, Pisangan Co-operative Bank.

PART I—

Column (6). Details of the amount of Rs. 3,671 is as under: Deposit by Societies Rs. 171 ; Loans from Ajmer Central Bank, Limited, Rs. 3,500 ; Total Rs. 3,671.

„ (28). Rates on deposits are as under :—

6 per cent. for deposit of six months.
7 per cent. for 3 years to non-share-holders.
7½ per cent. for 3 years to share-holders.

Explanatory memo. on Quarterly Statement ending 30th September 1916, Kekri Central Bank.

PART I—

Column (26). Shows the loans given to the individual members of the Societies.

„ (28). Rates of deposits are as under :—

6 per cent. for 1 year.
7½ per cent. for 3 years.

Explanatory memo. on Quarterly Statement ending 30th September 1916, Beawar Central Bank, Limited.

PART I—

Column (2). Includes Rs. 20,000 on account of Government Tuccavi Loan.

„ „ 7½ per cent. for 2 years.

„ „ 8 per cent. for 3 years.

PART II—

Column (10). The income is on account of the principal sum recovered and this was very small because there was famine in Merwara.

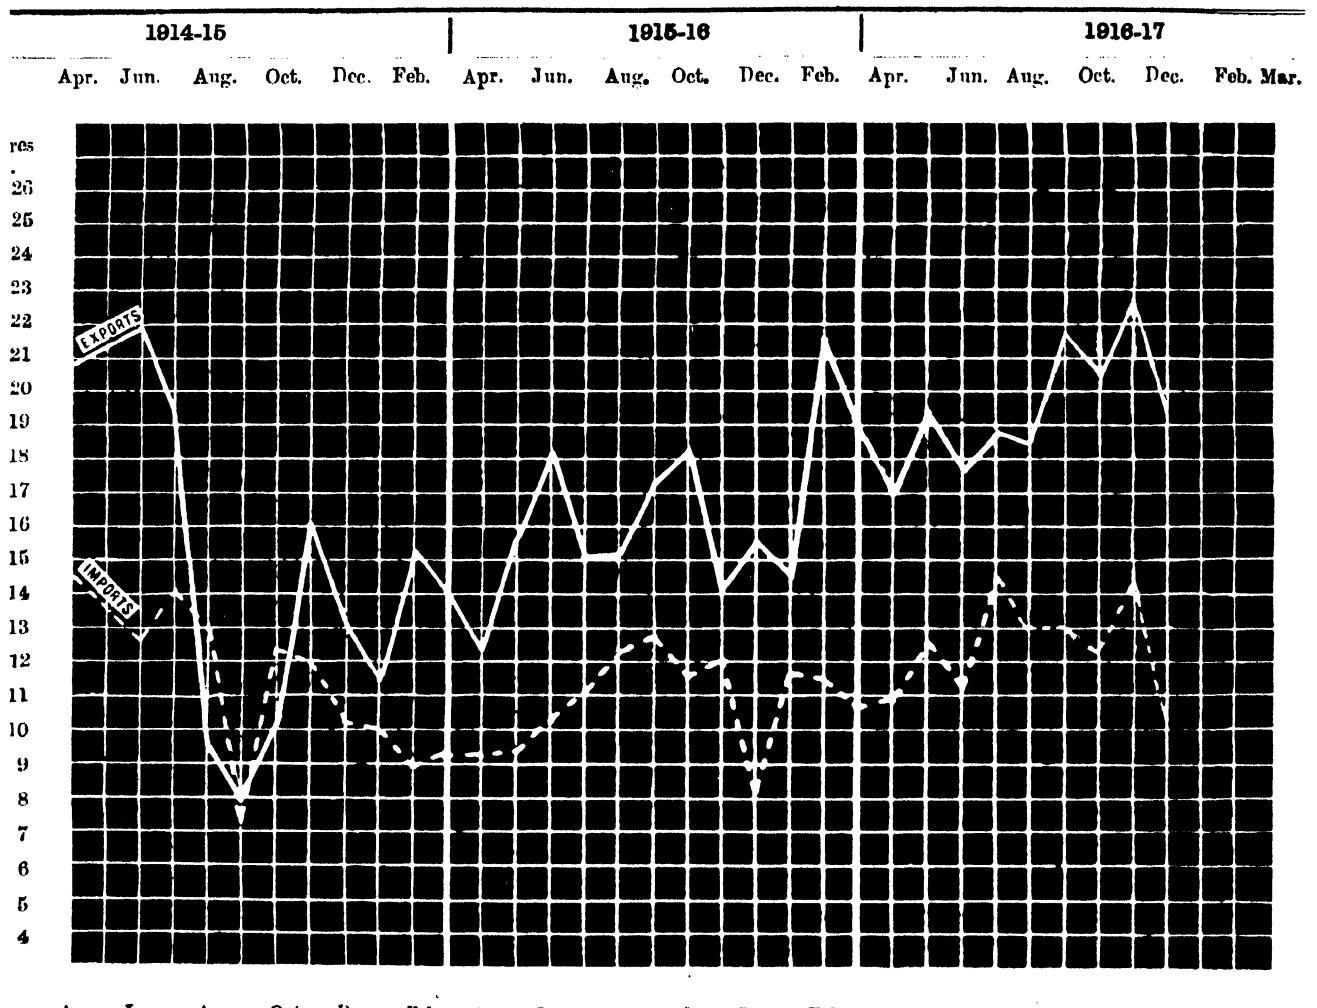
FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING DECEMBER, 1916.

REVIEW of the SEA-BORNE TRADE and NAVIGATION of BRITISH INDIA for the month of DECEMBER, 1916, and for the nine months ended DECEMBER, 1916.



FOREIGN COMMERCE.

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING DECEMBER, 1916.

The trade returns of British India for December, 1916, as compared with those of its immediate predecessor, showed decreases in total imports, exports, and re-exports. It should, however, be noted that there were several non-working days in December. The total imports of merchandise were valued at nearly ₹10½ crores, the exports, including those of wheat and tanned cow hides on Government account, at over ₹18⅔ crores, and the re-exports at ₹59⅔ lakhs. As compared with the preceding month (November, 1916), the imports decreased by 27 per cent, the exports by 16 per cent, and the re-exports by 12 per cent. As compared with December, 1915, the imports showed an increase of 26 per cent, the exports of 24 per cent, and the re-exports of 28 per cent.

The chart showing the course of monthly imports and exports, including re-exports, from April, 1914, to December, 1916, is appended below :—

(Private Merchandise only.)

The actual net excess of exports, including re-exports, over imports was ₹8,60 lakhs in November, 1916, and ₹8,84 lakhs in December, 1916. The statement below shows the figures of imports and exports, including re-exports, during November and December of the years 1914, 1915, and 1916, and the actual net excess of exports over imports during the same periods :—

Under imports, the declared unit value of coal rose by 15 per cent, of sugar by 10 per cent, of cotton twist and yarn by 103 per cent, and of cotton piecegoods, grey by 35 per cent, white by 39 per cent, and coloured by 40 per cent. Under exports, indigo and manganese ore showed an increase of 22 per cent each, jute gunny cloth of 10 per cent, raw cotton of 42 per cent, raw jute and coal of 14 per cent each, and coffee of 6 per cent, while wheat showed a decrease of 15 per cent and rice, not in the husk, of 20 per cent. These comparisons are with the corresponding month of the previous year.

Customs Revenue.*

The following table shows the gross Indian sea customs revenue (excluding salt revenue) collected on principal and other articles in December, 1916, as compared with November, 1916, and December, 1915 and 1913 :—

,, ,, tea	—	—	5,06	3,66	—1,40	—	—

The customs duty figures are an index to the volume of the import trade alone, as under exports jute, rice, and tea only are subject to duty. In the nine months ended December, 1916, the import duties increased to over R7,28$\frac{1}{3}$ lakhs from R5,27$\frac{1}{4}$ lakhs in the nine months ended December, 1915, and the export duty on rice rose to over R58 lakhs from nearly R42$\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs. The export duty levied on raw jute amounted to R42,43,000, on jute manufactures to R36,69,000, and on tea to R33,29,000, in the nine months, April to December, 1916. The total customs revenue (excluding salt but including excise duty on cotton goods and land customs) in the nine months amounted to nearly R9,39 lakhs, as compared with R6,08 lakhs in the same period of last year.

* The Indian Tariff (Amendment) Act, IV of 1916, took effect from 1st March, 1916.
(a) Included with "other articles."
(b) The details are less by R29,000 than the total on account of the inclusion of the figures of "silver manufactures" with "other articles" in December, 1915 and 1913.

SHIPPING.

The following table shows the number and tonnage of vessels, which entered and cleared with cargoes at ports in British India during December, 1916, as compared with November, 1916, and December, 1915, 1914, and 1913 :—

Entered with cargoes.

	STEAMERS.		SAILING VESSELS.		TOTAL.
	No.	Tons.	No.	Tons.	No.	Tons.
December, 1916	158	326,034	180	14,665	338	340,699
November, 1916	173	333,716	115	12,342	288	346,058
December, 1915	139	284,969	81	7,248	220	292,217
December, 1914	159	313,790	92	7,724	251	321,514
December, 1913 (pre-war month)	219	592,109	80	7,253	299	599,362

November, 1916	268	545,885	168	12,788	436	558,673
December, 1915	203	416,515	142	14,031	345	430,546
December, 1914	196	399,731	131	11,800	327	411,531
December, 1913 (pre-war month)	236	645,156	97	8,199	333	653,355

The total tonnage entered and cleared with cargoes in December, 1916, as compared with that in the preceding month (November, 1916) and in the corresponding month of 1913, 1914, and 1915 is shown in the last column of the table above and is, perhaps, of interest in view of the present scarcity of tonnage. In the month of December, 1916, there were 338 arrivals * and 414 sailings † with cargoes, in and from India. As regards tonnage, if a comparison be made with December, 1913, the corresponding pre-war month, it will be seen that there is a decrease in the tonnage of vessels cleared with cargoes of 174,094 tons or 27 per cent. The decrease in the entries (with cargoes) amounted to 258,663 tons or 43 per cent.

The shipping clearances with cargoes in foreign trade from the ports of British India in the nine months, April to December, 1916, as compared with the corresponding period of 1913, i.e., before the war broke out, were as follows :—

	TONNAGE CLEARANCES IN THE NINE MONTHS, APRIL TO DECEMBER
	1913 Peace conditions.	1916 War conditions.
British ships (including British Indian)	4,657,709	3,626,362
Foreign ships	1,386,354	824,561
TOTAL	6,044,063	4,450,923

Under war conditions, the total tonnage clearances have declined 26 per cent. Under peace conditions, the British (including British Indian) tonnage was 77 per cent and foreign tonnage 23 per cent of the total, while under war conditions, the British (including British Indian) tonnage is 81 per cent and foreign tonnage 19 per cent.

RAILWAY STATISTICS.

Railway statistics, like the import and export statistics above, are a valuable index to the general movement of trade throughout the country, and show that the earnings from 1st April to 30th December, 1916, were R 50,63 lakhs as against R 45,81 lakhs in the corresponding period of 1915, or an increase of R 4,82 lakhs.

* The details were as follows :—Bengal 23, Bombay 93, Sind 121, Madras 82, and Burma 19.

TRADE OF ADEN DURING DECEMBER, 1916.

The grand total value of the imports and exports of merchandise, by sea, into and from the port of Aden amounted to over ₹1,40 lakhs in the month of December, 1916. The values of the principal articles of imports and exports during December, 1916, were as follows:—

	DECEMBER, 1916.
	Imports ₹ (thousands)	Exports ₹ (thousands)
Cotton manufactures	23,57	18,35
Hides and skins, raw	16,75	24,45

Coal	10,23	—
Tobacco, unmanufactured	1,70	1,14
Provisions	1,11	59
Sugar	1,09	—
Spices	37	—
Salt	—	1,25
Oil—kerosene	—	—
Pearls	—	41
Other articles	14,02	11,53
Total value	75,02	65,00

SHIPPING AT THE PORT OF ADEN IN DECEMBER, 1916.

In December, 1916, 77 steamers with an aggregate tonnage of 141,328 entered at the port of Aden, while 72 steamers with 130,063 tons cleared from the port. 97 sailing vessels (country craft) with 3,754 tons entered and 80 vessels with 2,355 tons cleared from the port. These figures exclude vessels in ballast and Government vessels.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Delhi, the 26th January, 1916.

An Ordinance to provide for the trial by court-martial of foreigners for offences against the Defence of India Rules.

WHEREAS an emergency has arisen which makes it necessary to provide for the trial by court-martial of foreigners for offences against the Defence of India Rules;

Now, therefore, in exercise of the power conferred by section 72 of the Government of India Act, 1915, the Governor General is pleased to make and promulgate the following Ordinance :—

5 & 6 Geo. V, c. 61.

ORDINANCE No. III OF 1916.

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be called the Foreigners (Trial by Court-martial) Ordinance, 1916.

2. In this Ordinance—

Definitions.

(a) "British subject" has the same meaning as in section 27 of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914 :

4 & 5 Geo V, c. 17.

Provided that any person who holds a certificate of naturalization as a British subject granted under any Act of the Governor General in Council for the time being in force shall, for the purposes of this Ordinance, be deemed to be a British subject.

(b) "Defence of India Rules" means any rules for the time being in force made under section 2 of the Defence of India (Criminal Law Amendment) Act, 1915.

IV of 1915.

(c) "Foreigner" means any person who is not a British subject.

Trial of foreigners contravening rules under section 2 of the Defence of India Act, 1915.

3. (1) The Governor General in Council may, by order in writing, direct that a foreigner accused of anything which is an offence in virtue of the Defence of India Rules shall be tried by court-martial.

(2) An order made under sub-section (1) may be made in respect of all foreigners or any particular foreigner or any class of foreigners, and in respect of all offences against the said rules or any particular offence or any class of offences.

(3) An order made under sub-section (1) may be made in respect of, or include any foreigner so accused whether such offence was committed before or after the commencement of this Ordinance.

Procedure on making of order under section 3.

44 & 45 Vi t., c. 58.

Procedure on trial.

5. The trial and all matters precedent thereto and attendant thereon shall be held and carried out in accordance with the provisions of the Army Act, and the rules for the time being in force thereunder :

44 & 45 Vict., c 58

Provided that the Governor General in Council may, by general or special order, modify in such way as he may direct, any of the said provisions.

HARDINGE OF PENSHURST,
Viceroy and Governor General.

The 28th January, 1916.

Rainfall Summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 27th January 1916, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. Winter disturbances gave local precipitation in Baluchistan, lower Sind, the North-West Frontier Province, Kashmir, Assam and north Burma, but the amounts reported were generally light and Baluchistan and Assam were the only divisions where the rainfall of the week was above the average.

2. Burma.—Myitkyina had a light fall of rain.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Rain fell at most stations in upper Assam on the 21st and 24th.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Weather was dry.

Northwest India.—Local falls of rain and snow were reported from north Baluchistan, Kashmir, and the North-West Frontier Province, and Karachi had a light fall of rain on the 23rd.

The Peninsula.—No rain fell.

3. The chief amounts of rain reported were as follows:—

January 20th. Sonamarg 2·09″.
„ 24th. Tezpur 0·99″.
„ 26th. Kalat 0·96″ and Dalbandin 0·91″.

4. The rainfall of the week was more than 20 per cent in excess in Assam and Baluchistan, and was more than 20 per cent in defect in all the remaining divisions, except the following where the absence of rain is a normal feature of the weather at this time of year:—Gujarat, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, Hyderabad, Mysore and the Madras Deccan.

The rainfall from the 3rd December to date is more than 20 per cent in excess in the Bay Islands, Burma, Central India West, the Bombay Deccan and Hyderabad North, and is within 20 per cent of the normal in Assam and Berar. No rain usually falls during this period in Gujarat and the Konkan; in the rest of the country rainfall is more than 20 per cent in defect.

Division.	Rainfall data for week ending on 27th January 1916.			Rainfall data from 3rd December 1915 to 27th January 1916.			Percentage departure from normal.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 22nd January 1916.

Burma.—Light showers fell in three northernmost districts of the Province. Reaping of winter rice has been nearly completed. Threshing and winnowing are still proceeding in Upper Burma. Sowing of spring rice and of miscellaneous crops is progressing. Harvesting of sesamum, groundnut, and millets continues. Standing crops are generally in good condition Prospects are favourable. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon shows a further slight rise to Rs. 104 per hundred baskets. The market for white rice is quiet.

Assam.—The weather was seasonable. Light rain fell in most districts. Harvesting of winter rice has been almost finished and that of mustard and pulses is going on. Prospects are fair. Ploughing of land for rice and jute, pressing of sugarcane, picking of cotton and hoeing and pruning of tea are in progress. Preparation of land for jhum cultivation in hill districts continues. The price of common rice is stationary. Cattle disease is reported from five districts and insufficiency of fodder from two.

Bengal.—There was practically no rain during the week. Reaping of winter rice has been almost finished and threshing continues. Harvesting of sugarcane and of spring crops is proceeding in some districts. Preparation of fields for the next autumn crops is in progress. Prospects of the standing spring crops are generally reported to be fair but light showers would improve their condition. Gratuitous relief was given to 198 persons in parts of Dacca. Cattle disease is reported from four districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen slightly as compared with that of the preceding week.

The report on scarcity is as follows :—In the Bankura district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas is generally unchanged but distress is tending to increase. Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Loans continue to be given freely. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 4,518 and on gratuitous relief 12,558, total 17,076. Decrease in the number on works is due to a local festival. Number of persons relieved on private works was 1,262. In the Tippera district considerable distress prevails in limited areas in the Brahmanbaria sub-division and it will probably continue in varying degrees till the harvesting of boro paddy. There is no marked change in the condition of the people and in the state of affairs in the affected areas. Distribution of loans continues. Cholera is decreasing. Sarail Wards State is giving assistance. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 1,190 and on gratuitous relief 5,980, total 7,170. These figures exclude relief by the Sarail Wards State.

Bihar and Orissa.—There was no rain during the week except in parts of Purnea. Harvesting of paddy has been nearly completed. Pressing of sugarcane continues in some districts. Harvesting of early oilseeds has begun. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from fourteen districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 2,976 and in Singhbhum 2,325. Gratuitous relief was given to 724 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—The week was rainless. The demand for rain in the north and west of the Provinces is increasing in urgency and the crops on the dry and unirrigated tracts are beginning to suffer from drought. Otherwise standing crops are generally doing well. Irrigation and weeding of spring crops and of poppy and pressing of and preparation of land for sugarcane continue. The condition of agricultural stock is good. Little cattle disease is reported. Fodder and water are sufficient everywhere but the former is still dear in a few places. The market supplies are ample. Prices are practically stationary.

Punjab.—The weather is generally dry. Pressing of sugarcane continues in some districts with yield generally normal. The condition of standing spring crops on irrigated areas is average to good but the unirrigated crops are withering for want of rain which is urgently wanted everywhere. Toria is being harvested with yield generally normal. Cattle are generally healthy but are becoming weak owing to scarcity of fodder in the south, east and west. Water for drinking and canal irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and range between warning and above scarcity rates. Price of wheat :— Ambala 8¼, Rawalpindi 8½, Lahore 8¾, Ferozepore 9 and Lyallpur 9½ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Slight showers fell during the week throughout the Province except in Dera Ismail Khan. More rain is urgently needed. The weather is cold and at times cloudy. Standing crops are average on irrigated but poor on unirrigated lands in Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan. Sowings of sugarcane are proceeding in the Bannu tahsil. Pressing of sugarcane continues. The outturn is reported to be average in the Peshawar district and below average in the Bannu tahsil. The condition of cattle is generally good except in the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district. Fodder is reported to be scanty in the Nowshera tahsil of the Peshawar district and in the unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil. Elsewhere it is sufficient. Water is scarce in the unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil and in some villages of the Dera Ismail Khan district. The public health is good. Prices are high and stationary in the Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan districts. In Bannu prices of wheat and gram are falling slightly and those of barley are rising.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 11 and maize from 11 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is average but it is dependent on future rain. Cattle disease prevails in the Basoli tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—No rain fell in the Anantnag district but slight rain was received elsewhere. Standing crops are badly in need of water. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder and irrigation are insufficient in Baramula. Small-pox prevails in Badgam, Srinagar and Baramula. Prices are unchanged.

Rajputana.—The weather is generally clear. Rain is needed in Bikaner, eastern and central Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara. Irrigation, where possible, is in progress. Standing crops on wet areas are in fair to good condition. Pasturage and fodder are generally deficient and in consequence the cattle are in a weak condition. Cattle disease is reported in Kotah and in parts of Dungarpur and Banswara. Prices are falling in Marwar, Mewar, the Hilly Tracts, Kotah and Jhalawar and rising in Shahpura.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week. It has been insufficient in Gwalior where winter rains are much needed, in the northern district of the Gwalior Prant and in some parganas of the Mehidpur and Rampura-Bhanpura districts of the Indore State and sufficient elsewhere. Cotton picking has been nearly finished in Indore and is in progress in Malwa. Irrigation of spring crops is in progress everywhere. Standing crops are in good condition except in places in the districts of Gird, Bhind, Tanwargarh and Sheopur in the Gwalior State. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except for cattle disease in a few villages of the Bajranggarh and Jawad tahsils in the Gwalior State, the Kannod and Rampura mahals of the Indore State and parts of Dhar, Jhabua and Barwani in the Southern States. The fodder supply is fair in Malwa and sufficient elsewhere. Prices are high in Baghelkhand, normal in Bhopal, slightly fluctuating in the Nimar and Nemawar districts of the Indore State and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be clear and cool. No rain fell anywhere. Reaping, threshing and winnowing of autumn crops are well advanced. Picking of cotton is approaching completion. The condition of spring crops is generally good but light winter showers would be beneficial. The supply of fodder and water is adequate and cattle are in good condition. The price of rice and juar fell in a few districts. Other variations are unimportant.

Feudatory States.—Threshing and winnowing of paddy are in full swing. Spring crops are generally in good condition. Prices are steady.

Bombay.—Standing crops are generally in good condition but they have been damaged by disease in two talukas of Kaira and by winds in three talukas of Bijapur. Harvesting of autumn crops is progressing in the Deccan and the Karnatak. Cotton picking continues in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Gujarat, Dharwar and Rewa Kantha. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Karachi, Larkana, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Cutch, Kathiawar and Baroda. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in parts of Karachi, Larkana and Hyderabad. Drinking water is generally adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Kaira, Ahmedabad and Baroda. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly in the Karnatak and are generally steady elsewhere.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. Autumn cotton, castor seed and groundnut are being picked. Spring crops are generally in fair to good condition but they have been somewhat damaged by rats in parts of the Usmanabad district and by insects in parts of the Karimnagar district. They are being harvested in a few places. Late rice is being sown and its germination is satisfactory. Cattle disease prevails in five talukas. Prices of grains are almost constant. The highest price of juar in districts is 10 seers per rupee in Gulbarga, Medak and Warangal and the lowest 25 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell during the week. The price of ragi has risen slightly in Shimoga. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are generally in good condition. The outturn of the harvested paddy, ragi and sugarcane is fair to good. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Agricultural prospects are good. Picking of coffee continues. Reaping of rice has been completed and threshing has commenced. Prices of food grains are normal. The public health is fair. Fodder for cattle is sufficient.

Madras.—No rain fell during the week. Standing crops are fair to good generally but are withering or require more rain in parts of five districts. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding or are being completed normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient except in parts of Godavari, Anantapur, South Arcot, Madura, Tinnevelly and the central parts except Coimbatore. Pasture is generally sufficient but is growing scanty in parts of three districts. Fodder is generally available but is scanty in parts of four districts. Prices are practically stationary.

Nepal.—Report for the quarter ending 15th January 1916. The rainfall for the period was ·95 inch against ·9 inch for the corresponding period of last year.

October 1915.—Pepper was gathered and the outturn was good. Garlic and onions were sown.

November 1915. Autumn rice was harvested and the outturn was very good. Oranges began to ripen. Lands began to be prepared for spring crops.

December 1915.—The orange crop was plucked and was a good one. Sowings of spring crops were commenced both in the Nepal Valley and the Terai and those of winter vegetables were in progress. The first crop of potatoes was dug up but owing to the continuous rain during the rainy season the outturn was poor.

January 1916.—The standing spring crops are doing well. Fields are being prepared for the sowing of the second crop of potatoes. The health of live-stock is reported to be good. The market is well stocked and the prices of food grains continue normal.

All notifications and other matter intended for publication in those Parts should be addressed to the Publisher at Delhi and Calcutta, respectively.

Attention is invited to the following Circular Memorandum of the Government of India, Home Department, of August 1901:—

"It has been brought to the notice of this Department that matter for the Gazette of India is sometimes sent to the Press late on Friday evenings for publication in the next day's Gazette and that this involves considerable inconvenience to the Press and expense to Government. In the Circular Memorandum of this Department, No. 777—79, dated 9th February 1870, the Government of India directed that all notifications or other matter intended for insertion in the Gazette of India should be delivered at the Press not later than 2 P.M. on Friday, and that any papers sent thereafter must be certified to be extremely urgent in order to ensure their appearance in the next day's Gazette. The undersigned is directed to request that these orders may be more strictly observed in future, and that Departments will refrain from sending to the Press as extremely urgent any papers which can without harm or inconvenience be held over for the next Gazette.

J. P. HEWETT,
Secretary to the Government of India."

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911 (price 10 annas), and in the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912 (price 2 annas). These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs nor their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

ORDERS BY THE HON'BLE THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER, AJMER-MERWARA.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Dated A. G. G's camp, Rajputana, the 18th January 1916.

No. 104-C—878-A.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 43 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912 (II of 1912), the Chief Commissioner is pleased to make the following rules with a view to carrying out the purposes of the said Act in Ajmer-Merwara:—

1. The maximum portion of the share capital of a society which may be held by a single member other than a registered society shall be one-fifth of such share capital.

2. Every society registered under the Act shall for the purposes of section 15 give notice of its address and of any change therein to the Registrar, who shall register it in the book in which the society has been registered under section 9.

3. A society may make by-laws for the conduct of its business provided that the same are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act or of any rule made under the Act. Such by-laws as well as any modifications of them which may be made from time to time shall be approved by a majority of the members present at a general meeting for which not less than fifteen days' notice has been given and at which not less than one-half of the members of the society are present.

When such by-laws or modifications thereof have received the approval of the society they shall be forwarded to the Registrar. The Registrar, if he considers that any of the by-laws or modifications are contrary to the interests of the society, shall, before registering the same, inform the society of the amendments which should in his opinion be adopted: in tendering this advice he shall be guided by the Ajmer-Merwara model by-laws in so far as they are applicable to the case in point. Should the society be unwilling to accept the Registrar's advice, he shall report the matter for the orders of the Commissioner.

4. Each society shall keep accounts and books in the form prescribed from time to time by the Registrar.

5. Each society shall submit to the Registrar a copy of the proceedings of its meetings within a week of the date of such meetings and shall submit such other returns in such forms as the Registrar may prescribe.

6. For the purposes of section 22 of the Act a person may be nominated by a member of a society in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws of such society.

7. With the previous sanction of the Registrar, any society may invest its funds or a portion thereof in the purchase or leasing of land and in the construction of buildings provided that such land or buildings are necessary for the conduct of its business.

8. (i) Any dispute in respect of the business of a society (a) between any persons who are or have been members of such society or (b) between a member or past member of such society or persons so claiming and the Committee or any officer of such society shall be referred to the Registrar for decision.

(ii) The Registrar on receiving notice of any such dispute shall either decide the dispute himself or refer it for decision to three arbitrators, of whom one shall be nominated by each of the parties to the dispute and the third by the Registrar.

(iii) Where any party to the dispute fails to nominate an arbitrator within fifteen days after receipt of notice from the Registrar, the Registrar shall report the matter to the Commissioner who if he thinks it desirable, shall himself make the nomination.

(iv) In proceedings conducted under the above rules before the Registrar or arbitrators the statements of the parties who attend and of such witnesses as they may produce shall be reduced to writing and upon the evidence so recorded and after consideration of the documentary evidence produced by either side a decision or award, as the case may be, shall be given in accordance with the merits of the matter at issue.

9. No society may distribute to its share-holders by way of dividend, bonus or otherwise a higher percentage of its net profit than 12½ per cent. in any year.

10. For the purposes of section 26 of the Act a copy of an entry in a book of a society may be certified by a certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy of such entry, that such entry is contained in one of the ordinary books of the society and was made in the usual and ordinary course of business, and that such book is still in the custody of the society, such certificate being dated and subscribed by the chairman of the society.

11. An appeal against the orders of the Registrar refusing to register a society shall lie to the Commissioner.

Dated Abu, the 19th January 1916.

No. 6-9.—Mr. B. R. Wood, Assistant Conservator of Forests, United Provinces, is appointed to revise the working plan of the Ajmer-Merwara forests with effect from the 8th November 1915, the date on which he assumed charge of his duties.

No. 115—908.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 24 of the Excise Regulation I of 1915, the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner is pleased, in supersession of all previous orders on the subject, to impose a duty of Rs. 14 a seer on Charas imported for consumption in Ajmer-Merwara, with effect from the 1st April 1916.

IMPORTS INTO CHIEF PORTS DURING NOVEMBER 1915

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA
January 28th, 1916

G. FINDLAY SHIRRAS,
Director of Statistics

Published by order of the Governor-General in Council

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN NOVEMBER 1915.

The object of the tables below is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and the Madras ports during the month of November 1915, and for the eight months April to November 1915, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1914. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN NOVEMBER 1914 AND 1915.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river and sea in November 1915, as against the corresponding month of 1914 show (in round numbers) an increase of—

156 per cent in raw cotton.
(218,400 bales as against 85,200 bales last year.)

34 per cent in linseed.

16 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(9,400 tons as against 8,100 tons last year.)

14 per cent in jute.
(640,500 bales as against 559,300 bales last year.)

The imports of wheat (excluding wheat flour) by rail, river and sea into ports show a fall of 45 per cent (42,400 tons as against 77,000 tons last year) due mainly to smaller receipts from the Punjab to Karachi. The decrease of 11 per cent (35,400 tons as against 39,900 tons last year) in the imports of gram and pulse is mainly due to smaller despatches from Bihar and Orissa to Calcutta and from Bombay to Bombay port. The fall of 10 per cent (76,900 tons as against 85,500 tons last year) in the imports of rice results mainly from smaller imports into Calcutta from Bengal and Bihar and Orissa. The decrease of 7 per cent (38,529,000 lbs as against 41,370,700 lbs last year) in the imports of tea into Calcutta is accounted for by smaller exports mainly from Bengal.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal sources of the imports in November 1914 were (in order of importance) the Punjab, and the United Provinces. Table XI shows the exports out of India of wheat (including wheat flour) month by month during the last four years.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN EIGHT MONTHS ENDING NOVEMBER 1914 AND 1915.

Table I shows an increase in the eight months' figures of jute (82·5 per cent), gram and pulse (26·7 per cent), raw cotton (14·5 per cent), rice, including paddy (11·2 per cent) and tea (9·8 per cent). Other articles show a decrease viz., 33 per cent in linseed and 3 per cent in rape and mustard seed.

Exports of linseed to ports from the province of Bihar and Orissa fell off by 70,000 tons, from Bengal by 12,000, from the United Provinces by 9,000, from the Nizam's Territory by 4,000 and from Assam by 1,000. The despatches of rape and mustard seed from Bihar and Orissa decreased by 19,000 tons, from Assam by 13,000, from Bombay by 4,000, from Rajputana and Central India by 2,000, from Bengal by 1,000, from Central Provinces and Berar by 1,000 and from Madras by 1,000.

NOTE.—400 lbs. are equivalent to 1 bale of cotton or jute.
82⅔ lbs are equivalent to 1 maund.
1 maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN NOVEMBER 1915 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with October 1915, the imports in November 1915 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers)

32 per cent in linseed.
(10,000 tons as against 7,500 tons previous month.)

24 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour.)
(42,400 tons as against 34,200 tons previous month.)

14 per cent in tea.
(38,529,000 lbs as against 33,825,700 lbs previous month.)

8 per cent in raw cotton.
(218,400 bales as against 202,800 bales previous month.)

3 per cent in gram and pulse.
(35,400 tons as against 34,200 tons previous month.)

and a decrease of—

22 per cent in jute.
(640,500 bales as against 820,600 bales previous month.)

19 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(9,400 tons as against 11,600 tons previous month.)

19 per cent in rice.
(76,900 tons as against 94,600 tons previous month.)

The Statistics for November 1914 and 1915, as also for the eight months ending 30th November 1914 and 1915, together with those for October and November 1915 are summarised below :—

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING DECEMBER 1915.

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING DECEMBER 1915

The trade returns of British India for December 1915, as compared with those of its immediate predecessor, showed increases in total exports and re-exports, but a decrease in total imports. It should, however, be noted that there were several non-working days in December. The total imports of merchandise were valued at R8¼ crores, exports at nearly R15 crores, and re-exports at R17 lakhs. As compared with the preceding month (November 1915), the imports decreased by 31 per cent, while the exports increased by nearly 8 per cent and the re-exports by 57 per cent. As compared with December 1914, the imports showed a decrease of 19 per cent while the exports increased by 17 per cent. and re-exports by 40 per cent.

The percentage of net exports * to total exports was 15 in November 1915 and 46 in December 1915. The statement below shows the figures of imports and exports, including re-exports during November and December of the years 1912, 1913, and 1914, and the percentage of net exports * to total exports during the same period :—

	1912		1913		1914		Percentage of net exports * to total exports

December . .	12,14	17,34	14,43	19,22	10,20	13,15	30	25	22

Comparisons with November 1915.—As compared with November 1915, the most noticeable changes were :—

(1) Under imports: increases under salt (+R7 lakhs), wood timber (+R4¼ lakhs), and motor cars and cycles (+R2⅓ lakhs), but decreases under dates (—R8⅔ lakhs), sugar, 16 D. S. and above (—R32 lakhs), kerosene oil (—R23 lakhs), raw silk (—R9 lakhs), textile machinery (—R8⅔ lakhs), iron or steel sheets and plates (—R8 lakhs), paper (—R11 lakhs), materials for construction of railways (—R18 lakhs), cotton yarn (—R16 lakhs), cotton piecegoods (—R75½ lakhs), and tea-chests (—R6 lakhs).

(2) Under exports: increases under raw cotton (+R86 lakhs), raw hemp (+R14 lakhs), barley (+R8½ lakhs), pulse (+R9 lakhs), seeds (+R31½ lakhs), raw wool (+R18⅔ lakhs), and rubber, raw (+R8⅓ lakhs), but decreases under raw jute (—R68 lakhs), tea (—R13 lakhs), and hides and skins, raw (—R11 lakhs).

Comparisons with December 1914.—As compared with December 1914, the most noticeable changes were :—

(1) Under imports: increases under salt (+R6 lakhs), wood timber (+R5¾ lakhs), precious stones (+R5½ lakhs), and silk piecegoods (+R9 lakhs), but decreases under kerosene oil (—R28 lakhs), iron or steel sheets and plates (—R18½ lakhs), wrought copper (—R7 lakhs), railway plant and rolling-stock (—R75½ lakhs), cotton grey piecegoods (—R51 lakhs), white piecegoods (—R21 lakhs), and coloured piecegoods (—R18½ lakhs).

(2) Under exports: increases under raw cotton (+R76⅔ lakhs), raw jute (+R29⅓ lakhs), jute bags (+R48 lakhs), tea, barley, and seeds (+R16 lakhs each), raw wool (+R13⅓ lakhs), and cotton twist and yarn (+R32½ lakhs), but decreases under rice (—R25¾ lakhs), wheat † (—R50¼ lakhs), jute cloth (—R6¾ lakhs), and hides and skins, tanned, etc. (—R5½ lakhs).

* That is to say the difference between total exports (including re-exports) and total imports.
† There were no exports of wheat on Government account in December 1915.

VARIATIONS IN CLASSES

The variations in December, as compared with November, of the years 1914 and 1915, according to the four main classes of merchandise, are as follows:—

In 1914, the imports in December were less than those in November by ₹1,74 lakhs, and in 1915, the imports in December were less by ₹3,79 lakhs as compared with November. In December 1914, the imports of food, drink and tobacco were more by ₹45 lakhs, but in December 1915, they were less by ₹61 lakhs as compared with the preceding month. The imports of raw materials in December 1914 were less by ₹14 lakhs and of manufactured articles by ₹1,96 lakhs, and in December 1915, raw materials were less by ₹46 lakhs, and manufactured articles by ₹2,63 lakhs.

Under exports, the figures for December 1914 were less than those for November by ₹2,89 lakhs, while in 1915, the December figures show an increase of ₹1,06 lakhs. The increase in 1915 is noticed in all the main classes. In December 1915, food, drink and tobacco showed an increase of ₹10 lakhs as against a decrease of ₹2,24 lakhs in December 1914, raw materials showed an increase of ₹83 lakhs as against an increase of ₹30 lakhs last year, and manufactured articles an increase of ₹13 lakhs as against a decrease of ₹93 lakhs last year.

COMPARISON WITH THE IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF NOVEMBER, 1915.*

A DECREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF SUGAR, SPICES, AND DATES, AND AN INCREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF SALT

The imports of food, drink, and tobacco in December 1915, as compared with those in the preceding month (November 1915), decreased by ₹61 lakhs, mainly due to smaller imports of sugar, spices, and dates. The imports of sugar, 16

(a) There were no exports of wheat on Government account.

* Comparison has been made with the previous month and not as formerly with the corresponding month of the previous year. The comparison of December 1915 with December 1914 is not important under present conditions.

D. S. and above decreased from 51,307 tons, valued at R1,54 lakhs, in November 1915, to 39,286 tons, valued at R1,22 lakhs, in December 1915. Imports from Java declined from 46,155 tons to 35,470 tons, and from Mauritius from 4,019 tons to 1,647 tons. In the nine months ending December 1915, the imports of sugar, 16 D. S. and above rose to 395,300 tons, valued at R12 crores, from 339,900 tons, valued at R7¼ crores, in the corresponding period of 1914. Imports of spices fell from 16½ million lbs in November 1915, to 10⅓ million lbs in December 1915, due mainly to the reduced imports of betelnuts from the Straits Settlements. Imports of dates amounted to 144,526 cwts valued at R9,40,000, as against 303,081 cwts, valued at R18 lakhs in the preceding month. The quantity of salt imported increased from 34,992 tons in November 1915 to 43,304 tons in December, and the value rose from R6 lakhs to R13 lakhs.

A DECREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF KEROSENE OIL AND RAW SILK.

Imports of raw materials declined by R46 lakhs, mainly due to the reduced imports of kerosene oil and raw silk. Imports of kerosene oil decreased from 6,999,000 gallons, valued at over R28 lakhs, in November 1915, to 1,118,000 gallons, valued at over R5 lakhs, in December 1915. There were no imports from the Straits Settlements in the month under review, as against 530,000 gallons in the preceding month, and those from Borneo fell from 2,118,000 gallons in November 1915 to 94,000 gallons in December, and from the United States from 4,351,000 gallons to 1,024,000 gallons. Imports of raw silk fell from 329,000 lbs, valued at R17 lakhs, to 157,000 lbs, valued at nearly R8 lakhs, due mainly to smaller imports from China.

A DECREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF MANUFACTURED ARTICLES

Imports of manufactured articles fell by R2,63 lakhs. Almost all the principal articles showed decrease. Imports of cotton piecegoods, including tents, declined from 148½ million yards, valued at R2,74 lakhs, to 106 million yards, valued at nearly R1,97 lakhs. Imports of iron or steel sheets and plates declined from 9,648 tons, valued at R24 lakhs, to 6,548 tons, valued at R16 lakhs. Railway plant and rolling stock declined by R26 lakhs, cotton yarn by R16 lakhs, wrought copper by R5¼ lakhs, textile machinery by R8⅔ lakhs, and tea-chests by R6 lakhs.

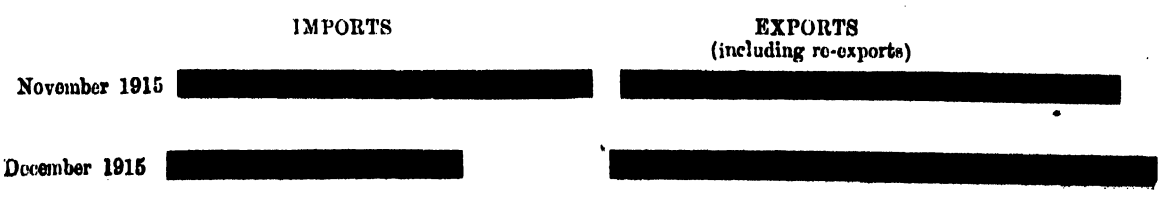
AN INCREASE IN THE EXPORTS OF GRAIN AND PULSE, AND A DECREASE IN THE EXPORTS OF TEA

Exports of food, drink and tobacco increased by nearly R10 lakhs to R3,44 lakhs in December 1915, mainly accounted for by larger shipments of grain and pulse. Exports of barley increased from 8,215 tons in November 1915, to 15,248 tons in December, consigned almost wholly to the United Kingdom, and exports of pulse increased from 6,097 tons to 11,519 tons. Shipments of rice not in the husk amounted, in December 1915, to 46,556 tons, valued at R69¾ lakhs, as against 45,700 tons, valued at R63¾ lakhs, in the preceding month. There were practically no shipments to the continental countries in Europe, and the exports to the United Kingdom declined from 5,950 tons in November 1915, to 2,479 tons in December 1915, and those to the Straits Settlements from 13,538 tons to 6,550 tons. Ceylon took 22,809 tons as against 19,141 tons, and Mauritius 2,503 tons as against nil in the preceding month. In the nine months, April to December 1915, the exports amounted to 807,603 tons, valued at R9,29 lakhs, as against 1,087,528 tons, valued at R12,28 lakhs, in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Exports of wheat amounted to 297 tons, valued at R44,500, as against 245 tons, valued at R36,600, in the preceding month. As in the preceding month there were no shipments of wheat on Government account in December 1915. In the nine months, April to December 1915, the exports both on private and Government account amounted to 649,610 tons, valued.

at R8,39¾ lakhs, as against 650,986 tons, valued at R7,48¾ lakhs in the corresponding period of 1914. Shipments of tea declined from 37¼ million lbs, valued at over R2,10½ lakhs, in November 1915, to 34 million lbs, valued at R1,97½ lakhs in the month under review, mainly due to reduced shipments to the United Kingdom. Shipments in the nine months, April to December 1915, amounted to 267½ million lbs, valued at nearly R 16 crores, as against 250¾ million lbs, valued at nearly R13 crores, in the corresponding period of the previous year.

An increase in the exports of raw cotton, raw wool, and linseed, and a decrease in the exports of raw jute, and raw hides.



The value of the exports of raw materials increased by R83 lakhs to R6,19 lakhs, due mainly to larger shipments of raw cotton, raw wool, and seeds. Shipments of raw cotton amounted to 31,019 tons, valued at R1,94½ lakhs in December 1915, as against 17,867 tons, valued at R1,08½ lakhs in the preceding month. Italy took 7,007 tons as against 3,960 tons and Japan 18,851 tons as against 11,525 tons in the preceding month. In the nine months, April to December 1915, the exports amounted to 321,024 tons, valued at R16¾ crores, as against 391,373 tons, valued at nearly R28 crores, in the corresponding period of 1914. Shipments of raw wool increased from 3¼ million lbs, valued at nearly R18 lakhs, in November 1915, to over 4⅓ million lbs, valued at R36½ lakhs, in December 1915, consigned almost wholly to the United Kingdom. Shipments of linseed also increased from 143,893 cwts in the preceding month to 477,996 cwts in December 1915.

Exports of raw jute declined from 77,093 tons, valued at R2,04½ lakhs, in November 1915 to 50,025 tons, valued at R1,36½ lakhs. The United Kingdom in December took 32,174 tons as against 43,652 tons in the preceding month. In the nine months, April to December 1915, the exports amounted to 461,281 tons, valued at R11¾ crores, as against 317,342 tons, valued at nearly R9 crores, in the corresponding period of 1914. Exports of raw hides declined from 3,303 tons, valued at R59 lakhs, in November 1915 to 2,799 tons, valued at R49 lakhs, in December, due mainly to smaller shipments to the United States of America.

An Increase in the Exports of Manufactured Articles.

Exports of manufactured articles increased by R12¾ lakhs to nearly R5,15⅔ lakhs. Exports of gunny bags rose in number from 79¼ millions in November 1915 to 88½ millions in December, but the value of the bags exported declined from R1,92¾ lakhs to R1,87½ lakhs. The United Kingdom took 43½ millions in December 1915, as against 27 millions in the preceding month; Russia 6¾ millions as against 9 millions; France nearly 17 millions as against 7 millions; Chile nil as against 15 millions; and New Zealand 6 millions as against nil. In the nine months, April to December 1915, the shipments amounted to 576¾ millions in number, valued at over R14¾ crores, as against 290⅓ millions in number, valued at R9¾ crores, in the corresponding period of 1914. Exports of gunny cloth amounted to 77¾ million yards, valued at over R1,21½ lakhs, in December 1915, as against 76½ million yards, valued at R1,20 lakhs, in the preceding month. The United Kingdom took 21½ million yards as against 8 million yards, and there were no exports to the Argentine Republic as against 13⅓ million yards in the preceding month. In the nine months, April to December 1915, the exports amounted to 885 million yards valued at R12½ crores, as against 770½ million yards, valued at R10 crores, in the corresponding period of 1914.

The following diagrams illustrate the relative magnitude of the import and export trade in merchandise in November and December 1915 :—

NINE MONTHS ENDED DECEMBER 1915.

The summary of the results for nine months ended December 1915 is as follows:—

	Nine months ended December 1915	Increase (+) or decrease (−) as compared with the corresponding period of the year 1914
	R (lakhs)	R (lakhs)	Per cent
MERCHANDISE—
Imports	97,31	−12,29	−11
Exports	1,38,54(a)	+89	+·7

(a) Inclusive of ₹57 lakhs, being the value of exports from Chittagong during the month of October.
(b) „ „ ₹57 „ „ „ „ „ „ „ „ „ „ „ „ November.

It will be observed that in December 1915, the total trade with almost all the principal countries decreased, except with Italy, Japan, and Spain. Imports from the United Kingdom decreased by R2,29 lakhs, Japan by R14 lakhs, the United States of America by R28 lakhs, Norway by R9 lakhs, and France by R7 lakhs. Imports from Spain increased by R6 lakhs. Under exports, the United Kingdom accounted for an increase of R1,14 lakhs, Italy of R35 lakhs, Japan of R49 lakhs, and Norway of R6 lakhs. The United States of America showed a decrease of R29 lakhs and Spain of R2 lakhs. The exports to France were on the level of the preceding month, and there were practically no exports to Belgium, Sweden, and Holland, and no imports from Russia.

Balance of Trade.

India's Balance of Trade during December 1915, as compared with November 1915, is shown in the following table. The table takes into account the imports and exports of merchandise and treasure on private account only. There were no exports of wheat on Government account during November and December 1915:—

	November 1915	December 1915

The amount of Council Bills and Telegraphic Transfers paid in India in December 1915 was R3,29,03,000 (the whole amount being paid through the Gold Standard Reserve), as against R2,13,97,000 in November 1915 (namely R1,26,75,000 through the Gold Standard Reserve and R87,22,000 through the Treasuries). In addition to this, a sum of R1,15,42,000 was transferred from the Gold Standard Reserve to the Treasury on account of Council Bill payments during the month. As regards enfaced rupee paper, R64,000 represented the amount of paper enfaced to London and R6,70,100 of that re-transferred from London in November 1915, while in December 1915, R8,400 represented the amount of paper enfaced to London, and R7,00,700 the amount re-transferred from London.

Movements of Gold and Silver (Private and Government).

In the month of December 1915, imports of gold were valued at R40$\frac{1}{3}$ lakhs, and exports at R7$\frac{4}{5}$ lakhs as against R36$\frac{2}{3}$ lakhs, and R1,20$\frac{2}{5}$ lakhs, respectively, in November 1915. Of the imports, gold bullion was valued at R33$\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs, as against R28$\frac{1}{4}$ lakhs in the preceding month, imported chiefly from the United Kingdom and Australia. Bullion worth R15$\frac{1}{4}$ lakhs were imported from the United Kingdom and R16$\frac{1}{3}$ lakhs from Australia, as against R10$\frac{2}{5}$ lakhs, and R17 lakhs, respectively, in November 1915. Sovereigns and other British gold coins were valued at over R5 lakhs as against over R6 lakhs in the preceding month and were imported mainly from the United Kingdom, Aden and Dependencies, and Asiatic Turkey. As regards exports, gold bullion worth R34,000 and sovereigns worth R7$\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs were exported, as against R1,20 lakhs and R30,000, respectively, in November 1915.

* Exclusive of Government transactions.

(a) Up to 15th December 1915, figures for later weeks not being available.

Imports of silver were valued at R49⅘ lakhs, as against R17⅓ lakhs in November 1915. Bullion worth R44¼ lakhs were imported, as against R11⅓ lakhs in November 1915. Exports of silver were valued at nearly R21 lakhs of which nearly R18 lakhs were on account of Government, as against R23 lakhs on private and Government account in the preceding month.

Declared value per unit of selected Articles.

The declared values per unit of certain selected articles imported and exported during December 1914 and 1915 are noted below :—

Under imports, the declared unit value of sugar, 16 D. S. and above rose by 20 per cent, and of cotton coloured piecegoods by 25 per cent. Coal fell by 15 per cent, cotton twist and yarn by 9 per cent, and cotton white piecegoods by 8 per cent. The declared unit value of cotton grey piecegoods was on the level of last year. Under exports, raw jute showed an increase of 64 per cent, jute, gunny cloth of 43 per cent, raw cotton of 36 per cent, rice not in the husk of 22 per cent, tea of 14 per cent, and wheat of 9 per cent, but indigo fell by 15 per cent, coal by 11 per cent, manganese ore by 7 per cent, and coffee by 2 per cent. These comparisons are with the corresponding month of the previous year.

Customs Revenue.

The following table shows the gross Indian sea customs revenue (excluding salt revenue) collected on principal and other articles in December 1915, as compared with November 1915, December 1914 and December 1913 :—

The customs duty figures are an index to the volume of the import trade only, as under exports rice alone is subject to duty. In the nine months, April to December, the import duties declined from R6,12 lakhs in 1914 to R5,27 lakhs in 1915, and the export duty on rice from R55 lakhs to R42 lakhs. The total customs revenue, excluding salt, but including excise duty on cotton goods and land customs, in the first nine months of 1915-16, amounted to R6,08 lakhs, as against R7,11 lakhs for the corresponding period of last year.

SHIPPING.

The following table shows the number and tonnage of vessels, which entered and cleared with cargoes at ports in British India during December 1915, as compared with November 1915, December 1914 and December 1913 :—

Entered with cargoes

In the month of December, there were 220 arrivals* and 345 sailings† in and from India. For the last three months, there were 825 arrivals and 953 sailings, as against 779 arrivals and 890 sailings in the corresponding period of last year.

The great scarcity of freight at the present time is reflected in these tonnage figures. If a comparison be made with the corresponding month of 1913, the year before the war, it will be seen that there is a decrease in tonnage of vessels cleared of 222,809 tons or 34 per cent. The decrease in entries is of 307,145 tons or 51 per cent.

RAILWAY STATISTICS.

Railway statistics, like the import and export statistics above, are a valuable indication of the general movement of trade throughout the country, and show that the earnings from 1st April to 1st January 1916 were R45,69 lakhs as against R43,85 lakhs in the corresponding period of 1915 or an increase of R1,84 lakhs.

CALCUTTA, JANUARY 20, 1916

Final General Memorandum on the SESAMUM (til or jinjili) Crop of 1915-16

This memorandum is based upon reports received from provinces, which contain 78 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India. Of the Native States, estimates are furnished by Hyderabad and the States in the Bombay Presidency (including Baroda). The present estimates are final for all the provinces and Native States, except Madras and Hyderabad. A supplementary memorandum will be issued in April, containing the final estimates for Madras and Hyderabad.

The total area reported amounts to 5,185,000 acres, which is nearly 5 per cent less than the revised area at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 480,000 tons (excluding Hyderabad, for which no estimate of outturn is made at this date). This estimated yield of 480,000 tons is 7 per cent below the revised estimate at this time last year.

Detailed figures for the provinces are :—

The seasonal conditions have been favourable in Madras, the Central Provinces and Berar, Bihar and Orissa, Hyderabad, and in the important sesamum-growing districts of the United Provinces. In other provinces the season has not been favourable, the crop having suffered through deficient rainfall in the Punjab, Sind, Ajmer-Merwara, and in the greater part of the Bombay Presidency, and through excessive rain in Bengal, in parts of the Bombay Deccan and of the United Provinces.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

United Provinces (24·5 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area under sesamum sown unmixed is reported to be 298,000 acres as against 372,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 20 per cent. The total yield of the unmixed crop is estimated at 36,000 tons, which is 16 per cent in excess of the yield of last year. The area and yield of sesamum, sown in combination with other crops and largely retained for home consumption, is roughly estimated at 1,100,000 acres and 90,000 tons as against 1,000,000 acres and 85,000 tons last year. The rainfall was moderate in the Jhansi division and the Mirzapur district, which contain about 265,000 acres under unmixed sesamum, and the yield has been well up to the normal. In the rest of the sesamum-growing tracts the rainfall was abnormally heavy and severely damaged the crop when in flower. In these parts the yield has been poor and is estimated at 75 per cent of the normal.

Central Provinces and Berar (16·9 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area is estimated at 927,000 acres, which is about 6 per cent in excess of the area of last year. The total yield is estimated at 93,000 tons, as against 82,000 tons last year, or an increase of 13 per cent. The monsoon arrived rather late, but except in Chattisgarh, where the rains at first were rather heavy, conditions at sowing time were extremely favourable. The subsequent course of the monsoon was also favourable, the rainfall being sufficient with good breaks for weeding. In the Nagpur division, however, there was too much rain at the time of sowing the rabi (late) crop, and in the north of the provinces some of the kharif (early) crop on heavy soils appears to have suffered from excessive moisture at the end of the monsoon.

Madras (16·6 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The area is estimated at 890,000 acres as against 724,000 acres estimated at this date last year, or an increase of 23 per cent. The total outturn is estimated at 91,000 tons, which is 32 per cent in excess of the estimate made at this time last year. The increase in area is noticeable in the Circars and Deccan. The reports on the condition of the crop are uniformly better than last year, and, with the increase in area, indicate a total yield well above normal. There has been nothing abnormal in the season.

Bombay (6·1 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area is reported to be 800,000 acres (525,000 acres being in Native States), as against 1,055,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 24 per cent. The decline in area, which occurred mainly in Gujarat, is attributed to scanty rains. The total yield is estimated at 95,000 tons (57,000 tons being in Native States), which is 42 per cent below the yield of last year. In Gujarat the early crop suffered heavily from scanty rains, particularly in the north and in Kathiawar, but the fall early in October gave some relief to the crop that survived the drought, and helped the sowing of the late crop. The season since then has been fair. In the Deccan the crop progressed satisfactorily under favourable seasonal conditions in the north and west and has yielded well; elsewhere it suffered from excessive rain at the flowering stage and from insect attacks in two talukas of Sholapur, and the condition of the crop was only moderate to fair. In the Karnatak the rain after sowing was deficient in places, and the crop suffered from insects in parts of Bijapur and Dharwar; elsewhere it did fairly well. In the Konkan the crop did well in the north but suffered in the south from the absence of rain at the flowering stage.

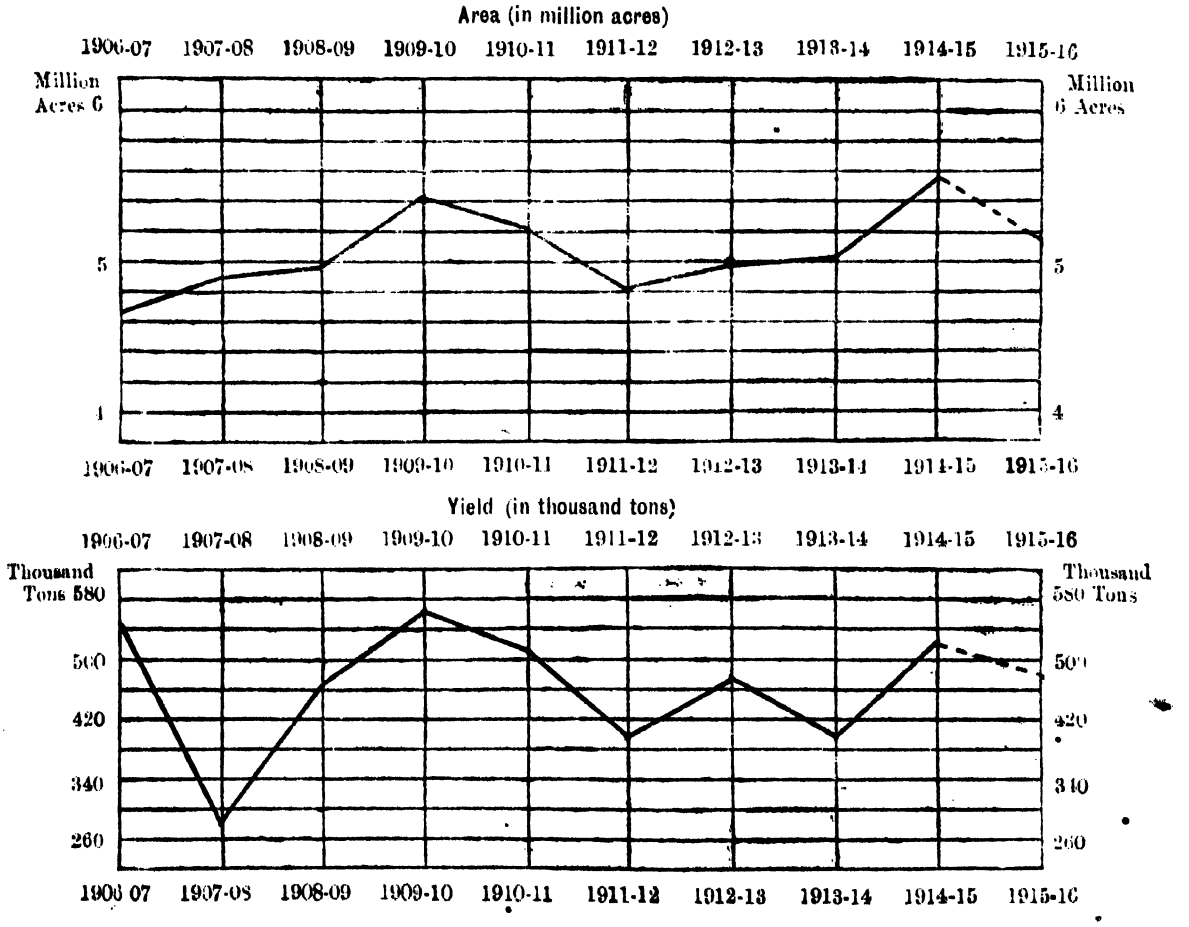
Bengal (5·3 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area under both early and late crops now amounts to 248,000 acres as compared with 251,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 1 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 27,000 tons, which is 7 per cent short of the yield of last year. As reported in the first forecast in August, the season for the early crop was not favourable, owing to heavy rainfall. As regards the late crop, the rainfall at sowing time was on the whole sufficient except in some districts of the Burdwan division and in a few places in Eastern Bengal. Subsequently, however, insufficient rainfall interfered with the growth of the crop and affected the outturn considerably.

Bihar and Orissa (4·1 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area under both early and late crops amounts to 205,000 acres as against 206,000 acres last year. The total yield is estimated at 31,000 tons, which is 19 per cent larger than the yield of last year. The season was generally favourable for the early crop. For the late crop also, the weather conditions were favourable, except in parts of Tirhut, where the crop was damaged by floods, and in Angul and Singhbhum, where defective rainfall in the early part of the season affected the outturn. The rainfall in November was also prejudicial to the crop in Angul.



Punjab (2·7 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area is reported to be 126,000 acres as compared with 222,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 43 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 15,000 tons, which is 37 per cent below that reported at this time last year. The decrease is, as explained in the first forecast, due to deficient rainfall and the shortage of canal water at sowing time, and is most marked in Ferozepur, Jhang, Lahore, Montgomery, and Hissar. Low prices at sowing time also had some effect in decreasing the area put under this crop. Owing to insufficient monsoon rainfall and deficiency of water in canals, the outturn was below normal in many important districts.

Sind (1·4 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area is estimated at 25,000 acres (3,000 acres being in Native States) as against 86,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 71 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 2,000 tons, which is 60 per cent below the estimate of last year. The crop suffered from low inundation and the absence of rain in the dry tract, and its condition is reported to be poor in Karachi, Hyderabad, and Upper Sind Frontier districts. Elsewhere it is reported to be fair.

Ajmer-Merwara (0·5 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area is estimated at 5,000 acres as against 35,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 86 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 37 tons only as against 1,000 tons last year.

Hyderabad reports 561,000 acres, which is 7 per cent below the area estimated at this date last year. The outturn is estimated at 59 per cent of the normal as against 57 per cent last year. The season is reported to have on the whole been favourable.

The chart below shows the present estimates of the total area and yield as compared with the final figures of the preceding nine years: —

Note.—Columns 9 and 10 include the paid-up capital of new Companies registered during the half-year.
(a) Revised. (b) Registered under the Mysore Regulation, III of 1895. (c) Not stated.

This statement is compiled from returns furnished half-yearly by Registrars of Joint Stock Companies. From a comparison of columns 2 and 3 with columns 15 and 16, it will be seen that in British India there was a net increase of Rs. 1,78,46,000 in paid-up share capital and of Rs. 60,85,000 in debenture capital at the end of the half-year ending June 1915 as compared with the preceding half-year ending December 1914, mainly owing to an increase in Bengal of Rs. 1,64,85,000 in paid-up capital and Rs. 31,94,000 in debenture capital and in Bombay of Rs. 15,10,000 in paid-up capital and Rs. 26,50,000 in debenture capital. In the Native State of Mysore the share capital decreased by Rs. 11,31,000.

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

No. 296-R.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 5 of the Opium Act, 1878 (I of 1878), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Chief Commissioner of British Baluchistan is pleased to make the following amendments in the Opium Rules published with his Notification No. 4717, dated the 10th September 1908, as subsequently amended, namely :—

(1) The following shall be inserted after rule 5 :—

"General provisions regulating import, export and transport.

5-A. Save as otherwise provided in rule 30, the import, export and transport of opium is permitted only by means other than that of the post".

(2) From rule 7, sub-rule (1) the last thirteen words shall be omitted.

(3) The following shall be added as rule 15-A :—

"15-A. The export of pure opium when issued from the Quetta Treasury under rule 25 to a Kalat State opium contractor is permitted if covered by a pass issued by the Treasury Officer, Quetta, on the following conditions :—

(a) Each package shall be securely packed and stamped by or in the presence of the Treasury Officer, Quetta, with his official seal.

(b) The consignment shall be sent as far as possible by railway only by the most direct route which shall be specified in the pass.

(c) The bulk of the consignment shall not be broken during transit or after arrival at its destination until it has been examined by an officer authorised by the Political Agent, Kalat, or the Political Agent, Sibi, as the case may be, for the purpose.

(d) A duplicate copy of the pass shall be sent by the Treasury Officer, Quetta, to the Political Agent, Kalat, or the Political Agent, Sibi, as the case may be, who shall send an intimation to the Treasury Officer, Quetta, after the consignment has reached its destination and been examined under the preceding clause".

(4) From rule 17, sub-rule (2) the brackets and letter "(a)" and clause (b) shall be omitted.

(5) Rule 20 shall be cancelled.

(6) Rule 23-A and its heading shall be cancelled.

(7) From rule 25 the words "in a form to be prescribed by the Revenue Commissioner" shall be omitted.

(8) The following shall be added as a sub-paragraph to rule 25 :—

"Pure opium in quantities of not less than one seer shall be supplied from the Quetta Treasury on prepayment at the sanctioned issue price to any Kalat State contractor on his producing a pass for the quantity required, signed by the Political Agent under whose political control lies the area of the State for which the consignment is destined".

(9) For rule 26 the following shall be substituted :—

"Forms of licenses, passes, contracts and other documents.

26. The Revenue Commissioner may from time to time prescribe :—

(a) the forms in which licenses, passes and contracts shall be granted ;

(b) the forms for any other proceedings under these rules for which he considers that forms should be provided ; and

(c) the terms and conditions to be inserted in such forms, provided they are consistent with the provisions of the Opium Act, 1878, and of these rules ".

(10) For rule 30 the following shall be substituted :—

"Exemption of certain medicinal preparations.

30. The preparations specified in the annexed schedule may be imported, exported, transported, possessed and sold without restriction, provided that the import of these preparations from foreign countries is permitted only by means other than that of the post ".

No. 296—A.-R.—This office Notification No. 4370—R., dated the 15th December 1913, as subsequently amended, is hereby cancelled.

(b) As an Engineer of the 2nd class to any person who holds a competency certificate as a second class Engineer, granted by or under the authority of any Local Government in India.

(c) As an Engine-driver of the 1st class, provided the candidate is able to answer practical questions put to him by the Board of Examining Engineers regarding the management of engines and boilers—

(i) to any person who has served three years in a workshop as an apprentice or fitter and has been employed during that time in fitting engines and machinery; who has also been employed for not less than three years in charge of engines and boilers, and can produce testimonials of his experience and good character;

(ii) to any person who has been granted a certificate as an Engine-driver of the 1st class by or under the authority of any Local Government in India;

(iii) to students of the Technical and Mechanical Apprentice Classes of the Thomason College, Roorki, and to students of the Victoria Diamond Jubilee Hindu Technical Institute, Lahore, who have completed a three years' course, have obtained after examination a final College certificate, and have had one year's practical experience on engines and boilers after leaving the College.

(d) As an Engine-driver of the 2nd class, provided the candidate is able to answer practical questions put to him by the Board of Examining Engineers regarding the magagement of engines or boilers:—

(i) to any person who has worked on the running and fitting of engines or boilers for a period of not less than five years and can produce testimonials of his experience and good character;

(ii) to any person who has been granted a certificate as an Engine-driver of the 2nd class by or under the authority of any Local Government in India;

(iii) to students of the Technical and Mechanical Apprentice Classes of the Thomason College, Roorki, and to students of the Victoria Diamond Jubilee Hindu Technical Institute, Lahore, who have completed a three years' course and obtained after examination a final College certificate.

4. The Board may at their discretion grant certificates after examination:—

(a) As an Engineer of the 1st class to any person who already holds a 2nd class competency certificate or 1st class service certificate granted by or under the authority of any Local Government in India.

(b) As an Engineer of the 2nd class—

(i) to any person who has served for not less than three years as an apprentice, and for not less than two years on the running and fitting of engines and boilers, and can produce testimonials of character and conduct;

(ii) to any person who holds a certificate as an Engine-driver of the 1st class granted under rule 3 (c);

(iii) to students of the Victoria Institute, Bombay, who have completed their full course of study and obtained the final diploma in Mechanical Engineering, and have also had one year's practical experience on engines and boilers after leaving the College.

5. The examination held under rule 4 shall be partly written and partly practical.

The subjects of the examination and the proportion of marks required to qualify for each class of certificates shall be prescribed by the Board, and shall be published in the Punjab Government Gazette.

6. The following fees are prescribed:—

	Rs.
(a) For every application presented to the Board asking for a certificate	4
(b) For every 1st class Engineer's certificate granted after examination	20
(c) For every first class Engineer's certificate granted without examination.	10
(d) For every 2nd class Engineer's certificate granted after examination.	15
(e) For every second class Engineer's certificate granted without examination.	6
(f) For every Engine-driver's certificate	3

These fees, after the deduction of 10 per cent for contingent charges, shall be divided among the members of the Board who take part in the examination, or, where there is no examination, grant the certificate.

7. Applications for certificates shall be made, and the fees shall be paid, to the Chairman of the Board.

8. The Chairman shall keep an account of the fees received and of the payments made to members.

9. The Chairman shall fix the date and time of the examination, and shall notify the date and time in the public press.

The 31st January 1916.

Notice is hereby given that a petition for winding up the above named Bank under the supervision of the Court, for transfer of the proceedings of the winding up from the Court of the District Judge of Delhi to the Court of the Special Liquidation Judge, Lahore, and for transfer of the applications filed by the creditors at Delhi for the winding up under the supervision of the Court, to the Chief Court, for decision of those applications with this petition, was on the 17th day of January 1916 presented to the Chief Court by Mr. Jai Gopal Sethi, Advocate, on behalf of B. G. Pandya, Liquidator of the said Bank:

And whereas it has been directed that the said petition shall come up for hearing before the said Court on the 25th day of February 1916: Notice is hereby given to any creditor or contributory of the said Bank desirous of opposing the making of an order for the winding up of the said Bank under the supervision of the Court under the Indian Companies Act, VII of 1913, to appear in the Chief Court of the Punjab at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the 25th day of February 1916, either in person, or by an Advocate, or Pleader of this Court, or by Agent duly authorised.

It is further notified that a copy of the petition presented to the Court by the Liquidator aforementioned will be furnished to any creditor or contributory of the Bank requiring the same, on application to this Court, and on payment of the regulated charge for the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Chief Court of the Punjab, this 28th day of January 1916.

By order, etc.,

F. A. LEMEUR,
Deputy Registrar.

No. 6.—The following Statutes are published for general information :—

1. Indian Civil Service (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1915—

(5 and 6 Geo. 5, Ch. 87.)

An Act to enable persons during the continuance of the War, and for a period of two years thereafter, to be appointed or admitted to the Indian Civil Service without examination. A. D. 1915.

[The 23rd December, 1915.]

Be it enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

1.—(1) The Secretary of State in Council may, with the advice and assistance of the Civil Service Commissioners, make rules providing for the admission and appointment to the Indian Civil Service by the Secretary of State in Council, during the continuance of the Power to India Service examin present war, and for a period not exceeding two years thereafter, of British subjects possessing such qualifications with respect to age and otherwise as may be prescribed by the rules, notwithstanding that they have not been certified as being entitled for appointment as the result of examination in accordance with the regulations and rules made under section thirty-two of the Government of India Act, 1858, and section ninety-seven of the Government of India Act, 1915 :

21 & 22 Vict. c. 106. 5 & 6 Geo. 5. c. 61.

Provided that—

(a) not less than one-fourth of the persons admitted to the Indian Civil Service during such period as aforesaid shall be persons who have been so certified as aforesaid; and

(b) a person shall not be appointed to the Indian Civil Service under the rules made under this section unless the Secretary of State in Council has, with the advice and assistance of the Civil Service Commissioners, satisfied himself, in such manner, as may be prescribed by the rules, that such person possesses the necessary educational qualifications.

(2) The provisions as to the laying before Parliament of regulations and rules made under the said sections thirty-two and ninety-seven shall apply to the rules made under this section.

Short title.

2. This Act may be cited as the Indian Civil Service (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1915.

No. 425-D.—The following extract from an Order in Council dated the 30th November further amending the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, made by His Majesty in Council under the Defence of the Realm Consolidation Act, 1914, as subsequently amended, is published for general information.

"2. After Regulation 14B the following regulation shall be inserted :—

"14C.—(1) A person coming from or intending to proceed to any place out of the United Kingdom as a passenger shall not, without the special permission of a Secretary of State, land or embark at any port in the United Kingdom unless he has in his possession a valid passport issued to him not more than two years previously, by or on behalf of the Government of the country of which he is a subject or a citizen, or, in the case of a person coming from a place outside the United Kingdom, either such a passport or some other document satisfactorily establishing his nationality and identity.

"To every such passport and document as aforesaid there must be attached a photograph of the person to whom it relates.

"In the case of British subjects resident in Ireland special permission to embark may be given by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland instead of by a Secretary of State.

"(2) If any person lands or embarks in contravention of this regulation, or if, where any such special permission to land has been granted by a Secretary of State subject to any conditions, the person to whom it was granted fails to comply with any such condition, he shall be guilty of a summary offence against these regulations.

"(3) For the purposes of this regulation the expression 'passenger' includes any person carried on a ship other than the master and persons employed in the work or service of the ship."

JUDICIAL.

No. 135.—IN pursuance of section 2 of the Defence of India (Criminal Law Amendment) Act, 1915 (IV of 1915), the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the following amendment shall be made in the Defence of India (Consolidation) Rules, 1915, namely :—

After rule 25 of the said rules, the following rules shall be inserted, namely :—

"25 A. (1) No person shall, without lawful excuse, collect, record, publish or communicate, or attempt to elicit, any information with respect to the movements, numbers, description, condition or disposition of any of the forces, ships or war materials of His Majesty or any of His Majesty's Allies, or with respect to the plans or conduct, or supposed plans or conduct of any naval or military operations by any such forces or ships, or with respect to any works or measures undertaken for, or connected with, or intended for, the fortification or defence of any place, or any information of such a nature as is calculated to be or might be, directly or indirectly, useful to the enemy; and no person shall, without such excuse, have in his possession any document containing any such information.

Prohibition of obtaining, communicating or possessing naval and military information without lawful excuse.

(2) Whoever contravenes any of the provisions of this rule shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to seven years, or with fine or with both.

(3) Whoever, with the intention of assisting the King's enemies, has, since the commencement of the present war, done any of the acts referred to in sub-rule (1) shall be punishable with death, transportation for life, or imprisonment which may extend to ten years.

Prohibition of communications with spies.

25 B. (1) The expression 'spy' in this rule includes any person who has, since the commencement of the present war, done or attempted to do any of the acts referred to in rule 25 A. (1) and who is reasonably suspected of having done so with the intention of assisting the King's enemies, and any person out of British India who is, or who is reasonably suspected of being, a person to whom information has been communicated or attempted to be communicated in contravention of that rule.

(2) Whoever, without lawful excuse, communicates, or attempts to communicate with a spy, shall, unless he proves that he did not know, and had no reason to suspect, that the person with whom he so communicated or attempted to communicate was a spy, be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to seven years, or with fine or with both.

(3) Whoever, with the intention of assisting the King's enemies has been, since the commencement of the present war, in communication with, or has attempted to communicate with a spy, shall be punishable with death, transportation for life, or imprisonment which may extend to ten years.

(4) A person may, unless he proves the contrary, be deemed to be in communication with a spy if the name or address or any other information regarding a spy is supplied by him to any other person, in such circumstances as to give reasonable ground for suspecting that he is in communication with the spy.

(5) Any address, whether within or without British India, reasonably suspected of being an address used for the receipt of communications intended for the King's enemies, may be deemed to be the address of a spy, and communications addressed to that address to be communications with a spy."

No. 136.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 113 of the Indian Army Act, 1911 (VIII of 1911), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that persons wishing to serve as labourers or porters in the Indian Supply (Porter) Coolie Corps, for the duration of the present war, shall be enrolled on the following form :—

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

INDIAN SUBORDINATE MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

ASSISTANT SURGEON BRANCH.

No. 137.—With reference to Army Department Notification No. 39, dated the 2nd January 1915, the following rules for the grant of study leave to Military Assistant Surgeons of the Indian Subordinate Medical Department are published :—

RULES FOR THE GRANT OF STUDY LEAVE TO ASSISTANT SURGEONS OF THE INDIAN SUBORDINATE MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

1. Extra furlough for the purpose of study may be granted to Assistant Surgeons of the Indian Subordinate Medical Department on the recommendation of the Director General, Indian Medical Service.

2. The period of such study leave will be calculated at the rate of one-twelfth of pension service, up to a total of 12 months in all during an Assistant Surgeon's service.

3. Study leave may be taken at any time, but will not be granted more than twice during the whole period of service. The conversion under Rule 8 of part of an Assistant Surgeon's furlough into study leave does not count as a grant of study leave within the meaning of this rule.

4. The minimum period of study, which will render an Assistant Surgeon eligible for study leave, will be two months out of, or one month in, India. The minimum period of leave granted solely as study leave shall be six months out of, and six weeks in, India. Time spent on the journey to, from, and in India, by an Assistant Surgeon whose study leave is not combined with any other kind of leave, will reckon as study leave, but the allowances specified in Rule 10 will be granted during the period of study only. An Assistant Surgeon whose study leave is combined with any other kind of leave will, however, be required to take his period of study leave at such a time as to retain at its conclusion a balance of other previously sanctioned leave, sufficient to cover his return journey to rejoin his appointment.

5. When an Assistant Surgeon has been granted a definite period of study leave and finds after arrival in England that his course of study will fall short of the sanctioned period to any considerable extent, his absence from India will be reduced by the excess period of study leave, unless he produces the assent of the authorities in India to his taking it as ordinary furlough.

6. Study leave can be combined with any other kind of leave, provided the period occupied in study is not less than one month and, in case of leave on medical certificate, provided the Medical Board at the India Office certifies that the Assistant Surgeon is fit for study. Study leave cannot be prefixed or affixed to combined privilege leave and furlough if the total period would thereby exceed eight months, but study leave may be so taken provided such leave is for not less than one month and the total period of combined privilege leave, furlough and study leave does not exceed eight months; this limitation to eight months does not, however, apply in the case of study leave combined with privilege leave alone. The total period of absence from duty in India will be strictly limited to two years.

7. Except as provided in Rule 8, all applications for study leave shall be submitted, with the Audit Officer's certificate, to the Director General, Indian Medical Service, through the prescribed channel, and the course or courses of study contemplated and any examination the candidate proposes to undergo shall be clearly specified therein.

8. Assistant Surgeons on furlough who wish to have part of their furlough converted into study leave, should address the Under Secretary of State, India Office, and should furnish a statement showing how it is proposed to spend the study leave. Similarly, Assistant Surgeons on furlough or other leave, who desire to have it extended for purposes of study, should address the Under Secretary of State; but, in addition to the statement of proposed study, they must support their applications with documentary evidence of their having obtained the approval of the authorities concerned in India to their applying for an extension of leave.

9. An Assistant Surgeon who is at home on combined leave may be permitted to commence a course of study before the end of his privilege leave and to draw for such period the allowance admissible under Rule 10 without forfeiting his privilege leave allowances during such period.

For all purposes of record and subsequent calculation of leave, the full amount of study leave taken shall in such cases be postdated, as if it commenced at the end of the privilege leave.

10. The rates of pay and allowances admissible to Assistant Surgeons while on study leave will be as follows :—

I. Out of India.—Furlough pay plus an allowance of 4 shillings per diem.

II. In India.—Grade pay plus an allowance of Rs. 50 per mensem.

The allowances of 4 shillings per diem and Rs. 50 per mensem noted above will be granted on production of the certificates referred to in Rule 12.

11. It is to be understood that, in order to qualify for the grant of study leave for the receipt of the allowances referred to above, a definite course of study at a recognised institution, which will occupy the time of the Assistant Surgeon for 5 or 6 days a week, must be pursued. The allowances referred to above will be admissible up to 14 days for any period of vacation. A period during which an Assistant Surgeon interrupts his course for his own convenience cannot be considered as vacation. In the case of an Assistant Surgeon retiring from the service without returning to India after a period of study leave, the allowances will be forfeited.

12. On completion of a course of study in Great Britain, a certificate on the proper form (which may be obtained from the India Office), together with any certificates of special study, should be forwarded to the Under Secretary of State, India Office, who will arrange for the transmission of copies of the documents to the Director General, Indian Medical Service. Assistant Surgeons may also be called upon to report themselves in person to the President of the Medical Board, India Office, on the conclusion of their course of study. In the case of Assistant Surgeons who have undergone a course of study in India, the certificates referred to above will be forwarded through the Principal of the institution concerned.

13. Study leave will count as service for promotion and pension.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 29th January 1916.

Burma.—Light showers fell in two northern districts of the Province. Threshing and winnowing of winter rice are advancing in Upper Burma. Sowing and transplantation of spring rice and of miscellaneous crops are proceeding satisfactorily. Harvesting of ground nut, sesamum and millet continues. Standing crops generally promise well except in the case of chillies in Meiktila. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen to Rs. 97 per hundred baskets and is slightly below normal. The market for white rice is steady. The supplies are fair.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable and favourable for standing crops. Slight rain fell in most districts. Harvesting of winter rice has been finished and its outturn on the whole is good. Ploughing of land for rice and jute, pressing of sugarcane, gathering of mustard and pulses, plucking of cotton and hoeing and pruning of tea are in progress. Transplantation of spring rice in Sylhet and preparation of land for jhum cultivation in hill districts continue. Prospects of tea are good. Mustard and pulses are in fair condition. The price of common rice has risen slightly. Cattle disease is reported from four districts.

Bengal.—The week was practically rainless. Reaping and pressing of sugarcane and preparation of fields for jute and other autumn crops are in progress. Prospects of standing crops are generally reported to be fairly satisfactory. Cattle disease is reported from four districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen by about 1·3 per cent as compared with that of the preceding week.

The report on scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas are generally unchanged. Scarcity of fodder is apprehended. Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Loans continue to be given freely. The price of rice is 8½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 6,925 and on gratuitous relief 13,247, total 20,172. The number of persons relieved on private works was 1,504. In the Tippera district considerable distress prevails in limited areas in the Brahmanbaria sub-division but it is not acute in the Sadar sub-division. There is no marked change in the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas. Distribution of loans continues. Cholera is decreasing. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 2,284 and on gratuitous relief 6,300, total 8,584. The number of persons relieved on works by the Sarail Wards Estate was 511.

Bihar and Orissa.—The week was rainless. Harvesting of paddy has been completed in most districts and that of oilseeds has begun. Pressing of sugarcane is going on in some districts. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 4,520 and in Singhbhum 4,445. Gratuitous relief was given to 631 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—With the exception of slight rain in the Tehri State the week was rainless. Rain is still urgently needed in the north and west of the Provinces where the crops are reported to be suffering from drought. The demand for rain is gradually extending eastwards. Irrigation of spring crops and of poppy, weeding of poppy, pressing of and preparation of land for sugarcane and sowing of extra crops are in progress. Standing crops are generally doing well. Agricultural stock is in good condition and very little cattle disease is now reported. Fodder and water are sufficient but the former is still dear in the Muzaffarnagar, Meerut, Bulandshahr, Aligarh, Muttra and Sitapur districts. Markets are well supplied. Prices are practically stationary with a slight tendency to fall.

Punjab.—Light rain has fallen in all the reporting districts except in parts of the south, east and west. It was quite insufficient and more rain is urgently wanted everywhere. The condition and prospect of the standing wheat and other spring crops on irrigated areas are generally normal but on unirrigated lands the crops are poor and on the higher lands they are drying up for want of rain. Pressing of sugar-cane and harvesting of toria continue in some districts with their yield normal. Ploughing for and sowing of extra spring crops have commenced in a few districts. Cattle are generally healthy but are becoming weak owing to scarcity of fodder in the south, east and west. Water for drinking and canal irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and range between warning and above scarcity rates. Price of wheat :—Amballa 8¼, Lahore and Rawalpindi 8¾, Ferozpur 9 and Lyallpur 9¾ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Rain averaging from 21 cents in Bannu to 1 inch and 82 cents in Hazara fell during the week throughout the Province, proving beneficial to standing crops. The weather is cold and cloudy. The condition of standing irrigated crops is average but that of unirrigated crops is poor in Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan. Sowing of sugarcane is in progress in the Bannu tahsil and its pressing is still proceeding in the Peshawar and Bannu tahsils. The yield is reported to be average in the Peshawar district and below average in the Bannu district. The condition of cattle is good except in the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district. Fodder is generally sufficient but it is scanty in the Nowshera tahsil of the Peshawar district and in the unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil. Water also is reported to be scarce in the unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil and in some villages of the Dera Ismail Khan district. The public health is good. Prices are high and stationary in Peshawar. Prices of maize in Bannu and of bajra in Dera Ismail Khan are is ng slightly and of wheat and grain in Dera Ismail Khan are falling.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 10 and maize from 11 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is average but it is dependent on future rains. Cattle disease prevails in the Ramban tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—The average rainfall was $\frac{3}{8}$th of an inch in the Baramula district and 3 cents in Muzafferabad. Slight rain fell in Anantnag. The condition of standing crops is bad in Anantnag and Baramula and fair in Muzafferabad. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder and irrigation are insufficient. Small pox prevails in Baramula, Badgam and Srinagar. Prices are unchanged.

Rajputana.—The weather is generally clear and cold. Rain is badly needed in Bikaner, Eastern and Central Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara. Irrigation, where possible, is in progress. Standing crops on wet areas are in fair to good condition. Pasturage and fodder are generally deficient and in consequence the cattle are in a weak condition in the affected areas. Water is insufficient in Marwar and Tonk. Cattle disease is reported in Kotah and in parts of Dungarpur and Tonk. Prices are falling in Jhalawar, Kishengarh and Bharatpur, rising in Mewar, Jaipur and Karauli and stationary elsewhere The number of persons on test works in Merwara was 996 and in Karauli 338.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week. Rain has been insufficient in Gwalior, in some parganas of the Mehidpur and Rampura-Bhanpura districts of the Indore State and in the Orcha State in the Bundelkhand Agency and sufficient elsewhere. Cotton picking has been finished in Indore and is in progress in Malwa. Sugarcane is being pressed in Gwalior. Irrigation of spring crops is in progress almost everywhere. Standing crops are in good condition throughout. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except for cattle disease in the Gohad, Bijaipur, Pichhor, Bajranggarh, Mandasor and Jawad parganas in the Gwalior State and the Kannod, Khategaon and Rampura mahals of the Indore State and in parts of Dhar and Barwani in the Southern States. The fodder supply is good in Gwalior except in parts of the Malwa Prant, fair in the Malwa Agency and sufficient elsewhere. Prices are high in Baghelkhand, normal in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been clear. The nights and the mornings are still cool but the days are getting warm. Harvesting, threshing and winnowing of autumn crops and picking of cotton have nearly been completed. Spring crops are generally in good condition but a shower of rain would improve the prospects. Fodder and water are sufficient. Agricultural tock is in good condition. Prices of staple food grains remained almost stationary.

Feudatory States.—The condition of spring crops is generally good. Prices are almost stationary.

Bombay.—Slight rain fell in Karachi. Standing crops are generally in good condition. Harvesting of autumn crops is progressing in the Deccan and the Karnatak. Cotton picking continues in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Gujarat, Dharwar, Baroda and Rewa Kantha. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Karachi, Larkana, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Cutch, Kathiawar and Baroda. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in parts of Karachi, Larkana and Hyderabad. Drinking water is generally adequate Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Thar and Parkar, Kaira, Ahmedabad, Kathiawar and Baroda. Prices of food grains are generally steady.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. Cotton, castor seed and groundnut are being picked in a few parts. Spring crops are generally in fair to good condition and are being harvested in many places. They have been somewhat damaged by rats in parts of the Usmanabad district. Late rice lands are being prepared in a few places and sown generally. Germination of the crop is satisfactory. The health of cattle is generally good but disease prevails in four talukas. Prices of grains are almost constant. Coarse rice is selling at 10 and white juar at 12 seers per rupee in the Hyderabad city. The highest price of juar in districts is 10 seers per rupee in Gulburga, Medak and Warangal and the lowest 25 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell during the week. The price of ragi has risen slightly in Bangalore and of rice and ragi in Kolar. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are generally in good condition. The outturn of the harvested sugarcane is good and that of paddy and ragi is fair. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Agricultural prospects are good. Picking of coffee and threshing of rice continue. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Fodder for cattle is sufficient.

Madras.—No rain fell during the week. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but are withering or require more rain in parts of five districts. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding or are being completed normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient except in parts of Anantapur, Chingleput, South Arcot, Madura, Tinnevelly and the central parts except Coimbatore. Pasture is sufficient except in Bellary and in parts of two other districts. Fodder is sufficient except in parts of four districts. Prices are stationary.

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

Calcutta, the 7th February 1916.

No. 204.—With reference to Notification No. 4013-33, dated the 6th June 1914, of the Government of India, Department of Commerce and Industry, publishing rules to regulate the manufacture, possession, sale, transport and importation of explosives, the following list of "authorized explosives" referred to in rule 4 (3) of the above rules is published for general information :—

LIST OF AUTHORIZED EXPLOSIVES.

The following explosives are at present authorized for importation into British India, for general sale :—

CLASS 1.—GUNPOWDER.

The term "gunpowder" means gunpowder ordinarily so called.

GUNPOWDER.

CLASS 2.—NITRATE MIXTURE.

The term "nitrate mixture" means any preparation, other than gunpowder ordinarily so called, formed by the mechanical mixture of a nitrate with any form of carbon or with any carbonaceous substance not possessed of explosive properties, whether sulphur be or be not added to such preparation, and whether such preparation be or be not mechanically mixed with any other non-explosive substance.

EVERY BLASTING EXPLOSIVE IN THIS CLASS, IN WHICH NITRATE OF AMMONIUM, NITRATE OF SODIUM OR CHLORIDE OF SODIUM ARE USED AS INGREDIENTS, SHALL BE CONTAINED IN CATRIDGE WRAPPERS OR CASES (OR IN FIVE-POUND INNER PACKAGES) MADE THOROUGHLY WATERPROOF WITH MELTED PARAFFIN OR OTHER SUITABLE WATERPROOFING MATERIAL.

AMMONAL. "B."

CHILWORTH SPECIAL POWDER.

CLASS 3.—NITRO-COMPOUND.

The term "nitro-compound" means any chemical compound possessed of explosive properties, or capable of combining with metals to form an explosive compound, which is produced by the chemical action of nitric acid (whether mixed) or not with sulphuric acid or of a nitrate mixed with sulphuric acid, upon any carbonaceous substance, whether such compound is mechanically mixed with other substances or not.

The nitro-compound class has two divisions.

EVERY EXPLOSIVE IN THIS CLASS AND EVERY EXPLOSIVE INGREDIENT THEREOF SHALL BE SO THOROUGHLY PURIFIED AND OTHERWISE OF SUCH CHARACTER AS TO SATISFY A TEST KNOWN AS THE HEAT TEST, AND SPECIFIED IN THE RULE FOR TESTING EXPLOSIVES PUBLISHED WITH NOTIFICATION No. 4013-33, DATED THE 6TH JUNE 1914, REFERRED TO ABOVE.

EVERY BLASTING EXPLOSIVE IN THIS CLASS, IN WHICH NITRATE OF AMMONIUM, NITRATE OF SODIUM OR CHLORIDE OF SODIUM ARE USED AS INGREDIENTS, SHALL BE CONTAINED IN CARTRIDGE WRAPPERS OR CASES (OR IN FIVE POUND INNER PACKAGES) MADE THOROUGHLY WATERPROOF WITH MELTED PARAFFIN OR OTHER SUITABLE WATERPROOFING MATERIAL.

DIVISION 1.

Division 1 comprises the following explosives and any chemical compound or mechanically mixed preparation which consists either wholly or partly of nitro-glycerine or of some other liquid nitro-compound.

Ardeer Gelignite.
A. 1. Monobel or Victor Powder.
Ballistite.
Blasting Gelatine.
Cambrite.
Carbonite.
Celtite.
Chilworth Smokeless Powder, No. 2.
Cordite.
Cordite, M. D.
Dynamite.
Dynobel.
Farmer's Dynamite.
Gelatine Dynamite.
Gelignite.
Monobel, No. 1.
Phœnix Powder.
Samsonite.

PROVIDED THAT EVERY EXPLOSIVE IN THIS DIVISION SHALL BE OF SUCH CHARACTER AND CONSISTENCY AS NOT TO BE LIABLE TO LIQUEFACTION OR EXUDATION.

PROVIDED ALSO THAT AN EXPLOSIVE WHICH IS REQUIRED BY DEFINITION TO BE ISSUED IN WATERPROOF INNER PACKAGES MAY BE EXEMPTED FROM SUCH REQUIREMENT BY SPECIAL AUTHORITY, WHEN AND SO LONG AS THE CONDITIONS OF SUCH AUTHORITY ARE OBSERVED.

DIVISION 2.

Division 2 comprises the following explosives and any nitro-compound as before defined, which is not comprised in Division 1.

Amberite, No. 2.
Chilworth Smokeless Powder.
Chilworth Smokeless Sporting Powder.
E. C. Sporting Powder.
Empire Powder.
Guncotton.
Ideal Powder.
Imperial Schultze Gunpowder.
Negro Powder, No. 2.
Neonite.
Nobel's Special Powder or Ideal Powder.
N. S. Smokeless.
Picric Acid.
Picric Powder.
Primrose Smokeless.
Rendite.
Roburite.
Ruby Powder.
Schultze Cube Powder.
Schultze Gunpowder.
Smokeless Diamond.
Tonite or Cotton Powder.

CLASS 4.—CHLORATE MIXTURE.

The term "chlorate-mixture" means any explosive containing a chlorate.

The chlorate-mixture class has two divisions.

EVERY EXPLOSIVE IN THIS CLASS, AND EVERY EXPLOSIVE INGREDIENT THEREOF, SHALL BE SO THOROUGHLY PURIFIED AND OTHERWISE OF SUCH A CHARACTER AS TO SATISFY A TEST KNOWN AS THE HEAT TEST, AND SPECIFIED IN THE RULE FOR TESTING EXPLOSIVES, PUBLISHED WITH NOTIFICATION No. 4013-33, DATED THE 6TH JUNE 1914, REFERRED TO ABOVE.

EVERY BLASTING EXPLOSIVE IN THIS CLASS, IN WHICH NITRATE OF AMMONIUM, NITRATE OF SODIUM OR CHLORIDE OF SODIUM ARE USED AS INGREDIENTS, SHALL BE CONTAINED IN CARTRIDGE WRAPPERS OR CASES (OR IN FIVE-POUND INNER PACKAGES) MADE THOROUGHLY WATERPROOF WITH MELTED PARAFFIN OR OTHER SUITABLE WATERPROOFING MATERIAL.

DIVISION 1.

Division 1 comprises any chlorate preparation which consists partly of nitro-glycerine or of some other liquid nitro-compound.

Nil.

PROVIDED THAT EVERY EXPLOSIVE IN THIS DIVISION SHALL BE OF SUCH CHARACTER AND CONSISTENCY AS NOT TO BE LIABLE TO LIQUEFACTION OR EXUDATION.

DIVISION 2.

Division 2 comprises any chlorate mixture as hereinbefore defined, which is not comprised in Division 1.

Nil.

CLASS 5.—FULMINATE.

The term "fulminate" means any chemical compound or mechanical mixture, whether included in the foregoing classes or not, which, from its great susceptibility to detonation, is suitable for employment in percussion caps or any other appliances for developing detonation, or which, from its extreme sensibility to explosion, and from its great instability (that is to say, readiness to undergo decomposition from very slight exciting causes) is especially dangerous.

This class consists of two divisions.

DIVISION 1.

Division 1 comprises such compounds as the fulminates of silver and of mercury, and preparations of those substances, such as are used in percussion caps; and any preparation consisting of a mixture of a chlorate with phosphorus or certain descriptions of compounds of phosphorus, with or without the addition of carbonaceous matter, and any preparation consisting of a mixture of a chlorate with sulphur, or with a sulphuret, with or without carbonaceous matter.

Nil.

DIVISION 2.

Division 2 comprises such substances as the chloride and iodide of nitrogen, fulminating gold and silver, diazobenzol, and the nitrate of diazobenzol.

Nil.

CLASS 6.—AMMUNITION.

The term "ammunition" means any explosive of any of the foregoing classes when the same is enclosed in any case or contrivance, or is otherwise adapted or prepared so as to form a cartridge or charge, for small-arms, cannon or any other weapon, or for blasting, or to form any safety or other fuze for blasting or for shells, or to form any tube for firing explosives or to form a percussion cap, detonator, fog-signal, shell, torpedo, war-rocket, or any other contrivance other than a firework.

*The term "percussion cap" does not include a detonator.

The term "detonator" means a capsule or case which is of such strength and construction and contains, fulminate in such quantity, that the explosion of one capsule or case would communicate the explosion to other like capsules or cases.

The term "safety fuze" means a fuze for blasting which burns and does not explode, and which does not contain its own means of ignition, and which is of such strength and construction and contains an explosive in such quantity that the burning of such fuze will not communicate laterally with other like fuzes.

The ammunition class has three divisions.

DIVISION 1.

Nobel's Safety Electric Time Fuze.
Percussion Caps.
Railway Fog Signals.
Safety Cartridges.
Safety Fuzes for Blasting.
Safety Electric Fuzes.

DIVISION 2.

Division 2 comprises any ammunition, as hereinbefore defined, which does not contain its own means of ignition, and is not included in Division 1.

Cartridges for Cannon, Shells, Mines, Blasting or other like purposes.

Cartridges for Small Arms which are not Safety Cartridges.

Cordeau Bickford.

Electric Fuzes.

Filled Shells not containing their own means of ignition and closed by a substantial metal plug.

Fuze lighters.

Fuzes for Shells,

Instantaneous Fuze.

Port Fires.

Tubes for firing Explosives.

Quick Match.

War Rockets.

*In consequence of the results of experiments carried out, it has been decided that a percussion cap can only be properly classed as such if it contains less than 0·6 grain of a composition of the 1st Division of the fifth (Fulminate Class of which not more than 25 per cent. consists of fulminate of mercury, or less than 0·5 grain of any other explosive of the 1st Division of the 5th (Fulminate) Class; and it has been further decided that percussion caps shall not be classed as such when they contain anvils or have their composition unprotected by tin foil or other suitable substance, as under those circumstances they are liable to explode en masse.

DIVISION 3.

Division 3 comprises any ammunition as hereinbefore defined which contains its own means of ignition, and is not included in Division 1.

Cartridges for Small Arms which are not Safety Cartridges.

Detonators.

Electric Detonators.

Friction Tubes.

Fuzes for Shells.

Nobel's Electric Detonator Time Fuze.

Primers.

Quick firing Ammunition.

Tubes for firing Explosives.

CLASS 7.—FIREWORK.

DIVISION 1.—FIREWORK COMPOSITION.

The term "firework composition" means any chemical compound or mechanically mixed preparation of an explosive or inflammable nature, which is used for the purpose of making manufactured fireworks, and is not included in the former classes of explosives, and also any star and any coloured fire composition, subject to the proviso to the definition of manufactured fireworks.

Nil.

DIVISION 2.—MANUFACTURED FIREWORKS.

MANUFACTURED FIREWORKS, consisting of any explosive of the classes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 6, and any firework composition, when such explosive or composition is enclosed in any case or contrivance or is otherwise manufactured so as to form a squib, cracker, toy cap or amorce, serpent, rocket (other than a war-rocket), maroon, lance, wheel, Chinese fire, Roman candle, or other article specially adopted for the production of pyrotechnic effects or pyrotechnic signals, or sound signals.

Provided that a substantially constructed and hermetically closed case, containing not more than one pound of coloured fire composition of such a nature as not to be liable to spontaneous ignition shall be deemed to be a "manufactured firework" and not a "firework composition."

Manufactured Fireworks.

Aluminium Torches.

Amorces.

Chinese Crackers.

Electric Sparklers.

Magnesium Torches.

Pyrotechnic Matches.

Rockets.

Signal Lights.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 12th February 1916.

Burma.—The week was rainless. Threshing and winnowing of winter rice have been nearly completed. Transplantation of spring crops and harvesting of miscellaneous crops, cotton and groundnut are progressing. Standing crops are generally in good condition. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice has risen slightly at Rangoon to rupees 92 per hundred baskets but is still below normal.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Light rain fell in some districts. Ploughing of land for rice and jute, hoeing and pruning of tea, pressing of sugarcane and harvesting ot mustard are in progress. Transplantation of spring rice in Sylhet and preparation of land for jhum cultivation in hill districts continue. Prospects of tea are good. The outturn of mustard is fair. The price of common rice is almost stationary. Cattle disease is reported from six districts.

Bengal.—No rain fell during the week excepting some slight and scattered showers in parts of the Rajshahi division. Rain is urgently needed for ploughing operations for autumn crops. Reaping and pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of potatoes and pulses are in progress. Standing spring crops have suffered to some extent owing to the continued absence of rain. The present prospects are reported to be fair. Cattle disease is reported from six districts. The average price of common rice for the Province fell by about 1·3 per cent as compared with that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas are generally unchanged but the distress is tending to increase Scarcity of fodder is apprehended. Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Loans continue to be given freely. The price of rice is 8½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 8,231 and on gratuitous relief 15,016, total 23,247. The number of persons relieved on private works was 5,244. In the Tippera district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas are generally unchanged. Distribution of loans continues. The price of rice is 7¾ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 1,198 and on gratuitous relief 4,301, total 5,499. The number of persons relieved on works by the Sarail Wards Estate was 966.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain fell in parts of Shahabad, Saran, Champaran, the Santal Parganas, Angul, Hazaribagh and Ranchi. There was no rain in the rest of the Province. Harvesting of oilseeds has commenced Pressing of sugarcane is going on. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in parts of Hazaribagh where the latter is reported to be scarce. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 2,882 and in Singhbhum 1,154. Gratuitous relief was given to 816 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—With the exception of slight showers in a few districts and in the Rampur State and good rain in the Tehri State the week was rainless. Rain is still urgently needed in the north and west of the Provinces where crops are suffering from drought. Irrigation and weeding of spring crops and of poppy, pressing of and preparation of land for sugarcane, sowing of extra crops and harvesting of peas continue. Standing crops are generally doing well in irrigated tracts but damage by frost is reported from many districts Agricultural stock is in good condition and little cattle disease exists. Fodder is sufficient everywhere but it is dear in places. Water is sufficient everywhere except in parts of the Jhansi district. Markets are well supplied. The level of prices remains practically unchanged with a slight downward tendency.

Punjab.—Light rain was received in almost all the reporting districts. It has benefited the standing crops but it is not sufficient and more rain is urgently wanted everywhere. The condition and prospects of wheat and other crops are generally fair on irrigated and below average on unirrigated areas in parts of the south-east and west. Unirrigated crops are withering for want of rain. Pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue in some districts with yield normal. Sowings of extra spring crops are in progress in a few districts and are normal. Cattle are generally healthy but are becoming weak owing to want of fodder. Water for drinking and canal irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary but have fallen slightly in some districts and still range between warning and above scarcity rates. Price of wheat :—Ambala 8¼, Lahore 8¾, Ferozepore 9, Rawalpindi 9½ and Lyallpur 9¾ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was cloudy and beneficial rain has fallen. More rain is still required in Dera Ismail Khan. Standing crops are average in Peshawar and on irrigated tracts of Dera Ismail Khan and above average in Bannu but they are poor on unirrigated areas of Dera Ismail Khan and of the Nowshera tahsil. Sowing of sugarcane continues in Bannu and its pressing is proceeding in the Peshawar district and in the Bannu tahsil with outturn average in the former and below average in the latter. Cattle are in good condition except in unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil where their condition is bad. Fodder is sufficient in the Swabi and Nowshera tahsils of the Peshawar district and in unirrigated areas of the Lakki tahsil and dear in Dera Ismail Khan. The public health is good. Prices are high and are rising in the case of barley and maize in Peshawar and in the case of all food grains in the Lakki tahsil but are falling in the case of gram in Peshawar bazar and in Dera Ismail Khan and in the case of wheat and gram in the Bannu tahsil.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 10 and maize from 11 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of a mild type prevails in the Basohli tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—Good rain fell during the week. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder is insufficient in Baramula. Water is inadequate. Prices are high.

Rajputana.—The weather is cold. Rain is badly needed in Bikaner, eastern Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara. Irrigation, where possible, is in progress. The condition of standing crops on wet areas is fair to good but they are withering on dry lands in Tonk and Merwara. Some damage to crops by frost and cold winds is reported in Marwar, parts of the southern Rajputana States, the Hilly Tracts, central and eastern Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara. Fodder is generally scarce. The condition of cattle is generally deteriorating owing to the deficiency of pasturage in the affected areas. The water supply is generally sufficient except in Marwar, Kotah and Tonk. Cattle disease is reported in Kotah and some deaths are reported from Dungarpur and Ajmer-Merwara. Prices are falling in Jaisalmer, Banswara and Jhalawar, rising in the Hilly Tracts, Dungarpur and Partabgarh and steady elsewhere. The number of persons on test works in Merwara was 891 and in Karauli 972. Gratuitous relief was given to 1,162 persons in Merwara.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week except slight showers in Bundelkhand and in parts of the Southern States. Rain has been insufficient in Gwalior, in some parganas of the Mehidpur and Rampura Bhanpura districts of the Indore State and in the Orchha State of the Bundelkhand Agency and sufficient elsewhere. Sugarcane is being pressed in Gwalior. Spring crops are being irrigated almost everywhere. Standing crops are generally in good condition. The probable outturn is fair in Gwalior and Indore and good elsewhere. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except for cattle disease in Gohad, Bijaipur, Bajranggarh, Mandasor, Jawad and Pichhor tahsils of the Gwalior State, Kannod and Rampura mahals of the Indore State and in parts of Dhar, Jhabua, Barwani and Alirajpur in the Southern States. The fodder supply is generally good except in the Sabalgarh, Sipri, Kolaras, Bajranggarh, Shajapur and Shujalpur parganas in the Gwalior State. Prices are high in Baghelkhand, normal in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be cool and occasionally cloudy. Fifteen districts received light showers of rain ranging from 10 cents in Damoh to 91 cents in Mandla. Threshing and winnowing of autumn crops and picking of cotton continue in places. Harvesting of minor spring crops has begun in several districts. They will be benefited by the recent rain but have been somewhat damaged by frost in places in the Jubbulpore and Nerbudda divisions and in Raipur. Fodder and water are sufficient and agricultural stock is in good condition. Prices are generally steady.

Feudatory States.—Three States had light rain. Spring crops are in a flourishing condition. Prices are almost stationary.

Bombay.—Standing crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by winds in Sukkur and the Upper Sind Frontier and by frost in parts of Sind, Gujarat, Baroda, Palanpur and Rewa Kantha. Cotton picking continues in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Gujrat, Dharwar, Kathiawar and Rewa Kantha. Harvesting of spring crops is progressing in parts of the Deccan, the Karnatak, Surat, Rewa Kantha and Kolhapur. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Karachi, Larkana, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Cutch, Kathiawar and Baroda. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in parts of Larkana, Hyderabad and Ahmedabad. Drinking water is generally adequate. Irrigation water is deficient in parts of Thar and Parkar, Kaira, Ahmedabad, Kathiawar and Baroda. Prices of food grains are generally steady.

Hyderabad.—Small showers were received in parts of the Nander and Adilabad districts. Spring crops are generally in fair to good condition but they have been somewhat damaged by rats in parts of the Usmanabad taluka and by insects in parts of the Bodhan taluka. Late rice is being sown and weeded and the crop is in fair to good condition. The health of cattle is generally good. Prices of grains are almost constant. White juar is selling at 12 and coarse rice at 9½ seers per rupee in the Hyderabad city. The highest price of juar in districts is 9½ seers per rupee in Gulbarga and the lowest 24 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell during the week. Prices of rice and ragi have fallen in Hassan and Chitaldrug. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of the harvested paddy, ragi and sugarcane is fair to good. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Agricultural prospects are good. Picking of cotton and threshing of rice continue. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Fodder for cattle is sufficient.

Madras.—Light rain fell in Ganjam, the Vizagapatam littoral, Tanjore, Tinnevelly and the Nilgiris. No rain was received elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but they are withering or have withered in parts of Chingleput and South Arcot and require more rain in parts of North Arcot, Salem, Tanjore and Tinnevelly. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding or are being completed normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient except in parts of Bellary, Anantapur, Chingleput, South Arcot, Madura, Tinnevelly and the central parts except Coimbatore. Pasture is generally sufficient but it is growing scanty in parts of seven districts. Fodder is generally available but it is scarce in parts of three districts. Prices are steady.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

FAMINE.

Delhi, the 18th February 1916.

Twelfth Report of the Board of Management of the Indian People's Famine Trust covering the calendar year 1915.

1. The annual meeting was held on the 25th January 1915.

2. The report and the annual accounts for 1914 were passed at the meeting and a copy was forwarded to the Government of India in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture in accordance with rule 16 of the rules for the administration of the Trust.

3. No payment towards relief was made during the year.

4. During the course of the year the United Provinces Charitable Relief Fund, 1914, refunded a total sum of R11,897-11-3 out of the sum of R1,00,000 granted to them by the Trust for relief purposes during 1914. Of this R38,592-11-3 have been accounted for in 1915 and the balance, R3,305-0-0, having been received too late for inclusion in the accounts for 1915, has been accounted for in 1916.

5. The Honorary Secretary was authorized at the annual meeting to invest temporarily a portion of the current account in the Bank of Bengal and 3½ per cent. Government paper of the nominal value of R1,44,500 was accordingly purchased at a cost of R1,34,973-5-8.

6. The interest realised during the year was utilised partly towards the purchase of Government paper, referred to above, and the balance was placed to the credit of the current account of the Trust.

7. A statement of the assets of the Trust and an abstract of the accounts are given in Schedules I and II annexed.

8. The miscellaneous receipts shown in Schedule II represent the annual subscription of R500 by the Raja of Athgarh for 1912-13.

9. The endowment fund stands at R28,10,000 as in last year.

All notifications and other matter intended for publication in those Parts should be addressed to the Publisher at Delhi and Calcutta, respectively.

Attention is invited to the following Circular Memorandum of the Government of India, Home Department, of August 1901:—

"It has been brought to the notice of this Department that matter for the Gazette of India is sometimes sent to the Press late on Friday evenings for publication in the next day's Gazette and that this involves considerable inconvenience to the Press and expense to Government. In the Circular Memorandum of this Department, No. 777—79, dated 9th February 1870, the Government of India directed that all notifications or other matter intended for insertion in the Gazette of India should be delivered at the Press not later than 2 P.M. on Friday, and that any papers sent thereafter must be certified to be extremely urgent in order to ensure their appearance in the next day's Gazette. The undersigned is directed to request that these orders may be more strictly observed in future, and that Departments will refrain from sending to the Press as extremely urgent any papers which can without harm or inconvenience be held over for the next Gazette.

J. P. HEWETT,
Secretary to the Government of India."

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

G. F. DEMONTMORENCY, for Deputy Commissioner, Delhi, (Afzal.)

Delhi, the 4th February 1916.

CEMETERY NOTICES.

Sargodha, the 22nd January 1916.

With reference to Rule 10, Part IV of the rules published in Government of India's Department of Education—Ecclesiastical notification No. 212, dated 10th May 1913, it is hereby notified that the tomb in the Government cemetery at Shahpur Sadr, of one William Hugh Marchant, an infant son of William Kirk Marchant, stands in urgent need of repairs, estimated to cost about rupees fifteen. The deceased's relatives or friends are requested to undertake to restore the tomb or remit the said sum of Rs. 15 to the Executive Engineer, Shahpur Provincial Division, Roads and Buildings Branch, at Sargodha in the Shahpur District (Punjab).

C. H. ATKINS,
Deputy Commissioner, Shahpur District (Punjab).

The following list may be substituted for the list published in the Gazette of India, Part II of 29th January 1916, pages 180 and 181 :—

Dacca, the 20th January 1916.

The following monuments in the Dacca Cemetery have become dilapidated. Persons interested are invited to communicate with the undersigned and state if they will undertake to restore them. If no communication is received within two months from the date of this notice, the monuments will be treated in such manner as the undersigned may decide for the maintenance of the Cemetery in decent order.

2. This notice is issued under Rule 10 for the care and use of Government Cemeteries in India.

No. 507-C.—The following regulations are published for general information :—

REGULATIONS.

In the exercise of the powers conferred on me by the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"), I, the Right Honourable Austen Chamberlain, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, make the following Regulations :—

FORM OF CERTIFICATE OF NATURALIZATION IN BRITISH INDIA.

1. A certificate of naturalization granted in British India shall, save as otherwise hereinafter prescribed, be in one of the following forms :—

(A) Where the names of children are not included.

BRITISH NATIONALITY AND STATUS OF ALIENS ACT, 1914.

Certificate of Naturalization.

Whereas A.B. has applied for a certificate of naturalization, alleging with respect to himself [herself] the particulars set out below, and has satisfied the Governor-General of India in Council that the conditions laid down in the above-mentioned Act for the grant of a certificate of naturalization are fulfilled in the said A. B.'s case :

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the powers conferred on the Governor-General of India in Council by the said Act, the Governor-General of India in Council hereby grants to the said A.B. this certificate of naturalization, and declares that upon taking the oath of allegiance within the time and in the manner required by the regulations made in that behalf the said A.B. shall, subject to the provisions of the said Act, be entitled to all political and other rights, powers, and privileges, and be subject to all obligations, duties, and liabilities to which a natural-born British subject is entitled or subject, and have to all intents and purposes the status of a natural-born British subject.

In witness whereof I have hereto subscribed my name this day of

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 5th February 1916.

Burma.—Except for slight showers in the Southern Shan States the week was rainless. Threshing and winnowing of winter rice have been nearly completed. Agricultural operations for spring rice and miscellaneous crops are proceeding. Standing crops are generally doing well. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen to Rs. 91 per hundred baskets and is below normal.

Assam.—During the week light rain fell in places. The weather is seasonable. Ploughing of land for rice and jute, pressing of sugarcane, harvesting of mustard, plucking of cotton and hoeing and pruning of tea are in progress. Gathering of pulses has been almost finished. Transplantation of spring rice in Sylhet and preparation of land for jhum cultivation in the rice districts continue. Prospects of tea are good. The outturn of mustard is fair. The price of common rice has fallen slightly. Cattle disease is reported from five districts.

Bengal.—Excepting a slight shower in Darjeeling there was no rain throughout the Province during the week. Prospects of standing crops are reported to be fairly satisfactory but rain is needed to improve their condition. Cutting and pressing of sugarcane are continuing and harvesting of spring crops is going on in places. Preparation of fields for jute and other autumn crops is proceeding. Cattle disease is reported from three districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen slightly as compared with that of the previous week.

The weekly report on scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas are generally unchanged but the distress is tending to increase. Scarcity of fodder is apprehended. Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Loans continue to be given freely. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 7,532 and on gratuitous relief 13,914, total 21,446. The number of persons relieved on private works was 3,167. In the Tippera district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas are generally unchanged. Distribution of loans continues. Cholera has slightly increased. The price of rice is $7\frac{1}{8}$ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 2,415 and on gratuitous relief 5,734, total 8,149. The number of persons relieved on works by the Sarail Wards Estate was 876.

Bihar and Orissa.—There was no rain during the week except light showers in parts of Palamau. Harvesting of paddy has been nearly completed and that of oilseeds has begun. Pressing of sugarcane is in progress. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has fallen slightly as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in parts of Hazaribagh where the latter is reported to be scarce. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 4,646 and in Singbhum 4,210. Gratuitous relief was given to 690 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—Some showers were received in parts of the Himalayan, western submontane, Upper Doab and north central tracts and in the Tehri State but more rain is still urgently needed in these parts of the Provinces. Irrigation and weeding of spring crops and of poppy, pressing of and preparation of land for sugarcane and sowing of extra crops continue. Harvesting of peas has commenced in places. Standing crops are generally doing well in the irrigated tracts. Some damage by insects is reported from a few districts. The condition of agricultural stock is generally good and little cattle disease is reported. Fodder is generally sufficient though it is still dear in some western districts. Water is reported to be running short in parts of the Jhansi district. The market supplies are ample. Prices are practically stationary with a slight downward tendency in some districts.

Punjab.—Light rain was received in parts of the southeastern, submontane and western tracts but it was insufficient and more rain is urgently wanted everywhere. The condition and prospects of standing wheat and other spring crops on irrigated areas are generally normal but unirrigated crops are poor and are withering for want of rain. In parts of the southeast crops have been damaged by strong cold winds. Pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue in some districts with yield normal. Ploughing for and sowing of extra spring crops are in progress in a few districts. Cattle are generally healthy but are becoming weak owing to the want of fodder. Water for drinking and canal irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and range between warning and above scarcity rates. Price of wheat—Amballa 8¼, Lahore 8¾, Rawalpindi 9 and Lyallpur 9¼ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Good rain has fallen all over the Province but more rain is wanted in the Dera Ismail Khan district. The weather is clear and cloudy. Standing crops are average in Peshawar. In Dera Ismail Khan they are average on irrigated and poor on unirrigated areas. In Bannu autumn crops on irrigated areas are above average and spring crops are average in the Bannu tahsil and below average in Lakki. Sowing of sugarcane continues in the Bannu tahsil. Pressing of sugarcane is still proceeding in Peshawar and in the Bannu tahsil. The yield is reported to be average in Peshawar and below average in Bannu. The condition of cattle is good except in the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district where it is bad. Fodder is sufficient but it is scanty in the Nowshera tahsil of the Peshawar district and in unirrigated areas of the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district and dear in Dera Ismail Khan. The public health is good. Prices are high. They are rising in Dera Ismail Khan and falling in the case of wheat, gram and maize in Bannu.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 10 and maize from 11 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is average but it is dependent on future rains. Cattle disease prevails in the Ramban and Basohli tahsils. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—Good rain fell throughout Kashmir. The condition of standing crops has much improved. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder is insufficient in Baramulas. More water is still required.

Rajputana.—The weather is generally cold with high winds. The rainfall during the week was 55 cents in Jaisalmer. Rain is badly needed in Bikaner, eastern and central Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara. Irrigation, where possible, is in progress. The condition of standing crops on wet areas is fair to good. Pasturage and fodder are generally deficient. Water is insufficient in Marwar, Kotah and Tonk and in consequence cattle are in a weak condition in the affected areas. Cattle disease is reported in Kotah and in parts of Dungarpur and Tonk. Prices of food grains are falling in Marwar, Mewar, Partabgarh, Kotah, Jhalawar and Karauli, rising in Kishengarh, Tonk, Ajmer and Dungarpur and stationary elsewhere. The number of persons on test works in Merwara was 957 and in Karauli 875. Gratuitous relief was given to 1,064 persons in Merwara.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week. Rain has been insufficient in Gwalior, in some parganas of the Mehidpur and Rampura-Bhanpura districts of the Indore State and in the Orchha State in the Bundelkhand Agency and sufficient elsewhere. Sugarcane is being pressed in Gwalior. Spring crops are being irrigated almost everywhere. Standing crops are in good condition throughout. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except for cattle disease in the Gohad, Bijaipur, Rajranggarh, Mandsor, Jawad and Pichhor parganas in the Gwalior State, Kannod, Khategaon and Rampura mahals of the Indore State, Ringnod pargana of the Dewas (Junior) State in the Malwa Agency and in parts of Barwani, Jhabua and Alirajpur in the Southern States. The fodder supply is good in Gwalior except in the Malwa Prant, fair in the Malwa Agency and sufficient elsewhere. Prices are high in Baghelkhand, normal in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been cool and occasionally cloudy. Picking of cotton and threshing and winnowing of autumn crops are nearing completion. Prospects of spring crops are favourable, although winter showers would greatly benefit the crops. The supply of fodder and water is adequate. Cattle are fairing well. Variations in prices are unimportant but indicate a downward tendency.

Feudatory States:—Spring crops are generally in good condition but they have been somewhat damaged in Jashpur for want of rain. Prices are steady.

Bombay.—Slight rain fell in Sind. Standing crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by winds in parts of Sukkur and two talukas of the Upper Sind Frontier and by frost in two talukas of Larkana, Kaira and Palanpur. Cotton picking continues in Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Gujrat, Dharwar, Kathiawar, Baroda and Rewa Kantha. Harvesting of spring crops has commenced in parts of Karachi, Larkana, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Cutch, Kathiawar and Baroda. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in parts of Karachi, Larkana, Hyderabad and Ahmedabad. Drinking water is generally adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Thar and Parkar, Kaira, Ahmedabad, Kathiawar and Baroda. Prices of food grains are generally steady.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. Cotton, castor seed and groundnut are being picked. Spring crops are generally in fair to good condition but they have been somewhat damaged by rats in parts of the Usmanabad district. Late rice is being sown generally. The crop is in good condition and is being weeded in many parts. Cattle disease prevails in three talukas. Prices of food grains are high and are almost stationary. The highest price of juar in districts is 10 seers per rupee in Gulbarga, Medak and Warangal and the lowest 25 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell during the week. The price of ragi has fallen in Bangalore and Kadur and of rice in Mysore and Kadur. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of the harvested paddy, ragi and sugarcane is fair to good. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Agricultural prospects are good. Picking of coffee and threshing of rice continue. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Fodder for cattle is sufficient.

Madras.—No rain fell during the week. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but they are withering or require more rain in parts of five districts. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding or are being completed normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient except in parts of Anantapur, Chingleput, South Arcot, Madura, Tinnevelly and the central parts except Coimbatore. Pasture is generally sufficient but it is growing scarce in Bellary and in parts of five other districts. Fodder is generally available but it is scanty in parts of five districts. Prices are practically stationary.

Attention is invited to the following Circular Memorandum of the Government of India, Home Department, of August 1901:—

"It has been brought to the notice of this Department that matter for the Gazette of India is sometimes sent to the Press late on Friday evenings for publication in the next day's Gazette and that this involves considerable inconvenience to the Press and expense to Government. In the Circular Memorandum of this Department, No. 777—79, dated 9th February 1870, the Government of India directed that all notifications or other matter intended for insertion in the Gazette of India should be delivered at the Press not later than 2 P.M. on Friday, and that any papers sent thereafter must be certified to be extremely urgent in order to ensure their appearance in the next day's Gazette. The undersigned is directed to request that these orders may be more strictly observed in future, and that Departments will refrain from sending to the Press as extremely urgent any papers which can without harm or inconvenience be held over for the next Gazette.

J. P. HEWETT,
Secretary to the Government of India."

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas

Office of the Accountant-General, Punjab, Lahore;
The 19th February 1916.

W. ALDER,
Accountant-General, Punjab.

CHIEF COURT OF THE PUNJAB.

NOTIFICATION.

The 14th January 1916.

No. 283-G.—Notification—The Hon'ble Judges of the Chief Court have been pleased to make the following rules under section 246, Indian Companies Act, VII of 1913, and to prescribe the following forms concerning the mode of proceedings to be had for winding up a Company in the Chief Court and in the Courts subordinate thereto.

Chief Court notification No. 3605-G., dated the 10th of June 1914, published in Part III of the Punjab Government Gazette of the 19th June 1914, is hereby cancelled :—

Rules under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, concerning the mode of proceedings to be had for winding up a Company in the Chief Court and in the Courts subordinate thereto—

PRELIMINARY.

1. The following shall be used as general headings in all cases under the rules relating to Companies in the Chief Court of the Punjab and in the Courts subordinate thereto :—

General headings.

A.—For proceedings before the Chief Court or the District Court—

In the Chief Court of the Punjab at Lahore (or in the District Court of)—
In the matter of the Indian Companies Act, VII of 1913 and of the Company, Limited.

B.—For all advertisements, notices and other proceedings not before the Chief Court or the District Court :—

In the matter of the Indian Companies Act, VII of 1913, and of the Company, Limited.

2. Every application in Chambers shall be made by summons, which, unless otherwise ordered, shall be served on every person against whom an order is sought, and shall require the person or persons to whom the summons is addressed to attend at the time and place named in the summons.

Presentation of applications.

RULES AS TO WINDING-UP.

3. Every petition for the winding-up of any Company by the Court, or subject to the supervision of the Court, shall be advertised 14 clear days before the hearing, once in the Punjab Gazette, and, when practicable, once at least in two local newspapers and also by proclamation affixed to the walls of the Court house, unless the Judge otherwise directs.

Petition to wind-up Company. Advertisement of petition.

The advertisement shall state the date on which the petition was presented, the name and address of the petitioner and of his pleader or agent (if any).

4. Every such petition shall, unless presented by the Company, be served at the registered office (if any) of the Company, and, where there is no registered office, then at the principal or last known principal place of business of the Company, if any such can be found upon any member, officer or servant of the Company there, or in case no such member, officer or servant can be found there, then by being left at such registered office or principal place of business, or by being served on such member or members of the Company as the Court may direct. Every petition for the winding-up of a Company, subject to the supervision of the Court, shall also be served upon the liquidator (if any) appointed for the purpose of winding-up the affairs of the Company. So also every petition for the compulsory winding-up of a Company shall be served upon the liquidator (if any) who may have been appointed to act in a voluntary winding-up or winding-up under supervision, as the case may be.

Service of petition.

5. Every petition for the winding-up of any Company by the Court or subject to the supervision of the Court, shall be verified in the prescribed form. Such verification shall be made by the petitioner or by one of the petitioners (if more than one) or if by reason of absence or other good cause, any person by whom or on whose behalf such petition is presented is unable himself to verify the same, the Court may permit some other competent person to verify the petition. In case the petition is presented by any Company, the allegation thereof shall be verified by some Director, Secretary or other principal officer thereof. Such verification shall be made and filed within four days after the petition is presented, and such verified statement shall be sufficient prima facie evidence of the statements in the petition.

Verification of petition for winding-up.

6. Every contributory or creditor of the Company shall, on application to the Court in which the petition is presented, be entitled to be furnished with a copy of the petition on payment of the usual and customary fees for copies of documents in such Court, and such copies shall be furnished within twenty-four hours after the same shall have been applied for.

Copies of petition to be supplied.

7. (1) After the presentation of petition upon the application of a creditor or of contributory, or of the Company, and upon proof by affidavit of sufficient ground for the appointment of official receiver or some other fit person as Provisional Liquidator, the Court, if it thinks fit and upon such terms as in the opinion of the Court shall be just and necessary, may make the appointment.

Provisional Liquidator.

(2) The order of the appointment of Provisional Liquidator shall state the nature and short description of the property of which the said Provisional Liquidator is ordered to take possession and the duties to be performed by him.

(3) Subject to any order of the Court, if no order for the winding-up of the Company is made upon the petition, or if any order for the winding-up of the Company on the petition is rescinded, or if all proceedings on the petition are stayed, or if an order is made continuing the voluntary winding up of the Company subject to the supervision of the Court, the Provisional Liquidator shall be entitled to be paid out of the property of the Company all the costs, charges and expenses properly incurred by him as Provisional Liquidator.

8. (1) Affidavits in opposition to a petition that a Company may be would up under the order, or subject to the supervision, of the Court shall be filed within seven days of the date on which the affidavit verifying the petition is filed, and the notice of the filing of every affidavit in opposition to such a petition shall be given to the petitioner or the solicitor or agent of the petitioner on the day on which the affidavit is filed.

Affidavit in opposition and reply.

(2) An affidavit in reply to an affidavit filed in opposition to a petition shall be filed within three days of the date on which notice of such affidavit is received by the petitioner or the solicitor or agent of the petitioner.

9. When a petitioner consents to withdraw his petition, or to allow it to be dismissed, or the hearing adjourned, or fails to appear in support of his petition when it is called on in Court on the day originally fixed for the hearing thereof, or on any day to which the hearing has been adjourned or if appearing, does not apply for an order in the terms of the prayer of his petition, the Court may, upon such terms as it may think just substitute as petitioner any creditor or contributory who, in the opinion of the Court, would have a right to present a petition, and who is desirous of prosecuting the petition.

Petition not to be dismissed, if any creditor or contributory desires to prosecute it.

10. Every order for the winding-up of a Company by the Court or subject to its supervision shall within twelve days after the date thereof, be advertised by the petitioner once in the Punjab Gazette and otherwise as the Court may direct, and shall be served upon such person (if any) and in such manner as the Court may direct.

Order to wind-up Company to be advertised and served.

11. Within ten days after the passing of any order for winding-up a Company, the petitioner may apply for an order to proceed with the winding-up, and in default of such application by the petitioner, any other person interested in the winding-up of the Company may apply to be permitted to have the carriage and prosecution of the order. Upon such application, the Judge shall issue a summons for proceeding with the winding-up of the Company, to be served upon all parties who may have appeared upon the hearing of the petition. Upon the return of such summons a time shall be fixed for the appointment of an Official Liquidator, for the proof of debts and for bringing in the list of contributories. Directions may be given as to the advertisements to be issued for all or any such purposes and generally as to the proceedings and the parties to attend thereon. The proceedings under the order shall be continued by adjournment, and, when necessary, by further summons, and any such direction as aforesaid may be given, added to or varied at any subsequent time, as may be found necessary.

Application for order to proceed with winding-up.

12. The Judge may appoint a person to the office of Official Liquidator without any previous advertisement or notice to any party, or may fix a time and place for the appointment of an Official Liquidator, and may appoint or reject any person nominated at such time and place and appoint any person not so nominated.

Appointment of Official Liquidator.

13. Where Joint Official Liquidators are appointed the rules relating to the Official Liquidator shall be applicable mutatis mutandis.

Joint Official Liquidators.

Advertisement as to appointment of Official Liquidator.

14. When a time and place are fixed for the appointment of an Official Liquidator, such time and place shall be advertised in such manner as the Judge shall direct, so that the first or the only advertisement shall be published within fourteen days, and not less than seven days, before the day so fixed.

Security of Official Liquidator.

15. Every Official Liquidator shall give security by entering into a recognizance with one or more sufficient sureties, or by depositing Government Securities in such sum as the Court may approved, provided that the Court may, if it thinks fit, dispense with such security.

Order appointing Official Liquidator.

16. The Official Liquidator shall be appointed by order; and unless he shall have given security, or unless security shall have been dispensed with, a time shall be fixed by such order within which he is to do so, and the order shall fix the times or periods at which the Official Liquidator is to file his accounts of receipts and payments, and shall direct that all moneys to be received shall be paid into the Bank of Bengal, or in the case of a District Court into that Court, immediately after the receipt thereof, to the account of the Official Liquidator of the Company, and an account shall be opened there accordingly, and if the money is payable into the Bank of Bengal as aforesaid an office copy of the order shall be lodged at the Bank of Bengal as aforesaid.

Security to be certified.

17. When the Official Liquidator has given security pursuant to the direction in the order appointing him, the same shall be certified by the Judge or the Registrar.

Fresh security when required.

18. The Official Liquidator shall on each occasion of passing his accounts, and also whensoever the Judge may so require, satisfy the Judge that his sureties are living and resident in British India, and have not become insolvent or been adjudged bankrupt, and in default thereof he may be required to enter into fresh security or to deposit Government Securities within such time and to such amount as shall be directed.

Advertisement of appointment made.

19. Every appointment of an Official Liquidator shall be advertised in such manner as the Judge shall direct immediately after he has been appointed and has given security, if any required.

Vacancy in office of Official Liquidator.

20. In case of the death, removal or resignation of an Official Liquidator, another shall be appointed in his place in the same manner as directed in the case of a first appointment, and proceedings for that purpose may be taken by such party interested as may be authorized by the Judge to take the same.

Remuneration of Official Liquidator.

21. The Official Liquidator shall be allowed in his accounts, or otherwise paid, such amount by way of salary or remuneration as the Judge may from time to time direct, and the sum so fixed is to cover the expenses of the employment of assistants or clerks by the Official Liquidator, unless the Judge shall otherwise order. Such salary or remuneration may be fixed either at the time of appointment or at any time hereafter, as the Judge may think fit. Every allowance of such salary or remuneration, unless made at the time of the appointment or upon passing an account, shall be made on application for that purpose by the Official Liquidator, on notice to such persons (if any) and supported by such evidence as the Judge shall require. Provided, nevertheless, that the Judge may, from time to time, allow any sum he may think fit to the Official Liquidator on account of the salary or remuneration to be thereafter fixed.

Time for payment of remuneration.

22. The remuneration of an Official Liquidator as far as possible shall be fixed in the nature of a commission or percentage of which one part shall be payable on the amount realized after deducting the sums (if any) paid to secure creditors (other than debenture holders) out of the proceeds of their securities, and the other part on the amount distributed in dividend.

Limit of remuneration.

23. Except as provided by the Act or the rules, a Liquidator shall not under any circumstances whatever make any arrangement for, or accept from any solicitor, auctioneer, or any other person connected with the Company of which he is the Liquidator, or who is employed in or in connection with the winding-up of the company, any gift, remuneration, or pecuniary or other consideration or benefit whatever beyond the remuneration to which under the Act and the rules he is entitled as Liquidator, nor shall he make any arrangements for giving up, or give up any part, of such remuneration to any such solicitor, auctioneer or other person.

Preparation of the list of Company's property.

24. Unless the court shall otherwise direct, the Liquidator as soon as takes over charge shall make a list of all the property (moveable as well as immoveable) belonging to the Company in duplicate, which shall be signed by two or more past officers of the Company as well as the Liquidator who shall file one copy of the list with the Court.

Preliminary report.

25. A preliminary report together with a statement of the affairs of the Company showing the probable amount of loss should be submitted by the Provisional or Official Liquidator within a period to be fixed by the Court on his appointment.

Duties of Official Liquidator.

26. The Official liquidator shall with all convenient speed, after he is appointed, proceed to make up, continue, complete, and rectify the books of account of the Company, and shall provide and keep such books of account as shall be necessary or as the Judge may direct, for the purposes aforesaid, and for showing the debts and credits of the Company including a ledger which shall contain the separate account of the contributories and in which every contributory shall be debited from time to time with the amounts payable by him in respect of any call to be made as provided by the Act and these rules.

Record-book.

27. (1) The Official Liquidator shall keep a book to be called the Record-book in which he shall record all minutes, all proceedings had and resolutions passed at any meeting of creditors or contributories or of the Advisory Committee if any and, subject to the orders of the Court, all such matters as may be necessary to give a correct view of his administration of the Company's affairs, but he shall not be bound to insert in the Record-book any document of a confidential nature (such as the opinion of Counsel on any matter affecting the interest of the creditors or contributories) nor need he exhibit such documents to any person other than a member of the Advisory Committee, if any.

Cash-book.

(2) The provisional Liquidator, until an Official Liquidator is appointed by the Court, and thereafter the Official Liquidator, shall keep a book to be called the cash-book in which he shall enter from day to day the receipts and payments made by him.

Monthly progress report.

28. The Liquidator shall also keep a book in which he should submit his monthly reports of progress, together with a brief summary of receipts and payments made in that month, to the Court and obtain the order of the Court on various matters.

Filing of accounts.

29. The accounts of the Official Liquidator shall be filed at such times as may from time to time be ordered by the Judge, but not less than once in twelve months, and shall upon notice to such persons (if any) as the Judge shall direct, be audited, passed or verified as may be ordered.

Dealing with assets.

30. Neither the Liquidator nor any member of the Advisory Committee, if any, shall while acting as Liquidator or member of such committee, except by leave of Court, either directly or indirectly, by himself or any partner, clerk, agent, or servant become purchaser of any part of the Company's assets.

Restriction on purchase of goods by Liquidator.

31. Where the Liquidator carries on the business of the Company, he shall not, without the express sanction of the Court, purchase goods for the carrying on of such business from any person whose connection with the Liquidator is of such a nature as would result in the Liquidator obtaining any portion of the profit (if any) arising out of the transaction.

Preparation of statement of affairs.

32. (1) Every person who has been required by the Liquidator or the Court to submit and verify a statement as to the affairs of the Company, shall be furnished with instructions as to the form to be used for the preparation of the statement and the statement shall be verified by an affidavit.

(2) The Official Liquidator may from time to time hold personal interviews with persons who may be able to give some information about the Company's affairs for the purpose of investigating the Company's affairs, and it shall be the duty of every such person to attend on the Liquidator at such time and place as the Liquidator may appoint and give all information that he may require.

Extension of time for submitting statement of affairs.

33. When any person requires any extension of time for submitting the statement of affairs, he shall apply to the Official Liquidator who may, if he thinks fit, give a written certificate extending the time, which certificate shall be filed with the proceedings in the winding-up and shall render an application to the Court unnecessary.

Advertisement for debts or claims.

34. For the purpose of ascertaining the debts and claims due from the Company and of requiring the creditors to come in and prove their debts or claims, an advertisement shall be issued at such time as the Judge shall direct. In addition to advertisement, the Official

Liquidator shall send notices by post to such persons as appear from the books of the Company to be its creditors. Such advertisment shall fix a time for the creditors to send their names and addresses and particulars of their debts or claims and the names or addresses of their pleaders (if any) to the Official Liquidator, and appoint a day for adjudicating thereon.

Debts not disputed need not be proved. Disputed debts to be proved.

35. (1) Creditors, whose claims are not disputed, need not attend upon the adjudication, nor prove their debts or claims.

(2) Any creditor or creditors receiving notice from the Official Liquidator that his or their debts or claims are disputed, must come in and prove the same within a time to be specified in the notice.

Debts and claims to be investigated by the Official Liquidator.

36. The Official Liquidator shall investigate the debts and claims sent in to him, and ascertain, so far as he is able, which of such debts or claims are justly due from the Company, and he shall make out and file in Court a list of all the debts and claims sent in to him, distinguishing which of the debts and claims or parts of debts and claims are, in his opinion, justly due and proper to be allowed without further evidence, and which of them, in his opinion, ought to be proved by the creditors, and he shall make and file, prior to the time appointed for adjudication, an affidavit or written statement verified by oath or affirmation, setting forth which of the debts and claims are justly due and proper to be allowed without further evidence, and stating his belief that such debts and claims are justly due and proper to be allowed and the reasons for such belief.

Adjudication of debts and claims.

37. At the time appointed for adjudicating upon the debts and claims, or at any adjournment thereof, the Judge may either allow the debts and claims upon the affidavit or verified statement of the Official Liquidator, or may require the same, or any of them, to be proved by the claimants, and adjourn the adjudication thereon to a time to be then fixed, and the Official Liquidator shall give notice of such allowance to the creditors whose debts or claims have been allowed.

Notice to be given to creditors whose claims have been disallowed.

38. The Official Liquidator shall give notice to the creditors whose debts or claims have not been allowed upon his affidavit or statement, that they are required to come in and prove the same by a day to be named in the notice, being not less than four days after such notice, and to attend at a time to be therein named, being the time appointed by the advertisment or by adjournment (as the case may be) for adjudicating upon such debts and claims.

Time for dealing with proofs by Liquidator.

39. Subject to the power of the Court to extend the time, the Liquidator in a winding-up by the Court within 28 days after receiving a proof, which has not been previously dealt with shall in writing either admit or reject it holly or in part or require further evidence in support of it. Provided that where the Liquidator has given notice of his intention to declare a divident, he shall within fourteen days after the date mentioned in the notice as the latest date up to which proofs must be lodged examine, and in writing admit or reject or require further evidence in support of every proof which has not been already dealt with, and shall give notice of his decision, rejecting a proof wholly or in part, to the creditors affected thereby.

Expunging at the instance of Liquidator.

40. If the Liquidator thinks that a proof has been improperly admitted, the Court may, on the application of the Liquidator, after notice to the creditor who made the proof, expunge the proof or reduce its amount.

Expunging at the instance of creditor or contributory.

41. The Court my also expunge or reduce a proof upon the application of a creditor or contributory if the Liquidator declines to interfere in the matter.

Contingent debts and claims, how estimated.

42. The value of all contingent debts and claims admissible to proof shall as far as possible, be estimated according to the value thereof at the date of the commencement of the winding-up.

Interest on claims allowed.

43. Creditors, whose debts and claims carry interest, and are allowed, shall be entitled to receive dividend upon what was due for principal and interest at the date of the commencement of the winding-up. In the event of there being a surplus the dividends payable to such creditors shall be applied first towards payment of the interest and secondly in reduction of the principal due to them.

Costs of proving debts or claims.

44. Such creditors as come in and prove their debts or claims pursuant to notice from Official Liquidator, shall be allowed their costs of proof, which shall be added to the debt.

45. The result of the adjudication upon debts and claims shall be stated in a certificate signed by the Judge, and certificate as to any of such debts and claims may be made from time to time. Such certificate shall state whether the debts or claims are allowed or disallowed and whether allowed as against any particular assets or in any other qualified or special manner.

Result of adjudication to be certified by the Judge.

46. The Official Liquidator shall, with all convenient speed after his appointment, or at such time as the Judge shall direct, make out and file in Court a list of the contributoires of the Company and such lists shall be verified by the affidavit of the Official Liquidator, and shall, so far as is practicable, state the respective addresses of, and the number of shares or extent of interest to be attributed to, each such contributory, and distinguish the several classes of the contributories. And such list may, from time to time, by leave of the Judge, be varied or added to by the Official Liquidator.

List of contributories.

47. Upon the list of contributories being filed in Court, the Official Liquidator shall obtain an appointment for the Judge to settle the same, and shall give notice in writing of such appointment to every person included in such list, stating in what character, and for what number of shares or interest, such person is included in the list, and in case any variation or addition to such list shall at any time be made by the Official Liquidator, a similar notice in writing shall be given to every person affected by such variation or addition. All such notices shall be served four days before the day appointed to settle such list or such variation or addition.

Notice to contributories.

48. A list of contributories as the same shall have been settled by the Judge shall from time to time (when the Judge shall so order) be drawn up by the Official Liquidator and signed by the Judge for the purpose of stating the result of such settlement down to any particular time, or as to any particular person or stating any variation of the list.

Judge's certificates.

49. The Official Liquidator shall forthwith give notice to every person whom he has finally placed on the list of contributories stating in what character and for what number of shares or interest he has been placed on the list and in the notice inform such person that any application for the removal of his name from the list, or for a variation of the list, must be made to the court by summons within 30 days from the date of the service on the contributory or alleged contributory of notice of the fact that his name is settled on the list of contributories.

Notice to contributories.

50. (1) Subject to the power of the court to extend the time or to allow an application to be made notwithstanding the expiration of the time limited for that purpose, no application to the court by any person who objects to the list of contributories as finally settled by the Official Liquidator shall be entertained after the expiration of 30 days from the date of the service on such person of notice of the settlement of the list.

Application to the court to vary the list.

(2) The Official Liquidator shall not in any case be personally liable to pay any costs of or in relation to an application to set aside or vary his act or decision settling the name of a person on the list of contributories of a company.

51. Any moveable or immoveable property belonging to the company may be sold with the approbation of the Judge, in such manner as the Judge shall direct, and the Judge may, on any sale by public auction, fix a reserve bidding; and unless on account of the small amount of the purchase money, or other cause, it shall (having regard to the amount of security given by the Official Liquidator), be thought proper that the purchase money shall be paid to him all conditions and contracts of sale shall provide that the purchase money shall be paid by the respective purchasers into the Bank of Bengal or into Court to the account of the Official Liquidator of the company.

Sale of moveable or immoveable property belonging to the company.

52. Where property forming part of a Company's assets is sold by the Liquidator through an auctioneer or other agent the gross proceeds of the sale, unless the Court shall otherwise direct, shall be paid over by such auctioneer or agent, and the charges and expenses connected with the sale shall afterwards be paid to such auctioneer or agent on the production of the necessary certificate of the taxing officers. Every Liquidator by whom such auctioneer or agent is employed, shall unless the court otherwise orders, be accountable for the proceeds of every such sale.

Exponses of sales.

53. Every application to the Court to make any call on the contributories or any of them for any purpose authorised by the Act, shall be made by petition stating the proposed amount of such call, and such petition shall be served four clear days at the least before the day appointed for making the call on every contributory affected by such call, or if the Judge shall so direct in lieu of service of notice on the individual contributory or any of them, notice of such intended call may be given by advertisement or such other public notification as the Judge in his discretion may think sufficient.

Application to make call on contributories.

54. When any order for a call has been made a copy of such order shall be forthwith served upon each of the contributories included in such call together with a notice from the Official Liquidator specifying the amount due from such contributory in respect of such call, but such order need not be advertised unless for any special reasons the Judge shall so direct.

Copy of order for a call to be served on each contributory.

55. At the time of making an order for a call, the further proceedings relating thereto shall be adjourned to a time subsequent to the day appointed for the payment thereof, and afterwards from time to time so long as may be necessary, and at the time appointed by any such adjournment, or upon a summons to enforce payment of the call duly served, and upon proof of the service of the order and notice of the amount due and non-payment, an order may be made for all or any of the contributories who have made default to pay the sum which by such former order and notice they were respectively required to pay, or any less sum which may appear to be due from them respectively. The order for payment may be executed as if it were a decree for money.

Adjournment of proceedings.

56. For the purpose of enforcing any order for payment of money into the Bank of Bengal or the court, an affidavit of the Official Liquidator to the purport or effect set forth in the prescribed form shall be sufficient evidence of the non-payment thereof.

Affidavit of non-payment.

57. All orders for payment of calls balances or other monies due from any contributory or other person shall direct the same to be paid into the Bank of Bengal or into Court to the account of the Official Liquidator of the Company, unless on account of the smallness of the amount or other cause, it shall (having regard to the amount of the security given by the Official Liquidator) be thought proper to direct payment thereof to the Official Liquidator: Provided that where any such order has been made directing payment of a specific sum into the Bank of Bengal or into Court, in case it shall be thought proper for the purpose of enabling the Official Liquidator to issue execution or take other proceedings to enforce the payment thereof, or for any other reason, an order may, either before service of such former order or after the time thereby fixed by payment, be made, without notice for payment of the same sum to the Official Liquidator.

Payments of calls, etc., how to be made.

58. Where any Official Liquidator shall not pay all the monies received by him into the Bank of Bengal or in the case of a District Court into that Court, to the account of the Official Liquidator of the Company, within seven days next after the receipt thereof, unless the Judge shall have otherwise directed, such Official Liquidator shall be charged in his account with rupees ten for every thousand rupees and a proportionate sum for any larger amount retained in his hands beyond such period for every seven days during which the same shall have been so retained and the Judge may, for any such retention, disallow the salary or remuneration of such Official Liquidator.

Payment in of monies and deposit of securities. Default of payment into Bank.

59. All bills, hundis, notes and other securities payable to the Company or to the Official Liquidator thereof shall, as soon as they shall come to the hands of such Official Liquidator, be deposited by him in the Bank of Bengal or in Court, for the purpose of being presented for acceptance and payment, or for payment only, as the case may be, or shall be dealt with as the Court shall otherwise order.

Bills, hundis, etc., to be deposited in the Bank of Bengal or in Court.

60. All monies, bills, hundis, notes and other securities paid and delivered into the Bank of Bengal or into Court, shall be placed to the credit of the account of the Official Liquidator of the Company, and orders for any such payment and delivery shall direct the same accordingly.

Title of account in Bank.

61. All bills, hundis, notes and other securities delivered into the Bank of Bengal or into Court, shall be delivered out upon a request signed by the Official Liquidator and countersigned by the Judge or the Registrar, under the orders of the Court; and monies placed to the account of the Official Liquidator shall be paid out upon cheques, or orders, signed by the Official Liquidator and countersigned by the Judge, or the Registrar under the orders of the Court.

On what authority monies, etc., to be delivered by the Bank.

62. All or any part of the money for the time being standing to the credit of the account of the Official Liquidator at the Bank of Bengal, or in Court, and not immediately required for the purpose of the winding-up may be invested in the purchase of Government Promissory Notes in the name of the Official Liquidator or in deposit receipts of the Bank of Bengal, as the Judge, upon the application of the Official Liquidator, may direct. All such investments shall be made upon a request signed by the Official Liquidator and countersigned by the Judge, which request shall be sufficient authority for debiting the account with the purchase money. Such Government Promissory Notes or deposit receipts shall not afterwards be sold or transferred or otherwise dealt with except upon a direction for that purpose signed by the Official Liquidator and countersigned by or under an order made by the Judge.

Investment of monies.

63. All interest accruing due upon any such Government Promissory Notes or deposit receipts shall from time to time be received by the Bank of Bengal, or the Court, and placed to the credit of the account of such Official Liquidator.

Interest upon Investments.

64. When the Court shall direct a meeting of the creditors or contributories of the Company to be summoned under Section 239 of the said Act or when the Official Liquidator either of his own motion or at the direction or request of the creditors or contributories under Section 183 of the Act, shall summon such a meeting he shall give notice in writing, seven clear days before the day appointed for such meeting, to every creditor or contributory, of the time and place appointed for such meeting, and of the matter upon which the Judge desires to ascertain the wishes of the creditors or contributories; or, if the Judge shall so direct, such notice may be given by advertisement, in which case the object of the meeting need not be stated.

Notice to be given of meeting of creditors or contributories.

65. The votes of the creditors or contributories of the Company at any meeting summoned in accordance with the preceding rule may be given either personally or by proxy.

Votes may be given personally or by proxy.

66. The direction of the Judge for any meeting of creditors or contributories under Section 239 of the said Act and the appointment of a person to act as Chairman of any such meeting, shall be testified by a memorandum signed by the Judge, or by the Registrar under the direction of the Judge. In the case of a meeting summoned by the Official Liquidator under Section 183 of the Act, he, or some one nominated by him, shall be Chairman.

Appointment of Chairman at meeting.

67. The sanction of the Judge to the drawing, accepting, making or endorsing of any bill of exchange, hundi or promissory note, by any Official Liquidator shall be testified by a memorandum on such bill of exchange, hundi or promissory note signed by the Judge or by the Registrar under the direction of the Judge.

Drawing, accepting, etc., of bills.

68. Every application for the sanction of the Judge to a compromise with any contributory or other person indebted to the company shall be supported by the affidavit of the Official Liquidator, stating that he has investigated the affairs of such contributory or person and believes that the proposed compromise will be beneficial to the Company, and giving his reasons for such belief; and the sanction of the Judge thereto shall be testified by a memorandum signed by the Judge, on the agreement of compromise, unless any party shall desire to appeal from the decision of the Judge, in which case an order shall be drawn up for the purpose.

Sanction of Judge on compromise.

69. The direction or sanction of the Judge for any proceeding or Act to be taken or done by the Official Liquidator under the powers conferred on him by Section 179 shall (subject to the provisions of Section 180 of the Act) be obtained upon application in writing and an order shall be drawn up thereon, unless the Judge shall otherwise direct.

In cases under Section 179.

70. Every application under Sections 180 (3), 183 (5), 207 (viii), 207 (ix), 212 (2), 215 and 237 of the Act shall be made by petition.

Application to the Court under Sections 183, 207, 212, 215, and 239 of the Act.

71. Every application to the Court for recoveries of monies due from contributories shall state particulars as nearly as in a plaint in a civil suit and shall be accompanied by the document or copies of account supporting the claim. It shall be supported by an affidavit of the liquidator. The further proceedings shall be of the nature of a suit as nearly as circumstances may require before a final order for payment is passed.

Application under Section 186.

72. The Official Liquidator shall submit a report stating the facts and matters which the Official Liquidator desire to bring to the notice of the Court and he may apply to the Court to fix a day for the consideration of the report, and on such application the Court shall appoint a day on which the report shall be considered.

Official Liquidator to file a report.

73. The consideration of the report shall be before the Judge of the Court, and the Official Liquidator shall personally, or by Counsel or Solicitor, attend the consideration of the report and give the Court any further information or explanation with reference to the matters stated in the report which the Court may require.

Consideration of the report.

74. When the Judge makes an order under Section 196 of the Act, directing any person or persons to attend for public examination—

Procedure consequent on order for public examination.

(a) The examination shall be held before the Judge: Provided that in the Chief Court the Judge may direct that the whole or any part of the examination of any such person or persons be held before the Registrar.

(b) The Judge may, if he thinks fit, either in the order for examination, or by any subsequent order, give directions as to the special matters on which any such person is to be examined.

(c) Where on an examination held before the Registrar, or one of the persons mentioned in Sub-section 9 of the said Section, he is of opinion that such examination is being unduly or unnecessarily protracted, or for any other sufficient cause, he may adjourn the examination of any person, or any part of the examination to be held before the Judge.

Application for day for holding examination.

75. Upon an order directing a person to attend for public examination being made, the Official Liquidator shall apply for the appointment of a day on which the public examination is to be held.

Appointment of time and place for public examination.

76. A day and place shall be appointed for holding the public examination, and notice of the day and place so appointed shall be given by the Official Liquidator to the person who is to be examined by sending such notice in a registered letter addressed to his usual or last known address.

Application against delinquent Directors, officers and promoters.

77. (1) An application under Section 235 of the Act shall contain the particulars on which the claim is based and a copy of the application with the grounds thereof shall be served on every person against whom an order is sought, not less than eight days before the day named in the summons for hearing the application. Where the application is made by the Official Liquidator he may make a report to the Court stating any facts and information on which he proceeds, which are verified by affidavit, or derived from sworn evidence in the proceedings. Where the application is made by any other person it shall be supported by affidavit to be filed by him.

(2) On the return of the summons the Court may give such directions as it shall think fit for the hearing of the summons, the taking of evidence wholly or in part by affidavit or orally, and the cross-examination of any deponents to affidavits in support of or in opposition to the application.

Advertisements how to be published.

78. When an advertisement is required for any purpose, the advertisement, except when otherwise directed by these rules, shall be published as the Judge shall direct, or it may take the form of a public notification or proclamation.

Affidavits intended to be used to be filed in Court.

79. When an order has been made for the winding-up of any Company any person intending to use any affidavit in any proceeding under any such order shall file the same in Court and give notice thereof to the Official Liquidator.

Register of proceedings

80. A register shall be kept by the Court of all proceedings before the Court in each matter with proper dates, so that all the proceedings may appear consequently and in chronological order, with a short statement of the question or points decided or ruled at every hearing.

Inspection of accounts by contributories and creditors.

81. Every contributory of the Company, and every creditor thereof whose debt or claim has been allowed, shall subject to the order of the Court be entitled, at all reasonable times, to inspect all books of accounts, papers or documents relating to the winding-up of the Company, in the custody of the Official Liquidator, free of charge, and at his own expense to take copies or extracts from the same, or to be furnished with such copies or extracts at a rate not exceeding four annas per folio of ninety words.

Rules applicable to provisional liquidators.

82. All the above rules relating to Official Liquidators, shall, so far as the same are applicable, and subject to the directions of the Judge in each case, apply to provisional liquidators.

Cost of attendance of contributories or creditors at proceedings.

83. Every person for the time being on the list of contributories of the Company as filed in Court by the Official Liquidator, and every person whose debt or claim against the Company shall have been allowed by the Judge, shall be at liberty, at his own expense, to attend the proceedings before the Judge, and shall be entitled, upon payment of the costs occasioned thereby to have notice of all such proceedings as he shall by written request desire to have notice of; but if the Judge shall be of opinion that the attendance of any such person upon any proceedings has occasioned any additional costs which ought not to have been borne by the funds of the Company, he may direct such costs, or a gross sum in lieu thereof, to be paid by such person; and such person shall not be entitled to attend any further proceedings until he has paid the same.

Appointment of one or more contributories or creditors as representative of other contributories or creditors.

84. The Judge may from time to time appoint any one or more of the contributories, or creditors as he thinks fit, to represent before him, at the expense of the Company, all or any class of the contributories or creditors upon any question as to a compromise with any of the contributories or creditors, or in and about any other proceedings before him relating to the winding-up of the Company, and may remove the person or persons so appointed. In case more than one person shall be so appointed, they shall employ the same attorney, pleader or agent to represent them.

85. No contributory or creditor shall be entitled to attend any proceedings before the Judge, unless and until he has entered in a book to be kept for that purpose his name and address and the name and address of his attorney, pleader or agent (if any), and upon any change of his address or of his attorney, pleader or agent, his new address, and the name and address of his new attorney, pleader or agent.

Only contributories or creditors whose names are entered are entitled to attend proceedings.

86. Service upon contributories and creditors shall be effected (except when personal service is required) by sending the notice, or copy of the petition, summons, order, or other proceedings, through the post in a registered letter addressed to the party or his attorney, pleader or agent at the address entered, or last entered, pursuant to the preceding rule, or if no such entry has been made, then if a contributory, to his last known address or place of abode, and if a creditor, to the address given by him pursuant to rule and such notice, or copy, summons, order, or other proceeding shall be considered as served at the time the same would be delivered in the due course of post.

I have, in the paper writing now produced and shown to me, and marked the letter A, set forth a list of all the debts and claims the particulars of which have been sent in to me by persons making claims upon, or claiming to be creditors of, the said Company, pursuant to the advertisement issued in that behalf, dated the day of 19 and the names and addresses of the persons by whom such claims are made.

2. I have investigated the said debts and claims, and examined the same with the books and documents of the said Company in order to ascertain so far as I am able, which of such debts and claims are justly due from the said Company; and I have in the first part of the same list, set forth such of the said debts and claims, or parts thereof, as, in my opinion, are justly due from the said Company, and proper to be allowed without further evidence; and I have, in the sixth column of the said first part of the said list, set forth the amounts proper to be allowed in respect of such debts and claims, and I believe that such amounts respectively are justly due and proper to be allowed; and I have, in the seventh column of the said first part of the said list, stated my reasons for such belief.

3. I have, in the second part of the said list, set forth such of the said debts and claims as, in my opinion, ought to be proved by the respective creditors.

No. 32.—AFFIDAVIT OF OFFICIAL LIQUIDATOR IN SUPPORT OF PROPOSAL FOR CALL.

I, R. P. H., of &c., the Official Liquidator of the abovenamed Company, make oath [or solemnly affirm] and say as follows :—

I.—I have, in the Schedule now produced and shown to me, and marked with the letter A, set forth a statement showing the amount due in respect of the debts allowed against the said Company, and the estimated amount of the costs, charges, and expenses of, and incidental to, the winding-up the affairs thereof, and which several amounts form in the aggregate the sum of Rs. or thereabouts.

II.—I have also in the said Schedule set forth a Statement of the assets in hand belonging to the said Company, amounting to the sum of Rs. and no more. There are no other assets belonging to the said Company, except the amounts due from certain of the contributories of the said Company ; and, to the best of my information and belief, it will be impossible to realize in respect of the said amounts more than the sum of Rs. or thereabouts.

III.—It appears by the Judge's Certificate, dated the day of 19 , that persons have been settled on the list of contributories of the said Company, in respect of the total number of shares.

IV.—For the purpose of satisfying the several debts and liabilities of the said Company and of paying the costs, charges, and expenses of, and incidental to, the winding-up the affairs thereof, I believe the sum of Rs. will be required, in addition to the amount of the assets of the said Company mentioned in the said Schedule A, and the said sum of Rs.

V.—In order to provide the said sum of Rs. , it is necessary to make a call upon the several persons who have been settled on the list of contributories as before mentioned, and having regard to the probability that some of such contributories will partly or wholly fail to pay the amount of such call, I believe that, for the purpose of realizing the amount required as before mentioned, it is necessary that a call of Rs. per share should be made.

Whereas the said S. B. has been settled on the list of contributories of the said Company as a contributory in respect of shares in the said Company, and whereas, by an order made by the Hon'ble Mr. Justice [or by the Court of] dated the day of 19 , a call of Rs. per share was made on all the contributories of the said Company, and there is now due from the said S. B. to the said Company the sum of Rs. in respect of the said call. And whereas the said S. B. has proposed to pay to the said Official Liquidator the sum of Rs. by way of compromise and in satisfaction and discharge of the said sum of Rs. , and of all liability whatsoever as a contributory of the said Company, and whereas the said Official Liquidator having investigated the affairs of the said S. B., and believing that such compromise will be beneficial to the said Company, both in exercise of the power for that purpose given to him by the above Act, agreed to accept the same subject to the sanction of the said Judge [or Court] and to the conditions and agreements hereinafter contained. Now it is hereby agreed by and between the said parties hereto.

1. That the said Official Liquidator shall, before the day of next apply to the said Judge [or Court] to sanction this agreement of compromise.

2. That upon this agreement being sanctioned by the said Judge [or Court] the said S. B. shall, within days next after such sanction, pay to the said Official Liquidator the said sum of Rs. and when thereto required shall do and execute all such acts and deeds as may be necessary for transferring, or surrendering and releasing to the said Official Liquidator, on behalf of the said Company, or in such manner as the said Judge [or Court] may direct, the said shares held by the said S. B. in the said Company, and all claim and demand whatsoever which the said S. B has or may have against the said Company, in respect of the said shares, or the distribution of the assets of the said Company, or otherwise howsoever.

3 That the said sum of Rs. and the transfer or surrender and release of the said shares and interest of the said S. B. as aforesaid, shall be accepted by the said Official Liquidator as and be deemed and taken to give to the said S. B. a full and complete discharge from all calls and liabilities, claims and demands whatsoever which the said Company or the Official Liquidator thereof now has or may hereafter have or be entitled to, against the said S. B. in respect of his being or having been the holder of the said shares or otherwise as a contributory of the said Company.

4. That in case this agreement shall not be sanctioned by the said Judge [or Court] it shall cease and determine, and the said Official Liquidator and the said S. B. shall be remitted to their original rights with respect to each other, as if this agreement had not been entered into.

5. That in case this agreement shall be sanctioned by the said Judge [or Court] and the said S. B. shall not in all respects perform the same on his part, the Official Liquidator shall be at liberty, with the sanction of the said Judge [or Court], and without notice to the said S. B. to enforce the performance thereof, or with the like sanction to give notice to the said S. B. that he abandons this agreement, whereupon the same shall cease and determine, and the said Official Liquidator shall be entitled to proceed against the said S. B. to enforce payment of the said sum of Rs. , or so much thereof as shall then remain due and unpaid as if this agreement had not been entered into.

No. 55.—LIQUIDATOR'S STATEMENT OF ACCOUNT.

General Directions as to Statements.

(Name of Company).

Form and contents of statement.

(1) Every statement must contain a detailed account of all the Liquidator's realizations and disbursements in respect of the company. The statement of realizations should contain a record of all receipts derived from assets existing at the date of the winding-up order or resolution and subsequently realized, including balance in bank, book debts and calls collected, property sold, etc., and the account of disbursements should contain all payments for costs and charges, or to creditors, or contributories. Where property has been realized, the gross proceeds of sale must be entered under realizations, and the necessary payments incidental to sales must be entered as disbursements. These accounts should not contain payments into the Company's liquidation account (except unclaimed dividends see paragraph 4) or payments into or out of bank, or temporary investments by the Liquidator, or the proceeds of such investments when realized, which should be shown separately—

(a) by means of the bank pass book ;

(b) by a separate detailed statement of moneys invested by the Liquidator, and investments realized.

Interest allowed or charged by the bank, bank commission, etc., and profit or loss upon the realization of temporary investments, should, however, be inserted in the accounts of realizations or disbursements, as the case may be. Each receipt and payment must be entered in the account in such a manner as sufficiently to explain its nature. The receipts and payments must severally be added up at the foot of each sheet, and the totals carried forward from one account to another without any intermediate balance, so that the gross totals shall represent the total amounts received and paid by the Liquidator respectively.

Trading account.

(2) When the Liquidator carries on a business, a trading account must be forwarded as a distinct account, and the totals of receipts and payments on the trading account must alone be set out in the statement.

Dividends, etc.

(3) When dividends or instalments of compositions are paid to creditors, or a return of surplus assets is made to contributories, the total amount of each dividend, or instalment of composition, or return to contributories, actually paid, must be entered in the statement of disbursements as one sum ; and the Liquidator must forward separate accounts showing in lists the amount of the claim of each creditor, and the amount of dividend or composition payable to each creditor, and of surplus assets payable to each contributory, distinguishing in each list the dividends or instalments of composition and shares of surplus assets actually paid and those remaining unclaimed.

(4) When unclaimed dividends, instalments of compositions or returns of surplus assets are paid into the Company's liquidation account, the total amount so paid in should be entered in the statement of disbursements as one sum.

(5) Credit should not be taken in the statement of disbursements for any amounts in respect of Liquidator's remuneration unless it has been duly allowed by resolution of the company in general meeting, or by order of Court.

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING JANUARY 1916.

REVIEW of the ACCOUNTS of the SEA-BORNE TRADE and NAVIGATION of BRITISH INDIA for the month of JANUARY 1916.

FOREIGN COMMERCE.

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING JANUARY 1916.

The trade returns of British India for January 1916, as compared with those of its immediate predecessor, showed an increase in total imports but decreases in total exports and re-exports. The total imports of merchandise were valued at R11¾ crores, exports at over R14 crores, and re-exports at R37⅞ lakhs. As compared with the preceding month (December 1915), the imports increased by 42 per cent, while the exports decreased by over 5 per cent and the re-exports by 19 per cent. As compared with January 1915, the imports showed an increase of 17 per cent, exports of 26 per cent, and re-exports of 115 per cent.

The actual net excess of exports including re-exports, over imports was R7,15 lakhs in December 1915 and R2,77 lakhs in January 1916. The statement below shows the figures of imports and exports, including re-exports, during December and January of the years 1913-14, 1914-15, and 1915-16, and the actual net excess of exports over imports during the same periods:—

(a) There were no exports of wheat on Government account

Comparison with the imports and exports of December, 1915.*

An advance in the imports of food stuffs.

The imports of food, drink, and tobacco in January 1916, as compared with those in the preceding month (December 1915), increased by R25 lakhs. The increase was noticed in almost all the principal groups of articles except small decreases under provisions and tea. The imports of sugar 16 D. S. and above rose from 39,286 tons, valued at R1,22 lakhs, in December 1915 to 41,683 tons, valued at R1,30½ lakhs, in January 1916. Imports from Java increased from 35,470 tons to 36,918 tons, and those from China and Japan also showed an increase, but imports from Mauritius declined from 1,647 tons to 1,233 tons. In the ten months ending January 1916, the imports of sugar 16 D. S. and above rose to 436,988 tons, valued at R13½ crores, from 365,527 tons, valued at nearly R8 crores, in the ten months ending January 1915. Imports of cigarettes rose from 117,910 lbs, valued at nearly R4½ lakhs, in December 1915 to 189,518 lbs, valued at over R7 lakhs, in January 1916. Imports of spices increased from 10⅓ million lbs in December 1915 to nearly 13½ million lbs in January 1916, due mainly to the increased imports of betelnuts from the Straits Settlements.

An increase in the imports of kerosene oil, and a decrease in the imports of wood, timber.

Imports of raw materials increased by R39 lakhs, due mainly to the heavy imports of mineral oil. Imports of kerosene oil increased from 1,118,378 gallons, valued at R5⅕ lakhs, in December 1915 to 13,608,047 gallons, valued at R45¾ lakhs, in January 1916. Imports from the United States of America increased from 1,024,494 gallons in December 1915 to 7,030,677 gallons in January 1916, and those from Borneo from 93,824 gallons to 2,855,863 gallons. Imports of wood, timber declined from 11,344 cubic tons, valued at R10 lakhs, in December 1915 to 5,683 cubic tons, valued at R5 lakhs, in January 1916. These imports of timber were chiefly from Siam, Japan, and the Straits Settlements.

An increase in the imports of cotton piecegoods, metals, and other manufactured articles.

Imports of manufactured articles rose by R2,72 lakhs. Almost all the principal articles showed an increase. Imports of cotton piecegoods, including tents, increased from 106 million yards, valued at nearly R1,97 lakhs, in December 1915 to 181 million yards, valued at R3,52 lakhs, in January 1916. Imports of iron and steel and manufactures thereof increased by R16 lakhs, cotton twist and yarn by R14 lakhs, railway plant and rolling-stock by R12 lakhs, machinery and millwork including belting by R11⅓ lakhs, paper and stationery by R7⅓ lakhs, tea chests by nearly R7 lakhs and matches and hardware by about R5 lakhs each. Imports of motor cars were 225 in number, as against 415 in the preceding month and showed a decline of R5 lakhs in value.

An increase in the exports of rice and a decrease in the exports of tea.

Exports of food, drink, and tobacco decreased by nearly R19 lakhs, mainly due to the reduced shipments of tea, partly set off by the increased exports of rice. Exports of rice not in the husk amounted in January 1916 to 92,486 tons, valued at R1,14½ lakhs, as against 46,556 tons, valued at R69¾ lakhs, in December 1915. There were practically no shipments to the continental countries in Europe. Exports to the United Kingdom increased to 12,705 tons in January 1916 from 2,479 tons in December 1915. Ceylon took 30,455 tons in January as against 22,809 tons in December; the Straits Settlements 23,072 tons as against 6,530 tons; Java 8,164 tons against nil; and Mauritius 6,036 tons against 2,503 tons. In the ten months ended January 1916, the exports amounted to 900,088 tons, valued at R10,44 lakhs, as against 1,161,124 tons, valued at R13,22 lakhs, in the corresponding period of the previous year. Shipments of wheat amounted to 456 tons, valued at R58,500, as against 297 tons, valued at R44,500, in the preceding month. There were no shipments of wheat on Government account in January 1916. In the ten months ended January 1916, the exports, both on private and Government account, amounted to 650,065 tons, valued at R8,40⅓ lakhs, as against 676,017 tons, valued at R7,85½ lakhs, in the corresponding period of the previous year. Exports of tea declined from 34 million lbs, valued at R1,97½ lakhs, in December 1915 to 24 million lbs, valued at R1,36¼ lakhs, in January 1916, mainly due to reduced shipments to the United Kingdom, which took nearly 12¾ million lbs as against over 23 million lbs in the preceding month. In the ten months ended January 1916, the exports amounted to about 292 million lbs, valued at R17⅓ crores, as against 274 million lbs, valued at over R14 crores, in the corresponding period of the previous year.

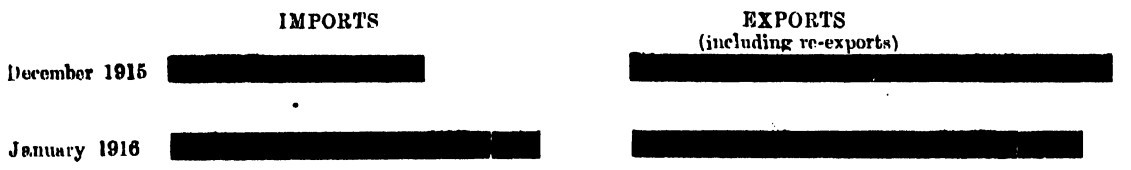
An increase in the exports of raw hides and skins, Benzene, petrol, etc., and seeds, and a decrease in the exports of raw cotton and jute.

The value of the exports of raw materials decreased by R20 lakhs, mainly due to the reduced shipments of textile materials. Exports of raw hides increased to 4,157 tons, valued at R67⅔ lakhs, in January 1916 from 2,799 tons, valued at over R49 lakhs, in December 1915. The United Kingdom took 245 tons as against 334 tons in the preceding month; Italy 1,562 tons as against 2,114 tons; and the United States of America 2,291 tons as against 155 tons. Exports of raw skins increased to 2,221 tons, valued at R36½ lakhs, in January 1916 from 1,121 tons, valued at over R16¾ lakhs, in December 1915. The United States of America took 2,107 tons, as against 1,009 tons in the preceding month. 4,063,607 gallons of Benzene, petrol, and other motor spirit, valued at over R3¾ lakhs, were shipped from Burma to the United Kingdom in January 1916, as against nil in the preceding month. Exports of seeds increased to 64,435 tons, valued at nearly R97 lakhs, in January 1916 from 50,862 tons, valued at nearly R80 lakhs, in the preceding month, due mainly to the increased shipments of groundnuts and rapeseed. Shipments of raw cotton declined to 26,355 tons, valued at R1,74½ lakhs, in January 1916 from 31,019 tons, valued at R1,94½ lakhs, in the preceding month. The United Kingdom took 2,470 tons as against 1,710 tons in December 1915; Italy 2,493 tons as against 7,007 tons; and Japan 19,082 tons as against 18,851 tons. In the ten months ended January 1916, the exports amounted to 347,587 tons, valued at R18⅓ crores, as against 421,899 tons, valued at R29¼ crores, in the corresponding period of last year. Shipments of raw jute decreased to 41,410 tons, valued at R1,13¾ lakhs, in January 1916 from 50,025 tons, valued at R1,36½ lakhs, in the preceding month. The United Kingdom took 24,116 tons as against 32,174 tons, and the United States of America 11,072 tons as against 9,553 tons in the preceding month. In the ten months ended January 1916, the exports amounted to 502,691 tons, valued at nearly R13 crores, as against 378,865 tons, valued at over R10 crores, in the corresponding period of the previous year.



An Increase in the exports of indigo, and a decrease in the exports of jute goods.

Exports of manufactured articles decreased by R39 lakhs, due mainly to the reduced shipments of jute goods. Exports of gunny bags decreased, in January 1916, to 60⅘ millions in number, valued at R1,26⅕ lakhs from 88⅓ millions, valued at R1,87⅓ lakhs, in the preceding month. The United Kingdom took nearly 31 millions in January 1916, as against 43½ millions in the preceding month; Russia 4¼ millions as against 6¼ millions; France over 10 millions as against nearly 17 millions; the United States 1⅓ millions as against 550,400; the West Indies 2 millions as against 942,800; and New Zealand 22,250 as against over 6 millions in the preceding month. In the ten months ended January 1916, the exports amounted to 637½ millions in number, valued at ₹16 crores, as against 316½ millions, valued at ₹10½ crores, in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Shipments of gunny cloth increased in January 1916 to 78½ million yards, valued at ₹1,27⅗ lakhs, from over 77¾ millions, valued at ₹1,21⅗ lakhs, in the preceding month. The United Kingdom took 19⅖ million yards as against 21½ million yards; Canada 7⅓ million yards as against 4 million yards; and the United States of America nearly 44 million yards as against 44⅔ million yards, in the preceding month. In the ten months ended January 1916, the shipments amounted to nearly 964 million yards, valued at nearly ₹14 crores, as against 843 million yards, valued at ₹10⅘ crores, in the corresponding period of the previous year. Shipments of indigo increased to 8,410 cwts, valued at ₹42½ lakhs, in January 1916 from 3,399 cwts, valued at ₹16⅔ lakhs, in the preceding month. The United Kingdom took 6,226 cwts as against 2,446 cwts in the preceding month, and the United States of America 1,418 cwts as against 530 cwts.

TEN MONTHS ENDED JANUARY 1916.

The summary of the results for ten months ended January 1916 is as follows :—

It will be observed that in January 1916, the total trade with the United Kingdom, Russia, France, Japan, Sweden, and the United States of America increased, but the trade with Italy, Norway, Holland and Spain decreased. Imports from the United Kingdom increased by R2,47 lakhs, Japan by R29 lakhs, the United States of America by R30 lakhs, Norway and Italy by R5 lakhs each, Sweden by R4 lakhs, and France by R1 lakh. Imports from Spain and Holland decreased by R6 lakhs and R4 lakhs, respectively. Under exports, the United Kingdom accounted for a decrease of R1,33 lakhs, Italy of R66 lakhs, Norway of R6 lakhs, and Spain of R5 lakhs. The United States of America showed an increase of R74 lakhs, Japan of R20 lakhs, and France of R16 lakhs. There were practically no exports to Belgium, Sweden, and Holland.

Balance of Trade.

India's Balance of Trade during January 1916, as compared with December 1915, is shown in the following table. The table takes into account the imports and exports of merchandise and treasure on private account only. There were no exports of wheat on Government account during December 1915 and January 1916:—

The amount of Council Bills and Telegraphic Transfers paid in India in December 1915 was R3,29,03,000, the whole amount being paid through the Gold Standard Reserve. In addition to this, a sum of R1,15,42,000 was transferred from the Gold Standard Reserve to the Treasury on account of Council Bill payments during the month. In January 1916 the amount paid was R5,23,71,000, of which R3,50,48,000 was paid through the Paper Currency Reserve and R1,73,23,000 through the Treasuries. As regards enfaced rupee paper, R8,400 represented the amount of paper enfaced to London, and R7,00,700, the amount re-transferred from London in December 1915, while in January 1916, R3,31,900 represented the amount of paper enfaced to London and R1,28,400, the amount re-transferred from London.

Movements of Gold and Silver (Private and Government).

In the month of January 1916, the imports of gold were valued at R40 lakhs, and the exports at R13 lakhs, as against R40⅓ lakhs and R1,65¼, lakhs, respectively, in December 1915. Of the imports, gold bullion was valued at R29½ lakhs, as against R33½ lakhs in the preceding month, imported chiefly from the United Kingdom and Australia. Bullion worth R15⅓ lakhs was imported from the United Kingdom, and nearly R11 lakhs from Australia, as against R15¼ lakhs and R16⅓ lakhs, respectively, in December 1915. Sovereigns and other British gold coin were valued at R7 lakhs, as against over R5 lakhs in the preceding month. As regards exports, gold bullion worth R1⅕ lakhs and sovereigns worth R11⅘ lakhs were exported in the month of report, as against R1,20⅓ lakhs and R45lakhs, respectively, in December 1915.

* Exclusive of Government transactions.

(a) Net exports.

(b) Up to 12th January 1916, figures for later weeks not being available.

Imports of silver were valued at R69 lakhs, of which R1½ lakhs were on account of Government, as against R49⅝ lakhs in December 1915. Bullion worth R66½ lakhs was imported, as against R44¼ lakhs in December 1915. Exports of silver were valued at R15½ lakhs of which R9 lakhs were on account of Government, as against R21 lakhs, both on private and Government account, in the preceding month.

In the ten months ended January 1916, the exports of gold were valued at R6,34 lakhs as against R3,01 lakhs in the corresponding period of 1914-15, and the exports of silver at R1,55 lakhs as against R1,58 lakhs last year.

Declared value per unit of selected Articles.

The declared values per unit of certain selected articles imported and exported during January 1915 and 1916 are noted below :—

Under imports, the declared unit value of sugar, 16 D. S. and above, rose by 14 per cent, of cotton twist and yarn by 18 per cent, and of piecegoods, grey and coloured, by 13 per cent and 16 per cent, respectively. Coal fell by 34 per cent. The declared unit value of cotton white piecegoods was on the level of last year. Under exports, raw cotton showed an increase of 53 per cent, raw jute of 36 per cent, and gunny cloth of 48 per cent, but indigo showed a decrease of 19 per cent, wheat of 13 per cent, and coffee of 4 per cent. Coal, manganese ore, and tea indicated a slight increase in the declared value per unit, while rice, not in the husk showed a slight decline. These comparisons are with the corresponding month of the previous year.

Customs Revenue.

The following table shows the gross Indian sea customs revenue (excluding salt revenue) collected on principal and other articles in January 1916, as compared with December 1915, January 1915, and January 1914 :—

The customs duty figures are an index to the volume of the import trade only, as under exports rice alone is subject to duty. In the ten months, April to January, the import duties declined from R6,81 lakhs in 1914-15 to R5,98 lakhs in 1915-16, and the export duty on rice from nearly R59⅓ lakhs to R48⅓ lakhs. The total customs revenue, excluding salt, but including excise duty on cotton goods and land customs, in the first ten months of 1915-16, amounted to R6,90 lakhs, as against R7,88 lakhs for the corresponding period of last year.

SHIPPING.

The following table shows the number and tonnage of vessels, which entered and cleared with cargoes at ports in British India during January 1916, as compared with December 1915, January 1915, and January 1914 :—

Entered with cargoes.

	STEAMERS.		SAILING VESSELS.		TOTAL.
	No.	Tons.	No.	Tons.	No.	Tons.
January 1916	170	365,302	72	5,732	242	371,034
December 1915	139	284,969	81	7,248	220	292,217
January 1915	183	365,947	60	5,198	243	371,145
January 1914	231	614,196	71	5,371	302	619,567
Cleared with cargoes.
January 1916	218	425,123	160	15,056	378	440,179
December 1915	203	416,515	142	14,031	345	430,546
January 1915	214	448,660	120	10,471	334	459,131
January 1914	237	652,836	143	13,082	380	665,918

In the month of January, there were 242 arrivals* and 378 sailings† in and from India. For the last three months, there were 769 arrivals and 1,005 sailings, as against 777 arrivals and 971 sailings in the corresponding period of last year.

The great scarcity of freight at the present time is reflected in these tonnage figures. If a comparison be made with the corresponding month of 1914, before the war broke out, it will be seen that there is a decrease in tonnage of vessels cleared of 225,739 tons or 34 per cent. The clearances from Bengal showed a decrease of 16 per cent; from Bombay 35 per cent; Sind 60 per cent; Madras 41 per cent; and Burma 18 per cent. The decrease in entries amounted to 248,533 tons or 40 per cent.

RAILWAY STATISTICS.

Railway statistics, like the import and export statistics above, are a valuable indication of the general movement of trade throughout the country, and show that the earnings from 1st April 1915 to 29th January 1916 were R51,16 lakhs as against R48,68 lakhs in the corresponding period of 1914-15 or an increase of R2,48 lakhs.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

CALCUTTA, FEBRUARY 17, 1916

Final General Memorandum on the GROUNDNUT crop of the season 1915-16.

This memorandum is based upon reports received from the three provinces of Madras, Bombay, and Burma, which comprise 99 per cent of the entire groundnut area of British India.

The total area returned is 1,935,000 acres as compared with 2,413,000 acres (revised figure) for 1914-15, or a decrease of 20 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 1,011,000 tons of nuts in shell as against 947,000 tons (revised figure) for last year, or an increase of 7 per cent. The season has, on the whole, been favourable.

The details for each of the provinces are given below :—

Final estimates

Province	Estimated total yield		Area		Average yield per acre
	1915-16	1914-15	1915-16	1914-15	1915-16	1914-15
	Tons.	Tons.	Acres.	Acres.	lbs.	lbs.
Madras	633,000	580,000	1,441,000	1,866,000	984	696
Bombay (a)	275,000	279,000	232,000	278,000	2,655	2,248
Burma	103,000	88,000	262,000	269,000	881	733

(a) Including Native States.

There is, in short, a decrease in acreage but an increase in production in 1915-16 as compared with the previous year.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Madras (71·1 per cent of the total area under groundnut in British India).—The total area under the crop is reported to be 1,441,000 acres, which is nearly 23 per cent below the actual area of last year. The total yield is estimated at 633,000 tons, showing an increase of 9 per cent on the estimate made at this time last year. The season has been generally good, especially in the Deccan where practically full crops are expected. In the Central districts also a good yield may be looked for.

Bombay (14·1 per cent of the total area under groundnut in British India).—The total area estimated to be sown is 232,000 acres (53,000 acres being in Native States), which is 16 per cent below last year's area. The contraction in area is attributed to the late commencement of rains and to low prices fetched by the crop last year. Spanish and Japanese seed is reported to be gaining preference everywhere. The total yield is estimated at 275,000 tons (58,000 tons being in Native States), which is 1 per cent shorter than last year's yield. The dry as well as the wet crop throve well in the north, although some damage from excessive rain at the end of the season has been reported from places. The crop has also generally done well in the west and south. In the east the dry crop suffered to some extent from prolonged breaks in the middle of the season and its condition is only fair ; the wet crop is in excellent condition everywhere.

Burma (13·6 per cent of the total area under groundnut in British India).—The total area under the crop is reported to be 262,000 acres, showing a decrease of 3 per cent as compared with last year. The decrease is attributed to unsatisfactory rainfall, notably in Myingyan and Magwe. The total yield is estimated at 103,000 tons, being 17 per cent above the yield of last year. The season has generally been more favourable for groundnut cultivation than in the preceding year.

Exports.—The quantities exported by sea to foreign countries during the nine months (April to December) of this year and the whole of the preceding four years have been as follows :—

	From Madras	From Bombay	From Burma	From other provinces	TOTAL
	Tons	Tons	Tons	Tons	Tons
1911-12 .	141,800	46,500	2,700	100	191,100
1912-13 .	180,200	48,800	14,300	100	243,400
1913-14 .	197,300	53,700	26,900	...	277,900
1914-15 .	115,200	21,100	1,900	100	138,300
1915-16 (nine months)	89,800	10,200	...	...	100,000

Prices and Freights.—The figures below show the prices (per cwt) of groundnut at the end of January 1916 and at the same date in the two preceding years :—

	Madras per cwt.	Bombay per cwt.	Rangoon per cwt.
	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
1914	9 0 0	9 13 6	6 15 1
1915	5 4 8	6 6 0	4 13 0
1916	7 13 4	7 3 0	6 0 9

Freights per ton from Madras to Marseilles (which receives nearly four-fifths of the total exports) were £6 5*s.* in November, £8 in December, and £8 in January of 1915-16 as compared with £1 14*s.* 10*d.*, £1 16*s.* 8*d.*, and £2 15*s.* respectively in the same months of 1914-15.

Chart.—The chart below shows the present figures of area and yield as compared with the finally revised figures of the preceding nine years. The figures of area are in thousands of acres and those of yield in thousands of tons. The figures for 1906-07 exclude Burma.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN DECEMBER 1915.

The object of the tables below is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and the Madras ports during the month of December 1915, and for the nine months April to December 1915, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1914. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN DECEMBER 1914 AND 1915.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river and sea in December 1915, as against the corresponding month of 1914 show (in round numbers) an increase of—

192 per cent in linseed.
(14,200 tons as against 4,900 tons last year.)

130 per cent in raw cotton.
(465,700 bales as against 202,500 bales last year.)

51 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(10,400 tons as against 6,900 tons last year.)

3 per cent in tea.
(29,093,500 lbs. as against 28,240,000 lbs. last year.)

The imports of wheat (excluding wheat flour) by rail, river and sea into ports show a fall of 38 per cent (29,500 tons as against 47,400 tons last year) due mainly to smaller imports from the Punjab to Karachi. The decrease of 34 per cent (455,500 bales as against 692,900 bales last year) in the imports of jute into Calcutta is accounted for by smaller exports mainly from Bengal. The fall of 11 per cent (28,200 tons as against 31,900 tons last year) in the imports of gram and pulse into ports is mainly due to smaller despatches from Bihar and Orissa to Calcutta. The decrease of 6 per cent (67,700 tons as against 72,300 tons last year) in the imports of rice results mainly from smaller imports into Calcutta from Bengal and Burma.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal sources of the imports in December 1914 were the Punjab, and the United Provinces. Table XI shows the exports out of India of wheat (including wheat flour) month by month during the last four years.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN NINE MONTHS ENDING DECEMBER 1914 AND 1915.

Table I shows an increase in the nine months' figures of jute (55·2 per cent), raw cotton (26 per cent), gram and pulse (22·2 per cent), rice, including paddy (9·9 per cent) and tea (8·9 per cent). Other articles show a decrease, viz., 29 per cent in linseed and 1 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).

Exports of linseed to ports from the province of Bihar and Orissa fell off by 66,000 tons, from Bengal by 11,000, from the United Provinces by 7,000, from the Nizam's Territory by 3,000 and from Assam by 1,000. The despatches of wheat (excluding wheat flour) from the Punjab decreased by 238,000 tons, from Bihar and Orissa by 23,000, and from Bengal by 1,000.

NOTE.—400 lbs. are equivalent to 1 bale of cotton or jute.
82⅔ lbs are equivalent to 1 maund.
1 maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN DECEMBER 1915 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with November 1915, the imports in December 1915 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers)

an increase of—

113 per cent in raw cotton.
(465,700 bales as against 218,400 bales previous month.)

43 per cent in linseed.
(14,200 tons as against 10,000 tons previous month.)

11 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(10,400 tons as against 9,400 tons previous month.)

and a decrease of—

31 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).
(29,500 tons as against 42,400 tons previous month.)

29 per cent in jute.
(455,500 bales as against 640,500 bales previous month.)

24 per cent in tea.
(29,093,500 lbs as against 38,529,000 lbs previous month.)

20 per cent in gram and pulse.
(28,200 tons as against 35,400 tons previous month.)

12 per cent in rice.
(67,700 tons as against 76,900 tons previous month.)

The Statistics for December 1914 and 1915, as also for the nine months ending 31st December 1914 and 1915, together with those for November and December 1915 are summarised below :—

The 22nd February 1916.

No. 635-C.—The following paper is published for general information :—

Letters Patent constituting the High Court of Judicature at Patna in the Province of Bihar and Orissa, bearing date the 9th February 1916.

GEORGE THE FIFTH, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, To all to whom these Presents shall come, greeting :

Recital of Act 24 and 25 Vict., c. 104.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament passed in the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Years of the Reign of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, and called the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, it was, amongst other things, enacted, by section one, that it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom, to erect and establish a High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William ; and, by section two, that such High Court should consist of a Chief Justice and as many Judges, not exceeding fifteen, as Her Majesty might, from time to time, think fit to appoint, who should be selected from among persons qualified as in the said Act was declared ; and, by section eight, that upon the establishment of such High Court as aforesaid the Supreme Court and the Court of Sadr Diwani Adalat and Sadr Nizamat Adalat at Calcutta, in the said Presidency, should be abolished ; and, by section nine, that the High Court of Judicature so to be established should have and exercise all such civil, criminal, admiralty, and vice-admiralty, testamentary, intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction, original and appellate, and all such powers and authority for and in relation to the administration of justice in the said Presidency, as Her Majesty might by such Letters Patent as aforesaid grant and direct, subject, however, to such directions and limitations, as to the exercise of original civil and criminal jurisdiction beyond the limits of the Presidency town, as might be prescribed thereby ; and that, save as by such Letters Patent might be otherwise directed, and subject and without prejudice to the legislative powers in relation to the matters aforesaid of the Governor-General of India in Council, the High Court so to be established should have and exercise all jurisdiction, and every power and authority whatsoever, in any manner vested in any of the Courts in the same Presidency abolished under the said Act at the time of the abolition of such last-mentioned Courts :

And whereas it was further declared by section sixteen of the said recited Act that it should be lawful for Us by Letters Patent to erect and establish a High Court of Judicature in and for any portion of territories within Our Dominions in India, not included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court, to consist of a Chief Justice and such number of other Judges, with such qualifications as were by the same Act required in persons to be appointed to the High Courts established at the Presidencies of Fort William in Bengal, of Madras, and of Bombay, as We from time to time might think fit and appoint ; and that it should be lawful for Us, by such Letters Patent, to confer on any new High Court which might be so established any such jurisdiction, powers and authority as under the same Act was authorised to be conferred on or would become vested in the High Court established in any of the said Presidencies ; and that, subject to the directions of the Letters Patent, all the provisions of the said recited Act relative to High Courts and to the Chief Justice and other Judges of such Courts, and to the Governor-General or Governor of the Presidency in which such High Courts were established, should, as far as circumstances might permit, be applicable to any new High Court which might be established in the said territories, and to the Chief Justice and other Judges thereof, and to the Persons administering the Government of the said territories :

Recital of establishment of High Courts at Fort William and Allahabad.

And whereas, upon full consideration of the premises, Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, bearing date at Westminster the Fourteenth day of May, in the Twenty-fifth Year of Her Reign, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, did erect and establish a High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William aforesaid, and did constitute that Court to be a Court of Record.

And whereas Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, bearing date at Westminster the Twenty-eighth day of December, in the Twenty-ninth Year of Her Reign, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, did revoke the said Letters Patent bearing date the Fourteenth day of May in the Year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, but notwithstanding that revocation did continue the said High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal and declared that the Court should continue to be a Court of Record:

And whereas, upon full consideration of the premises, Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, bearing date at Westminster the Seventeenth day of March, in the Twenty-ninth year of Her Reign, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, did erect and establish a High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces, which said Court is situated at Allahabad in the Province of Agra and is now called the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, and did constitute that Court to be a Court of Record:

Recital of Act 1 & 2 Geo. 5, c. 18.

And whereas by an Act of Parliament passed in the First and Second Years of Our Reign, and called the Indian High Courts Act, 1911, it was enacted, amongst other things, by section one, that the maximum number of Judges of a High Court of Judicature in India, including the Chief Justice, should be twenty;

and, by section two, that Our power under section sixteen of the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, might be exercised from time to time and that a High Court might be established under the said section sixteen in any portion of the territories within Our Dominions in India, whether or not included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court; and that, where such a High Court was established in any part of such territories included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court, it should be lawful for Us by Letters Patent to alter the local jurisdiction of that other High Court, and to make such incidental, consequential and supplemental provisions as might appear to be necessary by reason of the alteration of those limits:

Recital of Act 5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 61.

And whereas the said Indian High Courts Acts, 1861 and 1911, have been repealed and re-enacted by an Act of Parliament passed in the Fifth and Sixth Years of Our Reign, and called the Government of India Act, 1915:

Recital of creation of Province of Bihar and Orissa.

And whereas certain territories formerly subject to and included within the limits of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal were by proclamation made by the Governor-General of India on the Twenty-second day of March in the Year of Our Lord One thousand nine hundred and twelve, constituted a separate Province, called the Province of Bihar and Orissa, and are now governed by a Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

Establishment of High Court at Patna.

1. Now know ye that We, upon full consideration of the premises, and of Our special grace, certain knowledge, and mere motion, have thought fit to erect and establish, and by these presents We do accordingly for Us, Our Heirs and Successors, erect and establish, for the Province of Bihar and Orissa aforesaid, with effect from the date of the publication of these presents in the Bihar and Orissa Gazette, a High Court of Judicature, which shall be be called the High Court of Judicature at Patna, and We do hereby constitute the said Court to be a Court of Record.

Constitution and first Judges of the High Court.

2. And We do hereby appoint and ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall, until further or other provision be made by Us, or Our Heirs and Successors, in that behalf in accordance with section One hundred and one of the said recited Government of India Act, 1915, consist of a Chief Justice and six other Judges, the first Chief Justice being Sir Edward Maynard Des Champs Chamier, Knight, and the six other Judges being Saiyid Shurf-ud-din, Esquire, Edmund Pelly Chapman, Esquire, Basanta Kumar Mullick, Esquire, Francis Reginald Roe, Esquire, the Honourable Cecil Atkinson, and Jowala Persad, Esquire, being respectively qualified as in the said Act is declared.

Declaration to be made by Judges.

3. And We do hereby ordain that the Chief Justice and every other Judge of the High Court of Judicature at Patna, previously to entering upon the execution of the duties of his office, shall make and subscribe the following declaration before such authority or person as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may commission to receive it:—

"I, A.B., appointed Chief Justice [or a Judge] of the High Court of Judicature at Patna, do solemnly declare that I will faithfully perform the duties of my office to the best of my ability, knowledge and judgment."

Seal.

4. And We do hereby grant, ordain and appoint that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have and use as occasion may require, a seal bearing a device and impression of Our Royal arms, within an exergue or label surrounding the same, with this inscription, "The Seal of the High Court at Patna." And We do further grant, ordain and appoint that the said seal shall be delivered to and kept in the custody of the Chief Justice, and in case of vacancy of the office of Chief Justice, or during any absence of the Chief Justice, the same shall be delivered over and kept in the custody of the person appointed to act as Chief Justice under the provisions of section One hundred and five of the Government of India Act, 1915; and We do further grant, ordain and appoint that, whensoever the office of Chief Justice or of the Judge to whom the custody of the said seal be committed is vacant, the said High Court shall be, and is hereby, authorized and empowered to demand, seize and take the said seal from any person or persons whomsoever, by what ways and means soever the same may have come to his, her or their possession.

Writs, &c., to issue in name of the Crown, and under seal.

5. And We do hereby further grant, ordain and appoint that all writs, summonses, precepts, rules, orders and other mandatory process to be used, issued or awarded by the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall run and be in the name and style of Us, or of Our heirs and successors, and shall be sealed with the seal of the said High Court.

Appointment of officers.

6. And We do hereby authorize and empower the Chief Justice of the High Court of Judicature at Patna from time to time, as occasion may require, and subject to any rules and restrictions which may be prescribed from time to time by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, to appoint so many and such clerks and other ministerial officers as may be found necessary for the administration of justice and the due execution of all the powers and authorities granted and committed to the said High Court by these Our Letters Patent. And We do hereby ordain that every such appointment shall be forthwith submitted to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council and shall be either confirmed or disallowed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. And it is Our further will and pleasure, and We do hereby, for Us, Our heirs and successors, give, grant, direct and appoint, that all and every the officers and clerks to be appointed as aforesaid shall have and receive respectively such reasonable salaries as the Chief Justice may, from time to time, appoint for each office and place respectively and as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, may approve of: Provided always, and it is Our will and pleasure, that all and every the officers and clerks to be appointed as aforesaid shall be resident within the limits of the jurisdiction of the said Court, so long as they hold their respective offices; but this proviso shall not interfere with or prejudice the right of any officer or clerk to avail himself of leave of absence under any rules prescribed from time to time by the Governor-General in Council, and to absent himself from the said limits during the term of such leave in accordance with the said rules.

Admission of Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys.

Powers of High Court in admitting Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys.

7. And We do hereby authorize and empower the High Court of Judicature at Patna to approve, admit and enrol such and so many Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys, as to the said High Court may seem meet; and such Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys shall be and are hereby authorized to appear for the suitors of the said High Court, and to plead or to act, or to plead and act, for the said suitors, according as the said High Court may by its rules and directions determine, and subject to such rules and directions.

Powers of High Court in making rules for the qualifications, etc., of Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys.

8. And We do hereby ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have power to make rules from time to time for the qualification and admission of proper persons to be Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys-at-law of the said High Court, and shall be empowered to remove or to suspend from practice, on reasonable cause, the said Advocates, Vakils or Attorneys-at-law; and no person whatsoever but such Advocates, Vakils or Attorneys shall be allowed to act or to plead for, or on behalf of, any suitor in the said High Court, except that any suitor shall be allowed to appear, plead or act on his own behalf, or on behalf of a co-suitor.

Civil Jurisdiction of the High Court.

Extraordinary original civil jurisdiction.

9. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have power to remove, and to try and determine, as a Court of extraordinary original jurisdiction, any suit being or falling within the jurisdiction of any Court subject to its superintendence, when the said High Court may think proper to do so, either on the agreement of the parties to that effect, or for purposes of justice, the reasons for so doing being recorded on the proceedings of the said High Court.

Appeal to the High Court from Judges of the Court.

10. And We do further ordain that an appeal shall lie to the High Court of Judicature at Patna from the judgment (not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction in a case which has been called for by the said Court, and not being a sentence or order passed or made in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction) of one Judge of the said High Court, or of one Judge of any Division Court constituted in pursuance of section One hundred and eight of the Government of India Act, 1915, and

Appeal from other Civil Courts in the Province of Bihar and Orissa.

11. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall be a Court of Appeal from the Civil Courts of the Province of Bihar and Orissa and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence, and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as were, immediately before the date of the publication of these presents, subject to appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal by virtue of any law then in force, or as may after that date be declared subject to appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Patna by any law made by competent legislative authority for India.

Jurisdiction as to Infants and Lunatics.

12. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have the like power and authority with respect to the persons and estates of infants, idiots and lunatics within the Province of Bihar and Orissa as that which was vested in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal immediately before the publication of these presents.

Law to be administered by the High Court.

By the High Court in the exercise of extraordinary original civil jurisdiction.

13. And We do further ordain that, with respect to the law or equity to be applied to each case coming before the High Court of Judicature at Patna in the exercise of its extraordinary original civil jurisdiction, such law or equity shall, until otherwise provided be the law or equity which would have been applied to such case by any local Court having jurisdiction therein.

By the High Court in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction.

14. And We do further ordain that, with respect to the law or equity and rule of good conscience to be applied by the High Court of Judicature at Patna to each case coming before it in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, such law or equity and rule of good conscience shall be the law or equity and rule of good conscience which the Court in which the proceedings in such case were originally instituted ought to have applied to such case.

Criminal Jurisdiction.

Ordinary original criminal jurisdiction of the High Court.

15. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have ordinary original criminal jurisdiction in respect of all such persons within the Province of Bihar and Orissa as the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal had such criminal jurisdiction over immediately before the publication of these presents.

Jurisdiction as to persons.

16. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna, in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction, shall be empowered to try all persons brought before it in due course of law.

Extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction.

17. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction over all persons residing in places within the jurisdiction of any Court subject to its superintendence, and shall have authority to try at its discretion any such persons brought before it on charges preferred by any magistrate or other officer specially empowered by the Government in that behalf.

No appeal from High Court exercising original jurisdiction.

18. And We do further ordain that there shall be no appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Patna from any sentence or order passed or made by the courts of original criminal jurisdiction which may be constituted by one or more Judges of the said High Court. But it shall be at the discretion of any such court to reserve any point or points of law for the opinion of the said High Court.

Court may reserve points of law.

High Court to review cases on points of law reserved by one or more Judges of the High Court.

19. And We do further ordain that, on such point or points of law being so reserved as aforesaid, the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have full power and authority to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such point or points of law, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court may seem right.

20. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall be a Court of Appeal from the Criminal Courts of the Province of Bihar and Orissa, and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence, and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as were, immediately before the date of the publication of these presents, subject to appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal by virtue of any law then in force, or as may after that date be declared subject to appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Patna by any law made by competent legislative authority for India.

Appeals from other Criminal Courts in the Province of Bihar and Orissa.

21. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall be a court of reference and revision from the Criminal Courts subject to its appellate jurisdiction, and shall have power to hear and determine all such cases referred to it by the Sessions Judges, or by any other officers in the Province of Bihar and Orissa who were, immediately before the publication of these presents, authorized to refer cases to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and to revise all such cases tried by any officer or Court possessing criminal jurisdiction in the Province of Bihar and Orissa, as were, immediately before the publication of these presents, subject to reference to or revision by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Hearing of referred cases, and revision of criminal trials.

22. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have power to direct the transfer of any criminal case or appeal from any Court to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction, and also to direct the preliminary investigation or trial of any criminal case by any officer or Court otherwise competent to investigate or try it, though such case belongs in ordinary course to the jurisdiction of some other officer or Court.

High Court may direct the transfer of a case from one Court to another.

Criminal Law.

23. And We do further ordain that all persons brought for trial before the High Court of Judicature at Patna, either in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, or in the exercise of its jurisdiction as a court of appeal, reference or revision, charged with any offence for which provision is made by Act No. XLV of 1860, called the "Indian Penal Code," or by any Act amending or excluding the said Act which may have been passed prior to the publication of these presents, shall be liable to punishment under the said Act or Acts, and not otherwise.

Offenders to be punished under Indian Penal Code.

Admiralty Jurisdiction.

24. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have and exercise in the Province of Bihar and Orissa, all such civil and maritime jurisdiction as was exerciseable therein immediately before the publication of these presents by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal as a Court of Admiralty, and also such jurisdiction for the trial and adjudication of prize causes and other maritime questions as was so exerciseable by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Civil.

25. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have and exercise in the Province of Bihar and Orissa all such criminal jurisdiction as was exerciseable therein immediately before the publication of these presents by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal as a Court of Admiralty, or otherwise in connection with maritime matters or matters of prize.

Criminal.

Testamentary and Intestate Jurisdiction.

26. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have the like power and authority as that which was immediately before the publication of these presents lawfully exercised within the Province of Bihar and Orissa by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, in relation to the granting of probates of last wills and testaments, and letters of administration of the goods, chattels, credits and all other effects whatsoever of persons dying intestate ; Provided always that nothing in these Letters Patent contained shall interfere with the provisions of any law which has been made by competent legislative authority for India, by which power is given to any other Court to grant such probates and letters of administration.

Testamentary and intestate jurisdiction.

Matrimonial Jurisdiction.

27. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have jurisdiction, within the Province of Bihar and Orissa, in matters matrimonial between Our subjects professing the Christian religion : Provided always that nothing herein contained shall be held to interfere with the exercise of any jurisdiction in matters matrimonial by any Court, not established by Letters Patent within the said Province, which is lawfully possessed of that jurisdiction.

Matrimonial jurisdiction.

Powers of Single Judges and Division Courts.

28. And We do hereby declare that any function which is hereby directed to be performed by the High Court of Judicature at Patna, in the exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction, may be performed by any Judge, or by any Division Court, thereof, appointed or constituted for such purpose in pursuance of section One hundred and eight of the Government of India Act, 1915; and if such Division Court is composed of two or more Judges and the Judges are divided in opinion as to the decision to be given on any point such point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges, if there be a majority, but if the Judges be equally divided, then the opinion of the senior Judge shall prevail.

Single Judges and Division Courts.

Civil Procedure.

29. And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the High Court of Judicature at Patna from time to time to make rules and orders for regulating the practice of the Court and for the purpose of adapting as far as possible the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, being an Act, No. V of 1908, passed by the Governor-General in Council, and the provisions of any law which has been or may be made, amending or altering the same, by competent legislative authority for India, to all proceedings in its testamentary, intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction, respectively.

Regulation of proceedings.

Criminal Procedure.

30. And We do further ordain that the proceedings in all criminal cases brought before the High Court of Judicature at Patna, in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction, shall be regulated by the procedure and practice which was in use in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal immediately before the publication of these presents, subject to any law which has been or may be made in relation thereto by competent legislative authority for India; and that the proceedings in all other criminal cases shall be regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure, being an Act, V of 1898, passed by the Governor-General in Council, or by such further or other laws in relation to criminal procedure as may have been or may be made by such authority as aforesaid.

Regulation of proceedings.

Appeals to Privy Council.

Power to appeal in civil cases.

Appeal from interlocutory judgments.

33. And We do further ordain that from any judgment, order or sentence of the High Court of Judicature at Patna, made in the exercise of original criminal jurisdiction, or in any criminal case where any point or points of law have been reserved for the opinion of the said High Court, in manner provided by the 18th clause of these presents, by any Court which has exercised original jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for the person aggrieved by such judgment, order or sentence to appeal to Us, Our heirs or successors, in Council, provided the said High Court declares that the case is a fit one for such appeal, and that the appeal be made under such conditions as the said High Court may establish or require, but subject always to such rules and orders as are now in force, or may from time to time be made, respecting appeals to Ourselves in Council from the Courts of the Province of Bihar and Orissa.

Appeal in criminal cases.

Rule as to transmission of copies of evidence and other documents.

34. And We do further ordain that, in all cases of appeal made from any judgment decree, order or sentence of the High Court of Judicature at Patna to Us, Our heirs or successors, in Our or their Privy Council, such High Court shall certify and transmit to Us, Our heirs and successors, in Our or their Privy Council, a true and correct copy of all evidence, proceedings, judgments, decrees and orders had or made, in such cases appealed, so far as the same have relation to the matters of appeal, such copies to be certified under the seal of the said High Court. And that the said High Court shall also certify and transmit to Us, Our heirs and successors, in Our or their Privy Council, a copy of the reasons given by the Judges of such Court, or by any of such Judges, for or against the judgment or determination appealed against. And We do further ordain that the said High Court shall, in all cases of appeal to Us, Our heirs or successors, conform to and execute, or cause to be executed, such judgments and orders as We, Our heirs or successors, in Our or their Privy Council, may think fit to make in the premises, in such manner as any original judgment, decree or decretal orders, or other order or rule of the said High Court, should or might have been executed.

Exercise of jurisdiction elsewhere than at the usual place of sitting of the High Court.

Judges to visit Orissa by way of circuit.

35. And We do further ordain that, unless the Governor-General in Council otherwise directs, one or more Judges of the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall visit the Division of Orissa, by way of circuit, whenever the Chief Justice from time to time appoints, in order to exercise in respect of cases arising in that Division the jurisdiction and power by these Our Letters Patent, or by or under the Government of India Act, 1915, vested in the said High Court: Provided always that such visits shall be made not less than four times in every year, unless the Chief Justice, with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council otherwise directs: Provided also that the said High Court shall have power from time to time to make rules with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for declaring what cases or classes of cases arising in the Division of Orissa shall be heard at Patna and not in that Division, and that the Chief Justice may, in his discretion, order that any particular case arising in the Division of Orissa shall be heard at Patna or in that Division.

Special commissions and circuits.

36. And We do further ordain that whenever it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, convenient that the jurisdiction and power by these Our Letters Patent, or by or under the Government of India Act, 1915, vested in the High Court of Judicature at Patna should be exercised in any place within the jurisdiction of any Court subject to the superintendence of the said High Court, other than the usual place of sitting of the said High Court, or at several such places by way of circuit, one or more Judges of the Court shall visit such place or places accordingly.

Proceedings of Judges on special commission or circuit.

37. And We do further ordain that whenever any Judge or Judges of the High Court of Judicature at Patna visit any place under the 35th or the 36th clause of these presents the proceedings in cases before him or them at such place shall be regulated by any law relating therets which has been or may be made by competent legislative authority for India.

Delegation of Duties to Officers.

Power to delegate duties.

38. The High Court of Judicature at Patna may from time to time make rules for delegating to any Registrar, Prothonotary or Master or other official of the Court any judicial, quasi-judicial and non-judicial duties.

Cessation of jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Cessation of jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William over the Province of Bihar and Orissa.

39. And We do further ordain that the jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal in any matter in which jurisdiction is by these presents given to the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall cease from the date of the publication of these presents, and that all proceedings pending in the former Court on that date in reference to any such matter shall be transferred to the latter Court:

Provided, first, that the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal shall continue to exercise jurisdiction—

(a) in all proceedings pending in that Court on the date of the publication of these presents in which any decree or order, other than an order of an interlocutory nature, has been passed or made by that Court, or in which the validity of any such decree or order is directly in question; and

(b) in all proceedings [not being proceedings referred to in paragraph (a) of this clause] pending in that Court, on the date of the publication of these presents, under the 13th, 15th, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 32nd, 33rd, 34th or 35th clause of the Letters Patent bearing date at Westminster the Twenty-eighth day of December, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, relating to that Court; and

(c) in all proceedings instituted in that Court, on or after the date of the publication of these presents, with reference to any decree or order passed or made by that Court:

Provided, secondly, that, if any question arises as to whether any case is covered by the first proviso to this clause, the matter shall be referred to the Chief Justice of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and his decision shall be final.

Calls for Records, etc., by the Government.

40. And it is Our further will and pleasure that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall comply with such requisitions as may be made by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for records, returns and statements, in such form and manner as he may deem proper.

High Court to comply with requisitions from Government for records, etc.

Powers of Indian Legislatures.

41. And We do further ordain and declare that all the provisions of these Our Letter Patent are subject to the legislative power of the Governor-General in Legislative Council, and also of the Governor-General in Council under section Seventy-one of the Government of India Act, 1915, and also of the Governor-General in cases of emergency under section Seventy-two of that Act, and may be in all respects amended and altered thereby.

Powers of Indian Legislatures preserved.

In Witness whereof we have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent. Witness Ourself at Westminster the Ninth day of February, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand nine hundred and sixteen and in the sixth year of Our Reign.

By warrant under the King's Sign Manual.

Delhi, the 26th February 1916.

No. 1502-W.—The following Royal Proclamation is published for general information :—

BY THE KING.

A PROCLAMATION

MAKING CERTAIN ADDITIONS TO AND AMENDMENTS IN THE LIST OF ARTICLES TO BE TREATED AS CONTRABAND OF WAR.

GEORGE R.I.

WHEREAS on the 14th day of October 1915, We did issue Our Royal Proclamation specifying the articles which it was Our intention to treat as contraband during the continuance of hostilities or until We did give further public notice ; and

Whereas it is expedient to make certain further additions to and amendments in the said list :

NOW, THEREFORE, We do hereby declare, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council that, during the continuance of the war or until We do give further public notice, the following articles will be treated as absolute contraband, in addition to those set out in Schedule I of Our Royal Proclamation aforementioned :—

Cork, including cork dust.

Bones in any form, whole or crushed, and bone ash.

Soap.

Vegetable fibres and yarns made therefrom.

And We do hereby further declare that as from this date the following amendments shall be made in Schedule I of Our Royal Proclamation aforementioned :—

In item 8, for "acetone" shall be substituted "acetones, and raw or finished materials usable for their preparation".

In item 9, for "phosphorus" shall be substituted "phosphorus and its compounds".

In item 26 there shall be added after the word "parts" the words "and accessories".

In item 38 the more general term "lead" shall be substituted for the words "lead, pig, sheet, or pipe".

And We do hereby further declare that the following articles shall as from this date be treated as conditional contraband in addition to those set out in Schedule II of Our Royal Proclamation aforementioned :—

Casein.

Bladders, guts, casings, and sausage skins.

Given at Our Court at Buckingham Palace, this Twenty-seventh day of January, in the year of our Lord One thousand nine hundred and sixteen, and in the Sixth year of Our Reign.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

No. 1504-48.—Mr. H. Mayston, Director of Telegraphs, is granted such privilege leave as may be due to him on the date on which he may be relieved, in combination with furlough of such duration as may bring the total period of absence up to 2 years.

GEOLOGY AND MINERALS.

The 26th February 1916.

No. 641-132.—The following draft of amendments which it is proposed to make, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 20 of the Indian Mines Act, 1901 (VIII of 1901), in the rules issued with Notification No. 11793-103 (Geology and Minerals), dated the 30th December 1908, is published, as required by the same section, for the information of persons concerned. Notice is hereby given that the draft will be taken into consideration by the Governor General in Council on or after the 26th May 1916.

Any objection or suggestion which may be received from any person with respect to the draft before the date fixed aforesaid will be considered by the Governor General in Council:—

Draft amendments.

For Rule 1 substitute the following, namely:—

Annual returns.

Forms I, II, III, IV, V and VI, respectively, for Coal, Mica and mines other than Coal or Mica in the Schedule hereto annexed shall be (1) filled up in duplicate by the agent, or if there is no agent, by the owner or manager of a Coal, Mica or other Mine, as the case may be, and one copy of each shall be forwarded to the Chief Inspector of Mines and the other to the District Magistrate not later than the 21st January (2) in each year.

Rule 8. For the words "Form V" substitute the words "Form VII".

For the Schedule appended to the Rules the following shall be substituted, namely:—

(1) Under Section 22 (2) (b) of the Indian Mines Act, failure to forward correct returns to the Chief Inspector of Mines not later than the 21st January in each year will render the agent, owner or manager liable, on conviction, to a penalty which may extend to Rs. 500.

(2) It will greatly facilitate the preparation of the statistics if the returns are despatched as soon as possible after the close of the year.

Bills introduced in the Indian Legislative Council, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council, and Bills published under Rule 23.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend the Indian Ports Act, 1908, was presented to the Indian Legislative Council on the 22nd February, 1916 :—

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Indian Ports Act, 1908, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us, annexed thereto.

Paper No. I.—From the Hon'ble Mr. B. C. Allen, I.C.S., Chief Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Assam, dated 23rd October, 1915; from H. M. Veitch, Esq., I.C.S., Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, Appellate Side, dated 10th December, 1915; and from the Hon'ble Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S., Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay, dated 10th December, 1915, and enclosures.

Paper No. II.—From the Hon'ble Mr. A. Butterworth, C.S.I., I.C.S., Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, dated 9th December, 1915; from the Hon'ble Mr. E. L. L. Hammond, I.C.S., Secretary to the Government of Bihar and Orissa, dated 15th December, 1915; and from the Hon'ble Mr. C. M. Webb, I.C.S., Secretary to the Government of Burma, dated 15th December, 1915, and enclosures.

Paper No. III.—From F. A. A. Cowley, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, dated 26th January, 1916, and enclosures.

2. After considering the opinions received, we think that the additional rule-making power conferred by clause 4, sub-clause (2), in so far as it relates to vessels plying for hire, may reasonably be modified so as to exclude cargo boats from its operation; and we have modified the clause in question to provide for this.

3. We have made a slight drafting amendment of a purely verbal nature in the proviso inserted by clause 6, sub-clause (iii).

4. In clause 7, we have inserted a provision requiring the port authority to be consulted before the powers conferred by section 34 of the main Act can be exercised. We were informed that this provision represents the actual practice.

5. We discussed at some length clause 11 of the Bill which inserts a new section 68-A in the Act. We considered the question whether any change in the language of that section was necessary, in order to make it clear that it referred to manœuvres in peace time, and we are of opinion that no change of wording is necessary in this respect. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill also brought to our notice the fact that he would probably move in Council the addition to the Act of a further provision conferring powers to make requisitions on port authorities in times of emergency. We have inserted an amendment in the clause providing that Government should be liable for any damage caused to a requisitioned vessel, while under the control of Government We think this is not an inequitable arrangement as the clause does not provide for the payment of hire of the vessel.

BILL No. 14 OF 1915.

[AS AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

[Words printed in italics indicate amendments suggested by the Select Committee.]

A Bill further to amend the Indian Ports Act, 1908.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the XV of 1908. Indian Ports Act, 1908; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Indian Ports (Amendment) Act, 1916.

Amendment of section 4, Act XV of 1908.

2. In section 4, sub-section (1) of the Indian XV of 1908. Ports Act, 1908 (hereinafter called the said Act), the words "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council" shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 5, Act XV of 1908.

3. In section 5, sub-section (1) of the said Act, the words "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council and" shall be omitted.

Amendments of section 6, Act XV of 1908.

4. In section 6, sub-section (1) of the said Act, the following amendments shall be made,—

(1) After clause (j) the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

"(jj) for regulating the use of piers, jetties, landing places, wharves, quays, warehouses and sheds when belonging to the Government, and for fixing the rates to be paid for the use of the same;"

(2) In clause (k) after the word "port" the words "and for licensing and regulating the crews of any such vessels," and after the word "passengers" the words "or of the crew" shall be inserted; and at the end of the same clause, the following shall be added, namely:—"and may by such rules provide for the fees payable in respect of any such license, and in the case of passenger vessels plying for hire, for the rates of hire to be charged and the conditions under which such vessels shall be compelled to ply for hire, and further for the conditions under which any license may be revoked."

Amendments of section 31, Act XV of 1908.

5. In section 31 of the said Act, the following amendments shall be made, namely:—

(i) After sub-section (1) the following sub-section (2) shall be inserted, namely:—

"(2) Notwithstanding anything in sub-section (1), the owner or master of a vessel which is by that sub-section required to have a pilot, harbour-master or assistant of the port officer or harbour-master on board, shall be answerable for any loss or damage caused by the vessel or by any fault of the navigation of the vessel, in the same manner as he would have been if he had not been so required by that sub-section:

Provided that the provisions of this sub-section shall not take effect till the first day of January, 1918, or such earlier date as the Governor General in Council may notify in that behalf in the "Gazette of India."

(ii) The existing sub-sections (2), (3) and (4) shall be re-numbered (3), (4) and (5), respectively.

(iii) In the existing sub-section (3) for the word and figures "(1) and (2)" the word and figures "(1), (2) and (3)" shall be substituted.

Amendments of section 33, Act XV of 1908.

6. In section 33 of the said Act, the following amendments shall be made, namely:—

(i) In sub-section (1) after the figure (1), the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2),"

(ii) After sub-section (1), the following sub-section (2) shall be inserted, namely:—

"(2) The Local Government may, by notification in the local official gazette, alter or add to any entry in the First Schedule relating to ports within its own province, and this power shall include the power to regroup any such ports:

Provided that, if any such alteration or addition has the effect of increasing the port-dues in any such port, such alteration or addition shall require the sanction of the Governor General in Council."

(iii) In the existing sub-section (2) the words "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council" and the words "with the like sanction" shall be omitted, and to the same sub-section, the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

"Provided that, except with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, the rates and the times so declared shall not be respectively higher or shorter than the maximum rate and the shortest time specified and fixed in the First Schedule for any port in the province."

(iv) The existing sub-sections (2), (3) and (4) shall be re-numbered (3), (4) and (5), respectively.

Amendment of section 34, Act XV of 1908.

Amendment of section 35, Act XV of 1908.

8. In section 35, sub-section (1) of the said Act, the proviso shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 36, Act XV of 1908.

9. In section 36 of the said Act, sub-section (3) shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 37, Act XV of 1908.

10. In section 37, sub-section (2) (a) of the said Act, for the words "with the previous sanction" the words "subject to the control" shall be substituted.

Insertion of new section 68A in Act XV of 1908.

11. After section 68 of the said Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Authorities exercising jurisdiction in ports to co-operate in manœuvres for defence of port.

"68A. Every authority exercising any powers or jurisdiction in, or relating to, any port to which this Act for the time being applies shall, if so required by an officer authorised by general or special order of the Governor General in Council in this behalf, co-operate in such manner as such officer may direct, in carrying out any manœuvres in connection with any scheme or preparations for the defence of the said port in time of war, and for this purpose shall, if so required, temporarily place at the disposal of such officer the services of any of its staff and the use of any of its vessels, property, equipment or other material :

Provided, firstly, that if any vessels are placed at the disposal of such officer in accordance with this section, the Government of India shall, in respect of the period during which they are so at his disposal, bear the running expenses of such vessels, and be responsible for any damage thereto.

Explanation.—The expression "running expenses" in this proviso, includes all outlay incurred in connection with the use of the vessel other than any charges for their hire or for the wages of the officers and crews of such vessels :

Provided, secondly, that any officer making a requisition under this section shall exercise his powers in such a way as to cause as little disturbance to the ordinary business of the port as is compatible with the exigencies of the efficient carrying out of the manœuvres :

Provided, thirdly, that no suit or other legal proceeding shall lie against any authority for any default occurring by reason only of compliance with a requisition under this section."

PROCEEDINGS OF THE INDIAN LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL ASSEMBLED UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA ACT, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V, Ch. 61).

The Council met at the Council Chamber, Imperial Secretariat, Delhi, on Tuesday, the 15th February, 1916.

PRESENT :

His Excellency BARON HARDINGE OF PENSHURST, P.C., G.C.B., G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O., G.M.S.I., G.M.I.E., I.S.O., Viceroy and Governor General, presiding, and 56 Members, of whom 48 were Additional Members.

OATH OF OFFICE.

The following Additional Members made the prescribed oath or affirmation of allegiance to the Crown :—

The Hon'ble Sir Edward Douglas Maclagan, K.C.I.E., C.S.I.
,, Mr. Alexander Phillips Muddiman, C.I.E.
,, Mr. John Ghest Cumming, C.I.E.
,, Lt.-Col. Charles Mowbray Dallas, C.S.I.
,, Mr. Reginald Arthur Mant.
,, Maung Bah Too, C.I.E., K.S.M.
,, Mr. Lionel Davidson, C.S.I.
,, Dr. Mahendra Nath Banerjee, M.R.C.S., L.S.A.
,, Mr. Charles William Maitland Hudson.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola asked :—

Facilities for refining gold and silver in India.

1. "Will Government be pleased to state what facilities (if any) are available to the public for refining gold and silver in India ?"

The Hon'ble Sir William Meyer replied:—

"No facilities for refining gold and silver are available to the public at the Indian Mints. The Government of India are not able to state how far, if at all, such work is undertaken by private agency in this country."

The Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola asked:—

Silver purchased for Indian Currency.

2. "Will Government be pleased to state to what extent (if any) has silver been purchased in each year for the purposes of the Indian Currency, since the closing of the Indian Mints to the unrestricted coinage of silver in 1893—

(a) in London,

(b) in India?"

The Hon'ble Sir William Meyer replied:—

"I lay on the table a statement* giving the information asked for."

The Hon'ble Maharaja Ranajit Sinha of Nashipur asked:—

Circulation of cut currency notes.

3. "Will the Government be pleased to state if any orders have been issued prohibiting the circulation of cut currency notes?"

The Hon'ble Sir William Meyer replied:—

"The answer is in the negative. I will take an opportunity of referring to this question in my speech introducing the Financial Statement."

The Hon'ble Maharaja Ranajit Sinha of Nashipur asked:—

Appointment of an official as Vice-Chancellor of the Calcutta University.

4. "Will the Government be pleased to state whether the appointment of an official as Vice-Chancellor of the Calcutta University is contemplated?"

The Hon'ble Sir C. Sankaran Nair replied:—

"The answer is in the negative."

The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerjee asked:—

Reduction of sentences in the Lahore Conspiracy Case.

5. "In the Press Communiqué issued by the Government, dated the 19th November, 1915, it was stated that the action of the Government of India in reducing the sentences on some of the prisoners in the Lahore Conspiracy case was taken as the result of careful examinations of the facts as proved in evidence against each individual prisoner. Was there any disagreement between the Government of India and the Special Tribunal which tried the case as regards the findings of the latter in regard to some of the facts?"

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock replied:—

"The Communiqué already issued contains all the information on the point which it is considered desirable to make public."

The Hon'ble Rai Sita Nath Ray Bahadur asked:—

Adulteration of food-stuffs.

6. (1) "With reference to the reply† given to my question on the subject at a meeting of Council on the 16th September, 1914, will the Government be pleased to state whether they have received the opinions of the several Local Governments on the question of adulteration of food-stuffs?

* Not published in these Proceedings.

[15TH FEBRUARY, 1916.] [Rai Sita Nath Ray Bahadur; Sir C. Sankaran Nair; Sir William Clark; Sir Reginald Craddock.]

(2) If the answer be in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state whether they intend—

(a) to publish the correspondence on the subject and the papers relating thereto, and

(b) to undertake any legislation for the prevention of adulteration of food-stuffs?"

The Hon'ble Sir C. Sankaran Nair replied:—

(1) "The replies of Local Governments have been received and are under consideration.

(2) The Government of India are unable at present to state their intentions regarding the matters referred to in (a) and (b) of the Hon'ble Member's second question."

THE INDIAN PORTS (AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir William Clark:—"My Lord, I beg to move that the Bill further to amend the Indian Ports Act, 1908, be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. G. R. Lowndes, the Hon'ble Sir Fazulbhoy Currimbhoy, the Hon'ble Rai Sitanath Ray Bahadur, the Hon'ble Major-General B. Holloway, the Hon'ble Mr. C. E. Low, the Hon'ble Mr. T. W. Birkett, the Hon'ble Mr. F. H. Stewart, the Hon'ble Mr. A. P. Muddiman, the Hon'ble Mr. L. Davidson, and myself."

The motion was put and agreed to.

THE INDIAN TRUSTS (AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock:—"My Lord, I beg to move that the Bill further to amend the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, be taken into consideration.

"The Bill has met with no opposition at all, and in regard to it, I have nothing to add to the explanation of its scope contained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, and to the remarks that I made when I introduced the Bill last September.

"A few suggestions have been received from some or other of the authorities consulted, and have been carefully considered by the Government of India, but their conclusion has been that none of these suggestions are suitable for inclusion in the present Bill, either because the objects they are intended to serve are already sufficiently provided for by the existing Act, or because they fall outside the scope of the present Bill, though they might be relevant if the amendment of the Bill on wider lines were to be undertaken, or else because the further enlargement of trustee stock suggested would require further detailed examination at the hands of the numerous authorities interested in such matters, which would entail unnecessary delay in securing the particular amendments which the Bill is framed to secure. Among these suggestions I may note some of the more important

"It has been suggested, for example, that power should be taken to enable trustees to invest in debentures or other security issued by or on behalf of District Boards, and a similar suggestion has been made to add to the trustee's stock the stock shares and securities of any railway company, the interest of which is guaranteed by a Native State. The former proposal is supported by the Madras Government, but in neither case could the acceptance of these proposals be made off-hand without a further reference to all those who would have to be consulted. It might very well be that objections to so wide an extension may be raised. The reference related to the specific proposals made in the Bill, and it was never intended to invite suggestions for further additions to trustee's stock which must inevitably require very close examination.

[Sir Reginald Craddock; Sir William Clark; The President.] [15TH FEBRUARY, 1916.]

"Another suggestion was made that the proviso to section 20 of the existing Act should be reproduced in respect of the new section 20-A. This proviso requires the consent of the beneficiary of the trust (when he is competent to contract) in respect to certain classes of investments, but in respect of other classes of investments, this consent is not necessary, and the additions which the Bill makes to trustee's stock will in any case be covered by the proviso to section 20 of the Act, according as the new stock falls or does not fall into the category of investments which require or do not require the consent of the beneficiary of the trust.

"Again, it has been suggested that power should be taken for the trustee to vary his investment. But the Act has been working for some 33 years, and no obstacle to a trustee varying investments has come to light.

"Another suggestion made is that, instead of the prescriptions contained in the proviso to section 20, a sliding scale should be fixed having reference to the rate of interest and the number of years the security has to run. But the proposed new section follows exactly the corresponding provision in the English Trustee Act, and the proposal would appear to entail the adoption of restrictions which it might be difficult to enforce in practice.

"The suggestions made on this occasion will remain on record for future consideration if the further amendment of the Act should at any time be taken up, but so far as the present Bill is concerned, they fall outside its scope, and none of them are such as to necessitate any modifications in the text of the Bill as introduced in Council. It is not considered necessary, therefore, to refer the measure to a Select Committee, and I accordingly move that the Bill be taken into consideration."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock:—"My Lord, I now beg to move that the Bill be passed."

The motion was put and agreed to.

THE DEFENCE OF INDIA (AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir William Clark:—"My Lord, I beg to move for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Defence of India (Criminal Law Amendment) Act, 1915.

"Following the precedent of last year, we propose to incorporate in a legislative measure an Ordinance passed when Council was not sitting. The Bill when it becomes an Act will only have duration for the period of the war and six months thereafter. The origin of this particular Ordinance was the desire of Government to stimulate the production of wolfram which was required in the United Kingdom for the purposes of the war. At the same time certain other commercial matters were dealt with. I beg to move for leave to introduce the Bill."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Sir William Clark:—"My Lord, I introduce the Bill, and I move Your Excellency to suspend the Rules of Business to admit of the Bill being taken into consideration. The same procedure was followed in similar cases last year."

His Excellency the President:—"I suspend the Rules of Business."

The Hon'ble Sir William Clark:—"My Lord, I move that the Bill be taken into consideration."

The motion was put and agreed to.

[15TH FEBRUARY, 1916.] [Sir William Clark; Sir Pardey Lukis.]

The Hon'ble Sir William Clark:—"My Lord, I move that the Bill be passed."

The motion was put and agreed to.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL (BOGUS DEGREES) BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir Pardey Lukis:—"My Lord, before formally moving that the Bill, which is in my charge, should be referred to a Select Committee, I should like to express my satisfaction that the replies received from the authorities consulted show such a very large consensus of opinion in favour of the principle of the Bill on the part of the educated community, both European and Indian, whether they be doctors or laymen, and I would specially draw attention to the views of that very influential and representative body, the Bombay Medical Union, which includes all the most eminent and independent practitioners in Western India. With very few exceptions the criticisms received have been levelled merely at details. These criticisms will receive most careful and sympathetic attention on the part of the Select Committee, upon which we propose to place the Hon'ble Dr. M. N. Banerjee, Chairman of one of the institutions concerned, in order that the views of the authorities of the independent medical colleges may be fully represented. That being so, it is unnecessary that I should deal with matters of detail at this stage, but, with Your Excellency's permission, I wish to say a few words as regards the general object served by this Bill, about which many misconceptions have arisen. Briefly stated, the object of the Bill (which I may remark in passing will apply to all medical schools, whether Government or independent) is that no teaching institution shall examine its own students, but that it shall conform to certain definite standards, shall submit to outside inspection, and shall affiliate itself to one or more of the sanctioned examining bodies. The authorities of the schools in question will be able then to seek three different grades of affiliation, namely, to the Licentiateship or Membership of the State examining body, the former corresponding to the diploma of the Sub-Assistant Surgeon, and the latter to the old L. M. & S., or they may affiliate to a recognised University for the higher degrees of M.B., or M.D. The real object of this Bill, therefore, is to improve the status of the independent medical colleges—not to destroy them—and I am surprised that anyone, who knows my views as regards the importance of improving the position of the independent practitioner, or who is aware of the keen interest I take in the development of independent medical colleges, should attribute to me the wish to injure the one or suppress the other. In this connection, may I refer Hon'ble Members to my speech in Council on March the 17th, 1911, when I said :—

'In Calcutta alone, there is ample room for properly staffed and well-equipped un-official medical colleges and schools which may be either affiliated to the University, or run on the same lines as a Government medical school, but entirely conducted by Indian medical men, and I look forward to the day when in every important town of the Indian Empire we shall have a well-equipped non-official medical college, staffed entirely by Indians, and working in friendly rivalry with the Government medical college ; each institution striving its hardest to show the best results at the University examinations, and I earnestly hope that, before I say farewell to India, I may see this an accomplished fact—at any rate in Calcutta and Bombay.'

"My Lord, I still hope to see this dream fulfilled. On the 7th of last month, the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Bengal was granted by the Senate of the University of Calcutta provisional affiliation up to the Preliminary Scientific standard for the M B. degree, and I am proud to think that I was able to play a part in the securing of this desirable result. I hope also that, 'ere long, it may be possible to affiliate one of the other independent colleges in Calcutta to the State Medical Faculty of Bengal. Meanwhile, Bombay has received a munificent offer of twelve lakhs of rupees from the Trustees of Mr. Gordhandass Sunderdass for the foundation of a second medical college in that city, to be staffed by Indians not in Government service, and to be affiliated to the Bombay University. I trust most sincerely that it may be possible to utilise this very generous gift, and that the example of its donor may stimulate the rich and charitable nobility and zemindars of Bengal to come forward with the money which is required in order to place upon a sound footing the independent medical colleges in Calcutta, to one of which the Government of India has sanctioned a grant of five lakhs non-recurring and Rs. 50,000 recurring on certain conditions which will, I trust, shortly be fulfilled.

"With these remarks, my Lord, I now move that the Bill to prevent the grant to unqualified persons of titles implying qualifications in western medical science, and the assumption and use by such persons of such titles, be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock, the Hon'ble Mr. G. R. Lowndes, the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti Vijiaraghavachariar, the Hon'ble Rai Ghanasyam Barua Bahadur, the Hon'ble Raja Saiyid Abu Jafar, the Hon'ble Mr. J. Walker, the Hon'ble Mr. L. Davidson, the Hon'ble Dr. M. N Banerjee, and myself."

The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerjee:—"My Lord, there are some of us who would like to speak on this Bill if we may."

His Excellency the President:—"Certainly."

The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerjee:—"My Lord, I regret to say that I feel it my duty to oppose the motion. In doing so, I dissociate myself from those who believe that the Bill is aimed at private medical institutions; the Hon'ble Mover has made an emphatic disavowal in that respect, the disavowal was unnecessary. The Hon'ble Mover has been a staunch friend of the Indian medical practitioner throughout his official career. If to-day the difficulties which surrounded the question of raising the status of the Belgatchia Medical School, the foremost private medical school in Bengal, have been removed, the fact is largely due to the initiative and the disinterested efforts of Sir Pardey Lukis, and Bengal, let me say this most emphatically, will gratefully cherish the memory of his services in this connection. All the same, my Lord, I think the Bill is somewhat premature; my Lord, it is contentious, and being contentious, in accordance with the principle laid down by Your Excellency, it ought to be kept out of this Council for discussion during war time; that it is contentious and controversial is evident from a perusal of the papers which have been circulated; I need not refer to them at any length in this Council; they are in the hands of Hon'ble Members.

"My Lord, the Bill is condemned by Indian public opinion. As I came into this room I received a telegram which says that protest meetings against this Bill have been held at Madras, Nagpur and Calcutta. I am familiar with the meeting that was held at Calcutta. It was presided over by the Hon'ble Mr. B. Chakravarti, one of the most distinguished leaders of the Calcutta Bar. It was influentially and numerously attended, and it recommended the withdrawal of the Bill. My Lord, the Bengal Medical Association—I think my Hon'ble friend the Mover is acquainted with that Association—the President of which is Dr. S. P. Sarbadhikari, the organizer of the Bengal Ambulance Corps, and the Secretary is Dr. Mrigendra Lall Mitra, a distinguished medical practitioner, have recorded their protest against the Bill. They suggest substantial modifications, if not altogether the withdrawal of the Bill. The Bill was circulated among some of the non-official members of the Punjab Legislative Council, and the consensus of opinion of those members is against the Bill. I find one Muhammadan member recording a strong opinion against it. A Medical Association in the Punjab is also opposed to the Bill. Therefore, my Lord, I am entitled to hold that the Bill runs counter to the distinct expression of Indian public opinion. That being so, I appeal to Your Excellency to follow the wise guidance which Your Excellency has given to this Council, namely, that there should be always a deferential attitude towards the reasonable expression of Indian public opinion. Judged by that test I submit that the Bill should be withdrawn. My Lord, nobody apparently wants this Bill. The medical profession do not want it, the Universities do not want it, and as for the community, they certainly do not want it. I venture to think that the community will suffer if the Bill becomes law. Let us analyse the situation for a moment. I am speaking of Bengal, because my experience of these matters does not extend beyond my own province. There are three classes of medical practitioners who minister to the medical needs of the community. They are, first, the qualified graduates from the Government institutions, secondly, the graduates from the private medical schools, and lastly, the out-and-out quacks. Now, my Lord, if this Bill becomes law, the second class of practitioners are bound to disappear in course of time, and what would be the result? The reign of the out-and-out quacks would be thoroughly and firmly established. What is the situation in Bengal at the present moment? We have a population of 45 millions according to the last Census. I think the number of qualified graduates in the Surgeon-General's list is 2,500. Making a simple mathematical calculation, it will be found that we have about a single qualified medical man to 20,000 persons. Will anybody in his senses say that this is sufficient? I say that the situation is intolerable having regard to our needs and to the way in which those needs are met. Therefore, my Lord, it comes to this: that if this Bill comes into operation, and the partially qualified medical practitioners who pass out of the private medical schools disappear, the community will have to depend wholly upon the quacks. I hope that that is a situation which Your Excellency's Government will not countenance.

"Lastly, I come to the case of the students. My Lord, I am in close touch with the student community of Bengal. I meet them every day, and I have the deepest sympathy for them and their aspirations, and the deepest regret for their failings, whatever they may be. Now, my Lord, there are hundreds of students every year who are barred out of the Government medical institutions; barred out, not deliberately, but because there is no room, no accommodation, no arrangement for their teaching, and these have to seek admission into the private medical schools. Now, if these schools disappear, where will they go to? They will not be qualified in any way, the little service which they are able to render to the community they will not be in a position to render; the community will suffer, and these young men will swell the ranks of the idle and the discontented. Now I ask, is that a situation which is fair to these young men, or one which a responsible Government can contemplate with complacence and especially in these times?

"Therefore, my Lord, on all these grounds, with very great regret, I deem it my duty to oppose the motion."

The Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Manindra Chandra Nandi of Kasimbazar:—"My Lord, I regret I am unable to support the motion that this Bill be referred to a Select Committee. It seems to me that there is no occasion for the introduction or passing of such a measure. It is admitted that certain ancient forms of the art of healing, which were in existence before modern western science came into being, have done a great deal to relieve human suffering, and cannot be suppressed by law. The Bill before the Council proposes to prevent the grant to unqualified persons of titles implying qualifications in western medical science, and the assumption and use by such persons. I do not for a moment question the excellence of the Hon'ble Sir Pardey Lukis' motive in introducing this Bill, but I should like to point out that, in the institutions under reference, teaching of a sort in western medical science is imparted, and the persons taught in these institutions help to an appreciable extent the alleviation of human suffering, especially in India where the supply of qualified medical men is by no means equal to the demand. Public opinion almost throughout the country is opposed to this measure. As there is scarcely any room for doubt that the Bill before the Council is contentious, I pray Your Excellency will be pleased to permit it to be held in abeyance, if it is considered inexpedient that it should be withdrawn."

[Rai Sitanath Ray Bahadur; Maharaja Ranajit Sinha of Nashipur.] [15TH FEBRUARY, 1916.]

The Hon'ble Rai Sitanath Ray Bahadur:—"My Lord, while admitting the soundness of the principles underlying the Bill before us, I am sorry that, in view of the vehement opposition which has been aroused in Calcutta and elsewhere by the Bill in question, and which threatens the extinction of the few private colleges giving instructions in the western system of medicine, I should be forced to oppose the reference of this Bill to a Select Committee, for it is undoubtedly, as is evident now, a controversial measure, and it has always been, since the war broke out, the avowed policy of Your Excellency's Government not to take up any measure which, in the least, partakes of a controversial character. Moreover, in view of the fact that the population of India is about 316 millions, whereas the number of qualified doctors, brought up under the western system of medicine, is about a few thousands only, and considering that the disproportion between the demand and supply is so woefully glaring, is palpably so large, it is a matter of surprise that the Government, instead of enlarging the scope of the western system of medicine by giving all kinds of encouragement, specially pecuniary help, to some of the private colleges, one or two of which are undoubtedly doing lots of good work both by giving medical relief daily to hundreds of indoor and outdoor patients, as well as by giving instructions to several hundreds of young men, should do anything which would go to paralyse those institutions, and which would ultimately lead to their utter extinction. I am well aware and for that we are deeply thankful to Government for having been kind enough to promise liberal and substantial help, both recurring and non-recurring, to the Belgatchia Medical College. But, my Lord, Bengal with its teeming population of 50 millions, can boast only of one fully equipped medical college and two medical schools and another prospective medical college at Belgatchia; are they sufficient enough to provide medical practitioners for the requirements of the several millions of people who live in the interior?

"From all points of view, it must be admitted that the Bill, notwithstanding its evidently good intentions, is a little too premature. I, therefore, earnestly pray that the further consideration of this Bill may be postponed for the present."

The Hon'ble Maharaja Ranajit Sinha of Nashipur:—"My Lord, the object of the Bill, as explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, is to prevent the use of bogus titles; so far I quite agree with the Hon'ble the Director-General that this practice should be discontinued. But the Bill has gone further, it says that no institution shall be entitled even to grant a certificate that the students of that institution have been qualified in medicine or surgery. If this Bill be passed into law, I am afraid the private institutions will cease to exist, and instead of encouraging private enterprise, practically they will be hampered. There are very few medical schools and colleges in the whole of the Empire, and they cannot meet the needs of the country. In Bengal, my Lord, I have personal experience that the Medical College cannot admit all the students, who are desirous of prosecuting their studies in medical science, for want of sufficient accommodation, and if these private institutions be closed—and I am afraid they must be closed if this Bill be passed into law—then the result will be, as my friend on the right has said, that these students will pass their days idly and will be a discontented class.

"Further, my Lord, we find that the needs of the country do not require very skilled doctors in every case, and these half-qualified persons, who are turned out from private institutions, will be able to cope with ordinary cases, and if they do not exist the number of quacks will be rampant, and I am sure the object of the Bill is not that quacks should flourish.

"My Lord, I also appeal to Your Excellency that at this time of war such a controversial measure should not be taken into consideration, and we appeal to Your Excellency that, for the present, the Bill may be held in abeyance."

[15TH FEBRUARY, 1916.] [Mr. Abbott; Mr. Rayaningar; Mr. C. Vijiaraghavachariar.]

The Hon'ble Mr. Abbott :—"My Lord, I beg to support the Bill. I consider it most urgently necessary."

The Hon'ble Mr. Rayaningar :—"My Lord, I cannot support the motion, and in not doing so I do not wish to enter into the details of the policy of the Bill. I take into consideration the fact that the Bill is of a contentious nature and object to the motion. Your Lordship almost made it a rule to avoid the introduction of contentious measures while the war is on, and the non-official members have been loyally supporting that rule. My Lord, the Medical (Bogus Degrees) Bill has been the subject-matter of great controversy. In my own Province of Madras, it has not had a good reception. There the unfortunate Dr. Krishnaswami Iyer's incident is still fresh in the memory of the people, and therefore the Bill will not receive the reception which it merits. I do not think the present is the proper time for the further consideration of the Bill. I therefore appeal to the Council to postpone it to some date after the conclusion of the war."

The Hon'ble Mr. C. Vijiaraghavachariar:—"My Lord, I believe I understand the Bill and I labour under no misconception I should think. The object of the Bill, as I understand it, is to diminish false pretences by persons who bear certain medical titles, either bestowed on them by certain selected institutions, or altogether falsely assumed by them. That is how I understand the Bill. Now, as regards its object, there can be no two opinions: it is in the highest degree laudable. But let us see what is the scope of the Bill. The scope of the Bill requires that these titles should be bestowed on them by certain recognised institutions which are now scheduled herein or shall be hereafter named by the Governor General in Council. It is confined to British India. It thus leaves severely alone the titles bestowed upon Indians by foreign institutions. As I understand it, this Bill cannot and does not intend to affect those titles. Taking therefore the scope of the Bill, it restrains the issue of titles only as regards institutions existing in India, and yet not scheduled or recognised by the Government of India. The most important question therefore is, what is the grievance, what is the evil against which this law is proposed as a remedy? There is not a scrap of paper containing evidence that any sick person or wounded person, or anybody having the care of such, was ever deceived by persons bearing these titles. I in vain searched for any such evidence through the voluminous quantity of papers placed at our disposal, and it has not been stated in the speech made by the Hon'ble and learned member in charge of the Bill that there was any evil arising in that way. No doubt it might be assumed a priori that certain people are, and would be, deceived, but, on the other hand, we find in one and the same place where the two sets of graduates are available, namely, those from Government institutions and those also from private institutions, people resort in much larger numbers to the graduates from private institutions because they are cheaper. Considering they are cheaper, people most naturally would ask the question, who are these people and why are they cheaper? How is it 'A,' M.D., charges Rs. 5 a visit, while 'B,' M.D., charges Rs. 15 for a visit? Clearly therefore people do inquire and judge of the qualifications and fitness of the two sets of people with these similar degrees, and I do not therefore subscribe to the a priori argument that these people bearing titles from private institutions practise any deception on the sick and wounded population, or those who have the care of the sick and wounded population. Therefore, there is absolutely no evidence of any evil against which this measure is proposed as a remedy, and if there is no evil, I cannot understand the urgency of it either. Therefore, I am obliged to associate myself with the Hon'ble members who believe, not that this measure is a premature one, but that it is altogether uncalled for. At the same time, I desire to say that, if it is yet deemed to be an important measure, I think it is a fit measure to be left as a legacy by the Hon'ble and learned member to his successor who might bring it up as a post bellum measure, and it might then be more calmly discussed after evidence taken of the evil really existing. With these few words, I am obliged to say I oppose the motion before the Council."

[Sir Pardey Lukis; Mr. Surendranath Banerjee.] [15TH FEBRUARY, 1916.]

The Hon'ble Sir Pardey Lukis:—"My Lord, I have listened very carefully to the remarks made by the Hon'ble members, but I am not convinced that they have established their case, at any rate so far as the principle of the Bill is concerned, and this, it must be remembered, is the only point now before the Council, the motion being merely one for reference to Select Committee. I do not think that anything has been said to show that this Bill is premature.

"On the contrary, I feel very strongly that the longer the Bill is postponed, the greater will be the vested interests opposed to it, and the more difficult will it be to cope with them. Nor can I admit that the Bill is contentious or that there is any strong feeling against it, either on the part of the medical profession or of the public; and I should like to point out that the Hon'ble member who is here to represent the interests of the independent medical colleges has not uttered a single word against the general principle of the Bill, nor has he opposed its reference to Select Committee. As regards the pathetic plea put forward by the Hon'ble Mr. Banerjee on behalf of all those students whom he fears will be thrown out of employment, thus becoming useless members of the community, I think I made it fairly clear in my opening speech that we have no desire whatever to deprive these students of employment. What we want is to see that they are properly taught. Similarly, we do not wish to restrict the supply of qualified medical men: we wish to ensure that medical men are properly qualified and fit to carry out western medicine, as now recognised. I pointed out in my speech that the independent medical colleges will be able to affiliate up to three different standards, the lowest being equivalent to that required of the Sub-Assistant Surgeon, or as he used to be called, the Hospital Assistant; and I maintain very strongly that it is not safe to permit any man to practise western medicine unless he comes up to this minimum standard, especially in these days when the medical man has to deal with such important methods of treatment as that by Salvarsan, Tuberculin, intravenous injections of antimonial and arsenical preparations, and all the various forms of vaccine and serumtherapy as now practised. I hold that if a man is unable to qualify up to the standard of a Hospital Assistant, he ought not to be permitted to practise western medicine, but should be content to confine himself to the simpler methods of treatment adopted by the baids and hakims.

"The point regarding foreign bogus titles, alluded to by my Hon'ble friend opposite, will be carefully considered in Select Committee, where there will be ample opportunities for discussion of all criticisms and amendments, and I may state that the course pursued as regards the future of this Bill will depend upon the conclusions there arrived at."

The motion was put and agreed to.

RESOLUTION RE PREVENTION OF MALARIA.

The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerjee:—"My Lord, I have the honour to move the Resolution which stands against my name. The terms of the Resolution are these:—

> 'That this Council recommends to the Governor General in Council (a) to instruct the Provincial Governments to take vigorous measures for the prevention of Malaria, and (b) to publish an annual statement showing the progress made by each Province in this matter.'

"My Lord, I confess to a sense of personal concern in the question to which this Resolution relates. I come from a Province which may be said to be the home of malaria. It would be no exaggeration to say that some of the fairest parts of my loved Province have been decimated by this terrible scourge. There are districts in which the death-rate exceeds the birth-rate, owing to the prevalence of malaria. My Lord, I live in a village in Bengal. I have with my own eyes seen villages, once the abode of health, happiness and plenty, now a crumbling mass of dilapidated structures, overgrown with jungle, with a solitary inhabitant here and there, pale and anæmic, suffering from malarial fever, but resolutely clinging to the ancestral homestead, as if mounting guard over the sweet reminiscences of the past. Some of our healthiest districts have suffered grievously from malaria. Birbhum is a well-known district in Bengal. At one time it was a health resort; it used to be so within my recollection. To-day the health-conditions of the place have completely changed. The Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal, in his Report for 1914, says that it tops the grim list of recorded mortality arising from malarial fever in the whole province. Take another district, the district of Nadia. It is a place of renown in our religious and social history. It is the birthplace of Chaitanya, the great founder of Vishnuism, the home of Raghunandan, the most illustrious jurist that Bengal has ever produced. At one time it was a health resort. Tradition says that Warren Hastings, the first Governor General of Bengal, built a house there which he used to visit for health and change. To-day, my Lord, it is a plague spot, malarial fever counting its victims by thousands and tens of thousands. I could quote other instances, but they are unnecessary; let us look at the figures bearing on the point. The Government of India in their Resolution, dated the 23rd of May, 1914, say that—

'in many parts of India malaria is a far greater scourge than either cholera or plague.'

Here are the figures which amply prove the dictum of the Government of India. In Bengal, the mortality from fever for 1912 was 959,000 in round numbers; for 1913, it was 965,000, a slight increase; for 1914, 1,061,000, a steady increase. I have not got the figures for 1915, but I put a question in the Bengal Legislative Council, and I elicited this fact that the mortality from fever for the ten months of 1915 showed an increase in the death-rate. My Lord, we have therefore got this fact that, since 1912, the mortality from fever in Bengal has been steadily rising, and in 1914, it jumped to the figure of ten lakhs, and possibly in 1915 it will be worse. My Lord, let us take the average. The average of five years from 1908 to 1912 for Bengal is 927,000; the average of five years from 1909 to 1913—I take one year later—is 931,000. Here again there is an increase in the mortality.

"My Lord, I think it is only right and proper that I should pause for a moment to offer an explanation. The figures which I have quoted are the figures of mortality from fever of all kinds. We have not got a distinct head to show the mortality from malaria. That is unfortunate. I desire to call the attention of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Department, and to request that there should be a special head showing the rate of mortality from malaria. But, my Lord, we are not left altogether in the dark as to the fact that malaria is principally responsible for these large figures, for the Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal in his report for 1914, while discussing the high death-rate of that year, lays special stress upon the prevalence of malaria, leaving the impression on the mind of the reader that malaria is responsible for this appalling death-rate. But this may be a surmise. The matter, however, is cleared up in a general way by the Government of India. In the observations which the Government of India make in their Resolution dated the 23rd May, 1914, they say—

'malaria kills, maims, causes more sickness, more misery, more deaths than any other disease in India.'

Therefore, my Lord, we have this plain fact admitted by the Government of India, that malaria is the greatest scourge that decimates the people of India, and nowhere is it more terribly felt than in the unfortunate province to which I have the honour to belong.

"My Lord, we now come to the United Provinces and the Punjab. But before I deal with them, I have an observation to make. Wherever there is a rise in the death-rate it is accompanied by a rise in the birth-rate—that is the beneficent ordering of nature. If it were otherwise, depopulation would follow. But, my Lord, in Bengal this wholesome law of nature is reversed or, at any rate, suspended. Let me quote the figures of the birth-rates and the death-rates for Bengal. I take the figures for 1912, 1913 and 1914. The birth-rate in 1912 was 35·30 per mille; in 1913, it was 33·75; and in 1914, 33·22. Therefore, Your Excellency will observe that there is a decrease in the birth-rate between 1912 and 1914. But there is a serious rise in the death-rate for the same period. Here are the figures. The death-rate for 1912 was 29·77; for 1913, 29·38; for 1914, 30·97. We have thus with an increasing death-rate, a decreasing birth-rate for the period to which I have referred.

"My Lord, in the United Provinces and the Punjab, we find a similar state of things. The death-rate for fever in the Punjab was in 1912, 14·22, and in 1913, it was 17·15. In the United Provinces, the death-rate for fever was 20·66 in 1912, and in 1913, it was 23·88. My Lord, I will quote the remarks of the Government of India in this connection. In his report for 1913—I have not been able to get any more recent report than that for 1913—the Sanitary Commissioner says—

'To fever is ascribable yet again more than half the total mortality of India.'

"My Lord, malaria is spreading in Bihar. It has spread in the district of Shahabad. At present Bombay and Madras and the Central Provinces are comparatively immune. God grant that that immunity may long continue, but no one knows. The disease has a tendency to spread, and I venture to submit that it is only right and proper for the Government to take steps that will eradicate the disease or, at any rate, seriously curtail its area.

"But, my Lord, the loss of human life does not alone represent the sum total of the suffering and misery inflicted on the people by malaria. For one man who dies of malaria at least ten suffer from it—though they do not die of it. They carry on a lingering existence hovering between life and death, to whom death in many cases would be a relief. My Lord, the Government also suffers seriously and from a military point of view in consequence of the prevalence of malaria. The report of the Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India for 1913 says—

'Malaria continues to be the dominating factor of inefficiency in European troops in India.'

That is the deliberate opinion of the Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India in the year 1913. And, my Lord, the indirect consequences are very serious. Let me give an illustration. There is a great factory for producing munitions of war at Ichapur. I happen to know something about that factory, because I live close to it. The Factory employs 3,000 men a day. Six weeks ago 1,000 men, representing one-third of the total number of workmen, were absent owing to the prevalence of malaria. The Superintendent of another Factory near Calcutta said that one-half of his men were absent in the malarial season owing to the prevalence of malaria. My Lord, it seems to me that this is a state of things which deserves the most serious consideration of the Government of India. What a wastage of energy and loss of national efficiency all this represents.

"Having regard to the terrible mortality arising from malaria and the wide area it covers, I think I am entitled to hold that it has become a grave national problem. And be it noted, that malaria is most prevalent among the poor. Like plague, it is the poor man's disease, and has its roots largely in economic causes. A sanitary expert—a high official of Government whose name I am precluded from mentioning because I have not his authority for it—told me the other day that it is poverty, insufficient food, and insanitary surroundings which weaken the power of resistance and make people an easy prey to malaria. And what are the statistics on this subject? You find that malaria is most prevalent in rural areas where the vast millions of our people are gathered together. The Reports of Sanitary Commissioners, both of Bengal and of the Government of India, support this view. The Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal says in his report for 1913—

'Out of 965,000 deaths registered from this cause during the year under report, 25,000 occurred in urban areas and the rest in rural areas.'

In 1914, we have the same report. The Sanitary Commissioner says—

'The decrease in the mortality from this disease in urban areas that was noticed in that year's report was well maintained during 1914, while in the year before the mortality was higher in the rural area.'

And, my Lord, the Government of India says the same thing. The figures for 1913 supplied by the Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India point to the same conclusion. In the rural area the death-rate from fever was 17·28 per mille; and in the urban area 10·35. Therefore, my Lord, I am entitled to hold that, in urging this matter for the consideration of Your Excellency's Government, I am pleading the poor man's cause.

"And, after all, my Lord, malaria is a preventible disease. It is not one of those scourges from which there is no escape, which we must submit to with all the fortitude and the patience that we can muster Malaria has prevailed in other countries, and they have been freed from it by the adoption of proper sanitary measures. Malaria prevailed at one time in England. History tells us that James the First died of the tertian ague. Malaria prevailed in Italy, but the reclamation of the swamps and the adoption of the system known as Bonificazione have helped to eradicate the disease and free the people from its ravages. Mark the achievements of America in the Panama Canal and of Japan in Formosa. My Lord, I feel tempted to read an extract from an article which appeared in one of the newspapers regarding the work which Japan has done in Formosa in connection with the eradication of malaria—

'They set about doing this in a very business-like fashion. By way of experiment certain districts were selected, and on a certain day all the inhabitants were made to appear at an appointed time to have their blood examined microscopically with a view to finding out if they were malaria carriers. Those in whom the malaria parasites were found were placed under treatment for 30 days in order that the parasites may be exterminated. It is stated that altogether 376,621 persons were examined, of whom 10,000 were found to be carriers. It is stated that in two districts the mortality from malaria has been reduced to nothing, and in another district has been reduced from 11·60 to 3·39 per thousand. These results are noted after the system has been in operation for two years.'

"My Lord, am I to understand that our Government will confess to a failure in a work in which other Governments have been more successful? My Lord, our Government in normal times commands illimitable resources; its power of organisation is superb; its capacity to deal with difficult problems beyond all praise. But I confess that in this matter the Government has not done justice to itself. Of Conferences and Commissions we have had enough; but they have not been attended with adequate results. My Lord, I find in the Resolution of Government to which I have referred that six lakhs of rupees have been spent for the purpose of carrying out anti-malarial operations. I should like to ask the question: Have they contributed in any way to reduce the mortality from malarial fever? I hope my Hon'ble Friends opposite will be in a position to give me an answer upon that point.

"Secondly, Provincial Malarial Committees have been appointed. We have one in Bengal. My Lord, will this Council believe it that that Committee did not hold a single meeting last year? Will the Council believe it that that Committee does not publish an annual report? It deliberates in secret, discusses in secret, works in secret, if indeed it works at all. I can understand a Cabinet dealing with difficult diplomatic questions conducting its proceedings in this manner; but sanitation is not a question of diplomacy. If there is any matter in regard to which the co-operation of the public is essential, it is sanitation; and if you want the public to co-operate, you must take them into your confidence; and tell them what you have done and what you mean to do. You have a Malarial Committee for all India; it publishes a report every year. I do not understand why the Bengal Committee should enshroud its deliberations in an impenetrable veil of mystery. I hope a word of advice might be given to that Committee to be a little more alert, to be a little more communicative, to be a little more diligent in the discharge of those responsible duties with which it is entrusted My Lord, amid the controversies that have taken place, with regard to malaria, there are two points about which there seems to be a common agreement, namely, that it is a class of mosquitoes which carry the disease, and that quinine is a prophylactic as well as a curative agent. The Government is doing a great deal for the purpose of distributing quinine. But what about the reclamation of those areas which are the breeding grounds of the malaria-carrying mosquitoes; and here the question of rural sanitation comes to the front. Rural sanitation is entrusted to the local bodies. My Lord, I wish to speak of them with the utmost possible respect, because I am myself a member of one of these bodies. But their means are limited. The Government has enormous resources, and it has expert knowledge and organisation at its disposal which the local bodies cannot command. I therefore submit with the utmost emphasis that Government should place themselves at the head of the sanitary movement, and initiate and carry out all large sanitary projects, such as drainage, water-supply, et-cetera, the local bodies being required to co-operate in the application of the projects to the local areas. My Lord, the Sanitary Commissioner to the Government of the Punjab says that there are barrow pits along both sides of the railway lines. We find the same thing in Bengal and they generate malaria. Then there are the railway embankments which, faultily constructed, produce malaria. I would appeal to the President of the Railway Board to look to these things and do the needful in the interests of the public health. Then there are the silted-up rivers in Bengal which, according to Dr. Bentley, are a prolific cause of malaria. I submit it is the duty of the Government to look to the great water-courses in Bengal and elsewhere. My Lord, here no political considerations are involved. In this matter the community and the Government may heartily co-operate in a work than which nothing could be nobler, in the work of saving human life and alleviating human suffering. A Government that will give us the inestimable boon of health will raise for itself a monument more lasting than brass in the gratitude, the affections and the contentment of a happy and prosperous people. My Lord, we hear a great deal about unrest. Give us food, sufficient food, by helping our industries; give us health by eradicating malaria; satisfy the inner man by gratifying our legitimate aspirations, and the spectre of unrest with which the enemies of Indian advancement so often confront us will fade away into thin air like the baseless fabric of a vision. My Lord, in placing this Resolution before this Council, I plead for the millions of my countrymen, for those who earn their bread by the sweat of their brows; I plead for their health and happiness, and I am sure I do not plead in vain before Your Excellency and this Council."

The Hon'ble Sir E. Maclagan :—" My Lord, I may say at once that Government is prepared to accept the Resolution which the Hon'ble Member has brought forward. As he points out, the Resolution has two portions. In the first place, he asks us to instruct Provincial Governments to take measures for the prevention of malaria; and our attitude as regards that is that, if by issuing instructions to Provincial Governments, we can do anything, however small, to alleviate the scourge of malaria, it is our duty to meet his wishes in the matter. Then, his second point is, that he desires us to publish an annual statement showing the progress made by each province. There is already a statement in the reports that are published each year by the Sanitary Commissioners in the various provinces. But it may possibly be a convenience to have an annual report with details for the whole of India on the subject; and we propose to arrange with the Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India that he should mention in his annual report briefly what has been done in the matter of dealing with malaria.

" There are, however, one or two considerations which I should like to mention in connection with this Resolution. In the first place, when we talk of the prevention of malaria, we must include in that the measures we take for investigating and inquiring into the subject of malaria, its causes and its possible remedies. The inquiry and the prevention of malaria are two portions of the same process, and it is a matter for discretion in each case as to where we are to leave the process of inquiry and proceed to that of actual measures affecting the people. We are, therefore, when urging Local Governments to take vigorous measures for prevention of malaria, at the same time urging them, where necessary, to make further inquiries into what is necessary to be done before the introduction of these measures.

" Another point to which I would invite attention is that the remedies which are applicable to malaria are not the same throughout the whole of India. That is to say, we find that malaria assumes different forms in different parts of India, and different remedies are necessary. In some parts of India it is epidemic and in others endemic. In some parts it is due to excess of water; in some parts we are told that it is due to want of water. In some parts of India there are remedies indicated which in others are absolutely impossible. The Government of India in their Resolution of 1914, to which the Hon'ble Member has referred, have indicated the general lines on which they think that the question of malaria should be dealt with. But it rests primarily with the Provincial Governments to decide what particular measures they will take in each case to deal with malaria in the provinces which are under their control.

"Then there is a further matter which must be obvious to most of us at the present time, and that is that Local Governments, like the Government of India, are, at present, hampered in the matter of staff and finance.

"I need not dilate further on this, but Hon'ble Members will understand that the action of Local Governments is at the present moment hampered by the limits placed on the finances at their disposal.

"The Hon'ble Member has given expression to one or two ideas which prevail about malaria, and about which I should like to say a word or two. In the first place, he has given expression to the view that malaria is increasing in India; I do not say he used those words, but he brought forward instances to show that it was increasing in certain provinces. There is no doubt whatever that in certain areas malaria has increased in the terrible way which the Hon'ble Member describes, but there are also fortunately other areas in which it has decreased; and from such data as are available,—and they are not as good as we could wish—from such data as are available we may say that there is nothing to justify us in saying definitely that malaria has increased in India during the last few years.

"He has also expressed the view, which I think prevails among many people, that Government has not done what it should in the matter of dealing with malaria. It is quite true that here and there in one area or another certain measures that should have been taken may not have been taken, but I would demur to any expression of the view that Government has been remiss in dealing with the question generally. I would like to point out a few of the administrative measures which Government has taken in connection with the matter. In the first place, in 1909, a Conference was convened by Lord Minto at which he himself presided on the subject of malaria. There have since been Conferences at Bombay, Madras and Lucknow dealing with the same subject. It is quite true, as the Hon'ble Member said, that these Conferences by themselves do not come to the same thing as active preventive measures, but they are of exceedingly great value, and if they have done nothing else they have served to concentrate the attention of Government on the directions in which we can best attack the trouble with which we are dealing. Then classes have been started for teaching scientific men how to deal with malaria, both in the field and in the laboratory. The Bureau to which the Hon'ble Member refers has been started at Kasauli; it gets together all the information that is available on the subject of malaria. We have also the Association for the Promotion of Indian Research started some years ago; and it has already spent some ten lakhs of rupees in inquiries on the subject of malaria. Then we have grants for sanitary purposes, and of recent years the greater part of these has been spent in dealing with measures against malaria. We also have those cesses which were handed over two years ago to the provinces of Northern India, a pretty considerable sum, and when handing them over the Government of India advised that the District Boards should use a substantial part of them for dealing with malaria and other kindred subjects. The Hon'ble Member asks what have been the results of this expenditure of money. I would merely say in that respect that we must give a little time for the results to be shown. The prevalence of malaria varies from time to time, and we must have a little time to see what the ultimate results may be as shown in statistical data. Each province has started a Malaria Committee, that is to say, we have in each province a body whose main duty it is to look into the prevention of malaria. I won't say that in every province it has fulfilled its duties as it should; but in every province there is now a body from whom advice can be got, which can be consulted and to whom suggestions may be made as to the means for dealing with malaria. These bodies have got an executive officer, in some cases the Chief Malaria Officer, in others officers on special duty who have written reports which are accessible to the public as regards the prevalence of malaria in certain areas. Government, as the Hon'ble Member has mentioned, has taken a considerable amount of trouble in the distribution of quinine and arranged for supplies of the pure drug to be made to the public through the Post Office and by vendors, and by the useful agency of travelling dispensaries. I fancy that what has been done by the Local Governments is not as well known to the public and to Hon'ble Members as perhaps it should be. The Local Governments of certain provinces have issued pamphlets in which they have described the recent improvements in sanitary policy, and these little books, which are very short, give an excellent account of what has been done in sanitary matters, and more especially on the subject of malaria. Hon'ble Members interested in the subject could very well study these books, and if they study them, I think they will feel that Government has been alive to its responsibilities in the matter. This is not however a point that is really of much importance to decide in dealing with this Resolution. If we have hitherto been remiss, then it is incumbent on us to take the vigorous measures now asked for; if we have not been remiss, still we would be quite ready to accept the Resolution and to take these measures. In either case we are quite ready to accept the Resolution as it now stands before Council and as the Hon'ble Member has proposed it."

The Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerjee:—"My Lord, I am very grateful to the Government for accepting my Resolution. I quite admit that Conferences and discussions are necessary for proper and systematic effort, but the point that I tried to bring out was, that the amount of talk has been out of all proportion to the amount of work done, and another point which I want to urge is, that though the Government has been in earnest about the matter, their efforts so far have been spasmodic. I quite appreciate the difficulties of the task; difficulties there may be, but surely they are worthy of the humanity and beneficence of a great Government and are not beyond its resources.

"I would venture to recommend for favourable consideration the anti-malarial activities of Japan in Formosa; the formation of definite schemes with reference to a particular area and the prosecution of those schemes in a systematic way. That was the secret of the success of Japan in Formosa, and I would appeal to my Hon'ble Friend to try the experiment in selected areas in India. A definite plan applicable to a particular area and carried out with energy and in a business-like manner that is the real need of the situation.

"This however has never been tried, so far as I know. I hope and trust that the result of the debate will be that the Local Governments will be stimulated into more vigorous action in connection with a work than which nothing could be nobler or more humane. I am grateful to the Government for accepting my Resolution."

The Resolution was put and accepted.

The Council adjourned to Tuesday, the 22nd instant.

The 23rd February, 1916.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall Summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 24th February 1916, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. The second of the two disturbances referred to in last week's report continued to advance eastwards and gave widespread rain in the United Provinces and northeast India. It was succeeded by another depression from the west, but this was not so well marked as its predecessor and occasioned only a few falls of rain and snow in the hills of the extreme north, and a few falls of rain in Assam, east Bengal and north Burma.

2. Burma.—Light rain fell at Myitkyina and Akyab.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Rainfall was nearly general in Assam on the 17th, 18th and 21st and in north Bengal and Bihar and Orissa on the 17th.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Nearly general rain fell on the 17th in the United Provinces, excluding the southwestern districts.

Northwest India.—There was nearly general precipitation in the North-West Frontier Province and local snowfall in Kashmir on the 19th.

The Peninsula.—Light showers of rain were reported from Gopalpur, Calingapatam and Cocanada.

3. The chief amounts of precipitation were as follows :—

February	17th.	Darjiling 1·31″, Jalpaiguri 0·68″, False Point 1·86″, Bareilly 1·05″, Lucknow 1·30″ and Gorakhpur 0·77″.
„	18th.	Myitkyina 0·65″.
„	19th.	Parachinar 0·70″ and Sonamarg 1·18″.
„	21st.	Sibsagar 1·18″ and Narayanganj 2·22″.
„	22nd.	Cox's Bazar 1·05″.

4. The rainfall of the week was largely above normal in the United Provinces East and was normal in United Provinces West. In northwest India the only divisions that received any rain were the North-West Frontier Province and Kashmir and in these only about half the usual fall occurred. Rainfall was 20 per cent or more in excess in Assam, Orissa, Bihar and the United Provinces East and was normal in Bengal, the United Provinces West and the Madras Coast North. It was 20 per cent or more in defect in all the remaining divisions except Gujarat, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan and the Madras Deccan where no rain usually falls at this time.

The rainfall from the 3rd December to date continues 20 per cent. or more in defect over by far the greater part of the country, although the percentage of defect has decreased in the United Provinces East and northeast India. Rainfall is 20 per cent or more in excess in the Bay Islands, Burma, Central India West and the Bombay Deccan and is within 20 per cent of the normal in Assam, Berar and Hyderabad North. No rain has fallen in the Konkan, but none usually occurs there during this period.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 19th February 1916.

Burma.—The week was practically rainless. Threshing and winnowing of winter rice have been nearly completed. Cultivation of spring rice and harvesting of miscellaneous crops and pulses are progressing. The price of unhusked rice has risen to Rs. 96 per hundred baskets but is still slightly below normal. The supplies are poor. The market for white rice is steady.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Light rain fell in all districts. Harvesting of mustard, pressing of sugarcane, transplantation of spring rice in Sylhet and preparation of land for jhum cultivation in hill districts continue. Hoeing and pruning of tea and ploughing of land for paddy and jute are in progress. Prospects of tea are good. The price of common rice is almost stationary. Cattle disease is reported from seven districts.

Bengal.—During the week light and scattered showers fell in many places throughout the Province. The fall has, to some extent, improved the agricultural prospects but more rain is needed. Reaping and pressing of sugarcane are nearing completion. Harvesting of potatoes continues and that of mustard and other spring oilseeds has commenced. Mango blossoms have come out fully and the prospects so far are hopeful. Fodder is getting scarce in Bankura and Noakhali. Cattle disease is reported from seven districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen very slightly as compared with that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas are generally unchanged but the distress is tending to increase. Scarcity of fodder and water is apprehended. Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Loans continue to be given freely. The price of rice is 8½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 9,328 and on gratuitous relief 15,818; total 25,146. The number of persons relieved on private works was 4,046. In the Tippera district the condition of the people and the state of affairs in the affected areas are generally unchanged. Distribution of loans continues. The price of rice is 7½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 3,275 and on gratuitous relief 4,307; total 7,582. The number of persons relieved on works by the Sarail Wards Estate was 1,018.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain was general in Bihar and Chota Nagpur and local in Orissa. Threshing of paddy, harvesting of oilseeds and pressing of sugarcane are in progress. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained practically stationary since the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in Hazaribagh where water is reported to be scarce. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 645 and in Singhbhum 3,713. Gratuitous relief was given to 933 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—Light rain fell throughout the Provinces, benefiting standing crops in the western districts where more rain is still needed. Irrigation of spring crops, weeding of poppy, sowing of sawan and preparation of land for sugarcane and extra crops continue. Harvesting of peas and mustard has commenced and pressing of sugarcane is nearing completion in places. Standing crops are generally doing well but slight damage by frost and hail is reported from some districts. Prospects in the western districts have been improved by the recent rains. Agricultural stock is in good condition and very little cattle disease is now reported. Fodder and water are sufficient everywhere though the former is still dear in places. The market supplies are ample. Prices are practically stationary.

Punjab.—The weather was generally dry except in parts of the south-eastern and submontane tracts where light or moderate showers were received and were beneficial to the standing crops. More rain is urgently wanted everywhere. The condition and prospects of the irrigated wheat and other crops are generally fair and those of the unirrigated ones are below average in parts of the south-east. Unirrigated crops are withering. Pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue in some districts with yield normal. Extra spring crops are being sown. The area sown is generally normal. Cattle are generally healthy but are becoming weak owing to scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and canal irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and range between warning and above scarcity rates. Price of wheat :—Ambala 8½, Lahore 9, Ferozepure and Rawalpindi 9½ and Lyallpur 9¾ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was clear and rainless in Bannu and Dera Ismail Khan but cloudy in Peshawar where beneficial rain fell. Standing crops are average in Peshawar and on irrigated areas of Dera Ismail Khan, above average in Bannu and poor on unirrigated areas of Dera Ismail Khan. Sowing of sugarcane continues in the Bannu tahsil and that of tobacco, onions, melons and vegetables has commenced in Peshawar. Pressing of sugarcane is still proceeding in the Charsadda tahsil of the Peshawar district and in the Bannu tahsil of the Bannu district with outturn average in the former and below average in the latter. The condition of cattle is good except in the unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district where it is bad. Fodder is generally sufficient but it is scanty in the Sawabi and Nowshera tahsils of the Peshawar district and in the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district and dear in Dera Ismail Khan. The public health is good. Prices are high and are stationary in Peshawar and in the case of bajra and maize in the Bannu tahsil but they are falling elsewhere.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 10 and maize from 11 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of a mild type prevails in the Basohli tahsil. Fodder is sufficient except in a few places.

Kashmir.—No rain fell in Anantnag but good rain was received elsewhere The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder is insufficient in Baramulla. Water is inadequate. Prices are high.

Rajputana.—The weather is cold. The rainfall during the week was 59 cents in Alwar, 113 cents in Bharatpur and 60 cents in Kotah and slight in Karauli and Jaipur. Rain is badly needed in Bikaner, Ajmer-Merwara and Alwar. More rain is wanted in Bharatpur. Irrigation, where possible, is in progress. The condition of standing crops on wet areas is fair to good but they are withering on dry lands in Tonk and Merwara. Crops have been damaged by frost and cold winds in Marwar, the Hilly Tracts, Banswara, Partabgarh and Merwara. Fodder is generally scarce. The condition of cattle is generally deteriorating owing to the deficiency of pasturage in the affected areas. The water supply is generally sufficient except in Marwar, Kotah and Tonk and in parts of Merwara. Cattle disease is reported from Banswara and Kotah and some deaths are reported from Ajmer-Merwara. Prices are falling in Kishangarh and Tonk, rising in Marwar, Mewar and Jhalawar and steady elsewhere. The number of persons on test works in Merwara was 1,090 and in Karauli 890. Gratuitous relief was given to 1,340 persons in Merwara.

Central India.—Winter showers fell generally in Indore, Bhopal, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand and in parts of the Southern States. No rain was received elsewhere. Rain has been insufficient in Gwalior, in some parganas of the Mehidpur and Rampura-Bhanpura districts of the Indore State and in parts of Bundelkhand and sufficient elsewhere. Sugarcane is being sown in Gwalior and is being pressed in Bhopal. Gathering of linseed and masur crops is in progress in Baghelkhand and has been completed in Rewa. Spring crops are being irrigated almost everywhere. Standing crops are generally in good condition but have been damaged by frost in a few villages of the Malwa and Gwalior divisions of the Gwalior State. The probable outturn is fair in Indore and good elsewhere. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except for cattle disease in the Gohad, Bijaipur, Bajranggarh, Mandasor, Nahargarh, Jawad and Pichhor parganas of the Gwalior State, the Kannod, Rampura and Bhanpura parganas of the Indore State, the Nowgong station in the Bundelkhand Agency and in parts of Dhar, Jhabua and Alirajpur in the Southern States. The fodder supply is generally good except in certain parganas of the Malwa and Gwalior divisions of the Gwalior State. Prices are high in Baghelkhand, normal in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be cool and cloudy except in Nimar, Betul, Wardha and Buldana. Light showers not exceeding 1¼ inches fell throughout the Provinces accompanied in the northern districts by hail. Damage, reported so far, is slight. Spring crops are generally in good condition and their harvesting has commenced in several districts. Picking of cotton and harvesting of autumn crops are approaching completion. Fodder and water are sufficient and agricultural stock is in good condition everywhere. Fluctuations in prices are insignificant.

Feudatory States.—Rain ranging from 63 cents in Sarangarh to 2½ inches in Chhuikhadan was received in eight States. Spring crops are generally in good condition and prices are almost steady.

Bombay.—Slight rain fell during the week in East Khandesh. Standing crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by frost in parts of Sind and Kathiawar, Cotton picking continues in Thar and Parkar, Gujarat, West Khandesh, Dharwar, Baroda, Kolhapur, Kathiawar and Rewa Kantha. Harvesting of spring crops is progressing in the Deccan, the Karnatak, Karachi, the Panch Mahals, Surat, Rewa Kantha and Kolhapur. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Karachi, Larkana, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Cutch, Kathiawar and Baroda. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in Larkana, Hyderabad and Ahmedabad. Drinking water is generally adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in Thar and Parkar, Kaira, Ahmedabad, Kathiawar and Baroda. Prices of food grains are generally steady.

Hyderabad.—Slight showers were received in a few places, the highest fall being 1 inch 80 cents in the Karimnagar district. The average fall was 10 cents. Spring crops are generally in fair to good condition but they have been damaged by rats in parts of the Usmanabad district. Late rice is being sown and weeded and the crop is in fair to good condition. The health of cattle is generally good but disease prevails in four talukas. Prices of grains are almost constant. Coarse rice is selling at 10 and white juar at 12 seers per rupee in Hyderabad city. The highest price of juar in districts is 10 seers per rupee in Gulbarga, Medak and Warangal and the lowest 24 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell during the week. The price of rice has risen slightly in Hassan. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of the harvested paddy, ragi and sugarcane is fair to good. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Picking of coffee and threshing of rice continue. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Fodder for cattle is sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was fair in South Arcot and light or nil elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally except in parts of Bellary, Chingleput, South Arcot and Tinnevelly. They require more rain in parts of North Arcot, Salem and Tanjore. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding or are being completed normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient except in parts of Bellary, Anantapur, Chingleput, South Arcot, Madura, Tinnevelly and the central parts except Coimbatore. Pasture is generally sufficient but it is scanty in parts of nine districts. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

SPEECH OF THE HONOURABLE FINANCE MEMBER PRESENTING THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR 1916-17.

Speech of the Honourable Finance Member

INTRODUCING THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR 1916-17.

Introductory.

Some general effects of the War on trade and finance.

MY LORD,

I rise to present the Financial Statement for 1916-17. As usual there will be no debate to-day, and before we get to the stage of discussion with reference to the Financial Statement as such, it will be necessary to proceed with some very urgent legislation which I shall presently have to introduce. We shall, however, begin the discussion stage on the 9th March. The figures in the Financial Statement will subsequently undergo such amendments as may be required by our later information or suggested by the discussions in Council. The Budget in its final form will be presented on the 21st March, the usual closing debate taking place on the 24th.

2. We are still under the shadow of the great European war, and we must unhappily assume that that colossal conflict will continue throughout 1916-17. I need not repeat what I said at the opening of my last year's speech as to the many ways in which the war affects our financial and economic position, but I may fitly reiterate the difficulties which existing circumstances cause in regard to the preparation of correct financial estimates. These difficulties are not so great as they were at this time last year when we had only the actuals of a few months of war to go upon. But they still remain very considerable, for circumstances may well occur which would materially alter the prognostications we are at present able to make. As I said last year, we must not be too pessimistic, but at the same time, with all that the war and its economic results may yet have in store for us, sanguine estimating is entirely out of place.

3. I commenced my speech last year by indicating some of the immediate effects of the war on our economic and financial position. Since then, to use a nautical metaphor, while we are still in very heavy waters, our ship has settled down to navigation on a more even keel, and we have been free from the sudden and disturbing shocks which the outbreak of war brought about. We have, for example, had no recurrence of the great rush on postal savings banks deposits which I mentioned in paragraph 7 of my last year's speech and which reduced the aggregate amount held in these banks from 24¼ crores at the beginning of August 1914 to somewhat less than 15 crores on the 31st of March last. In the current year, there was some increase in the deposits during the earlier months, and though latterly this has changed into a decrease, we estimate that on the 31st March the total savings bank balances, including accruals of fresh interest, will still be 17 lakhs in excess of the figure for 1st April 1915. Nor have we had any recurrence of a special demand for the encashment of currency notes. On the contrary, while our active note circulation* stood at about 47 crores at the beginning of the current year, it had mounted up to 54 crores in February.

4. The Railway returns show satisfactory activity in internal trade, while the exchange position has been satisfactorily maintained. The sale of reverse Councils on London, in the shape of deferred telegraphic transfers, was only necessary during a period commencing in June last and ending in September; thereafter an extraordinarily strong demand for Council drafts on India set in, which has been maintained till the present date. The stability of our exchange, indeed, stands in marked contrast to the exchange troubles that have afflicted the belligerent countries in Europe, including Great Britain herself.

5. On the other hand, if the difficulties of the opening months of the war have not been specifically repeated, the second year has brought its own perplexities. The very strength of exchange, though a healthy sign in itself, has proved a somewhat inconvenient problem, in view of the very large indirect remittances which, as I shall show more fully later, we have had to make by incurring military expenditure in India which is recoverable from the Home Government. Money market conditions, again, have become very stringent, and the situation has been aggravated by the depression of Government paper. We have found it necessary to place far more stringent restrictions upon expenditure, and also to restrict the borrowings of public bodies in India, and we ourselves are now shut off from fresh borrowing in the Home market. Thus, though in some respects we may have less to fear from the element of surprise than a year ago, we have settled down to a fuller realisation of the test of endurance which this prolonged war imposes on us.

6. We have moreover been badly treated by the monsoon. The last cold weather rains were unusually plentiful, and the outlook at the beginning of the year was promising. The south-west monsoon, however, arrived late, and was weak and unsteady in July and August, particularly in the north-west of India. A line drawn from Bombay to Delhi may be said roughly to have divided the area on the east, in which the rainfall was good or excessive, from that on the west in which it was deficient. Excessive rain produced serious, and sometimes disastrous, floods in Assam, where the hill section of the Assam-Bengal Railway was so badly damaged that it had to be closed for a time; in the Noakhali and Tipperah districts of Bengal; and in the Cawnpore and Lucknow tracts of the United Provinces. In the west, on the other hand, a continued shortage of rain threatened at one time to have very serious consequences. Fortunately opportune rainfall in September and October greatly improved the prospects of the important rabi crops in the Punjab, and changed the position considerably for the better elsewhere, especially in Gujarat where there would otherwise have been famine.

This year's winter rains, again—long delayed and scanty—have proved very inadequate in Northern India, though what fell last month distinctly improved the previous situation.

The conditions described have of course materially affected the land revenue, and have involved a certain amount of outlay, to which I shall refer later, on the conveyance of fodder, and to some extent on direct relief. On the whole, however, the results, from the financial standpoint, have been much less serious than at one time seemed probable. A splendid wheat crop was harvested at the beginning of the year, and there was a satisfactory outturn of sugarcane and cotton. The jute crop, on the other hand, showed a decrease of some three million bales. As regards the crops at present on the ground, the wheat over a large area has suffered from want of rain; the cotton area and outturn are estimated at some 30 per cent below those of last year; the prospects of the oil-seed crop and sugarcane are fair; and the season has on the whole been favourable for the rice crop, except where it has suffered from floods.

7. The depressing effects of the war on the foreign trade of India of course continue, and scarcity and dearness of freight add to the effects produced by the closure of ordinary trade channels and by special restrictions which have been necessary for military and public purposes. As an instance of the way in which freight has risen in the course of the war, and of the diversion of merchant shipping to military and naval purposes, I may mention that recent information shows that jute freights from Calcutta to Dundee are eight times what they were before the war began, while in the case of light seeds from Bombay to Marseilles the increase is ninefold. These specimen figures will give some idea of the extent to which shortage and costliness of freight have hampered trade operations.

There is no need to go into detail in regard to the various special restrictions which have been placed on exports and imports in the course of the war, but speaking generally such control has become much closer during the current year. The general policy throughout has been (a) to restrict the trade in foodstuffs and articles capable of being turned to warlike uses in the case of countries whence they can pass to the enemy; (b) to stimulate the export of a few articles to the United Kingdom and allied countries, or countries which are making munitions for the Allies; and (c) to restrict the export of a very few articles owing to their being needed in India.

8. The combined operation of these causes, together with the stoppage of trade from and to enemy countries, has naturally resulted in the contraction of the volume of our sea-borne trade. In the year 1914-15, two-thirds of which was under war conditions, the total trade of India amounted to 354 crores (£236 million) against 491 crores (£327 million) in 1913-14, there having been a decrease, in respect of private merchandise, of 25 per cent under imports and 27 per cent under exports. Taking the first nine months of the current official year, the exports of private merchandise are much the same as in the corresponding period of 1914-15 (142 crores against 141), while imports are about 12 crores less (97 against 109), the advantage that 1914-15 obtains owing to its including 4 months of peace having been largely counterbalanced by the great dislocation in trade in September and October which followed the exploits of the "Emden." While our trade is considerably diminished with most countries, and has of course completely stopped with enemy nations and with Belgium, there has been some compensation in the shape of larger exports to the United Kingdom. In the first nine months of the current year these—in the case of the more important articles—exceeded the figure of the corresponding period of 1913-14 by 9 crores.

9. On the export side the volume of trade has expanded in some directions under the demand for our tea, hides and skins, raw jute and jute and cotton manufactures—shipment of these articles taken together, having increased, as compared with the corresponding nine months of 1914-15, by 15¾ crores.. Exports of tea, gunny bags and cloth have in fact reached a record figure. The prices of all these commodities have improved: those of jute in particular have largely recovered from the depression to which I referred in paragraph 14 of my last year's speech; raw jute standing a few days ago at R52-8 per bale of 400 lbs. against R37-8 on the corresponding date last year. Cotton prices too have risen, the last quotation per candy (784 lbs.) of oomras at Bombay being R254 against R157 on the corresponding date in 1915, and R222 before the war broke out. This recovery in price, and the requirements of Japan, which has taken over one million cwt. more than in the corresponding period of 1914-15, have helped to counteract to some extent the loss of the Continental markets to which Indian cotton is in normal times ordinarily shipped: but the contraction in the exports of this staple is nevertheless over 11 crores. Exports of seeds, too, have fallen off considerably. I shall refer to wheat exports and prices towards the end of my speech, in connection with the Wheat Scheme, but I may mention here that the exports of wheat have been about 650,000 tons, which is approximately the same as in the corresponding period of 1914-15, though a great deal less than the exports of the year preceding (about 1,100,000 tons). This year the transactions would of course have been much larger than they were but for the fact that the Government, in the interests of Indian consumers, found it necessary to put special restrictions upon export.

10. On the import side our trade for the current financial year remains much below the level reached before the war, and so far shows little recovery from the sudden drop which occurred at the outbreak of hostilities; and this of course has had a very prejudicial effect on our customs revenue. I shall refer later on to the particular Tariff heads most affected.

I now pass on to the task of laying before the Council our estimates for the present and the coming year.

Forecast of financial conditions in 1915-16 and 1916-17.

Revised Estimate of Revenue and Expenditure for 1915-16.

11. The general position is brought out in the following table*, which compares the current year's Budget and the Revised Estimate now put forward :—

[In millions of pounds.]

	Budget, 1915-16.			Revised, 1915-16.
	Imperial.	Provincial.	Total.	Imperial.	Provincial.	Total.
Expenditure . . .	52·607	31·828	84·435	53·968	31·296	85·264

*But see adjustment referred to at the close of paragraph 17 and the final table in paragraph 61.

Revenue—Imperial.

12. We budgeted this year for a total Imperial revenue of about £49·6 million. The Revised Estimate shows £51·8 million, or an increase of about £2·2 million.

This is due entirely to an increase of £2·3 million under the net receipts from State Railways, i.e., gross receipts, less working expenses and portion of surplus profits paid to companies. In the current year's Budget we estimated the gross receipts at £35·3 million and the net at £14·9 million—against £35·6 million and £15·2 million the corresponding figures taken in the Revised Estimate for 1914-15, and £37·5 million and £17·5 million the respective figures for 1913-14. We had to estimate with caution in view of the altered state of things brought about by the war, remembering that the first four months of 1914-15 were under peace conditions. Fortunately the railways have done considerably better than we expected: the gross receipts are now taken at £37·7 million, and the net at £17·2 million. The improvement is attributable partly to more active internal trade and partly to coal which would usually have been sea-borne being diverted to railway routes in consequence of the shortage of tonnage.

13. There is a net decrease of about £100,000 under the remaining heads of revenue, produced mainly by a falling off under Customs and the Imperial share of Land Revenue, counterbalanced by increase under some other heads.

(1) The Land Revenue deterioration (£220,000) is accounted for by the unsatisfactory character of the south-west monsoon in various parts of the country, to which I have already alluded, especially in the United Provinces, the Punjab, and Bombay quâ Gujarat and Sind. The position would, of course, have been much more serious but for the late rains which finally arrived in Gujarat and elsewhere.

(2) Under Customs the decline of revenue—mainly due to war conditions, including scarcity of shipping and heavy freights—has been larger by £310,000 than was anticipated in the Budget. The most important shortages anticipated are in respect of rice (export duty), cotton manufactures, metals and manufactures of metals, and petroleum, while we get some rise in sugar and manufactured articles.

(3) On the other hand two Imperial heads—Posts and Telegraphs, and Opium—show a satisfactory improvement, totalling £270,000. Under Salt, too, there is a rise of £150,000; but this is mainly due to speculative clearances made in the last few weeks in the expectation of an enhancement of duty. There is also, turning to heads which are largely Provincial, an improvement aggregating £210,000 in the Imperial share of Stamps and Income Tax, which is to some extent counterbalanced by a falling off of £70,000 under the Imperial share of Excise, the revenue from which is readily depressed by adverse trade and seasonal conditions.

These, however, are little more than the normal variations between estimates and actuals or semi-actuals to which we are accustomed in an ordinary year.

(4) The asisgnments of Imperial revenue to Local Governments have increased by £130,000, owing chiefly to the payment to the Government of Bihar and Orissa of a contribution promised to it to meet the initial outlay on the High Court buildings at Bankipur.

(5) The outstanding feature of the revenue history of the period is thus the excellent return from Railways, in spite of conditions which at the outset appeared adverse. As I shall show shortly, the expenditure side presents as striking a feature in the excess under military expenditure, and these two items may be noted as constituting the only really important departures from the estimates we made in forecasting, twelve months ago, the prospects of an unprecedentedly doubtful year.

Expenditure—Imperial.

14. We budgeted for a total Imperial expenditure of £52·6 million, which has now to be raised to £53·9 million. This increase is entirely due to larger outlay on Military Services, amounting in all to £1·6 million. In the Budget we took the total outlay under this head at £21·4 million, against £21·8 million in the Revised Estimate for 1914-15, the decrease being due mainly to cutting down of all avoidable expenditure with reference to the financial situation. I may explain that the figures I am now handling include the contribution made by India towards the war by her defrayal of the normal charges in connection with troops she has sent outside her borders, but they do not of course take into account expenditure which we incur out here merely on behalf of His Majesty's Government—in regard to such matters for instance as the supply of munitions and war material—and which we recover from them.

The large increase over our Budget anticipation is due mainly to the following causes:—

(1) Revised arrangements with His Majesty's Government in regard to the practical application of the general formula that India should make no saving by war conditions. The sea transport charges, for instance, which we have to incur on our own account, are at present very small, owing to the cessation of normal drafts and reliefs of British troops, and in the Budget we considered ourselves entitled to take this as a legitimate saving. After further discussion, however, it has been decided that we ought to pay the same charge as if normal conditions had prevailed; and including retrospective application of this principle to the war period of 1914-15, we have had to make an extra payment on this account of about £540,000.

(2) It has similarly been decided that although the Territorial troops who have been sent out to us in exchange for regular British troops on the Indian establishment were at first less in number than the troops they have replaced, we ought to pay the same amount as if we had had our normal establishment of regulars all along; and adding food charges to pay and allowances, this decision results in an extra cost of about £400,000.

(3) The military operations we have had to undertake on the North-West Frontier have involved an additional cost of about £260,000, to which must be added another £90,000 in respect of operations at Aden.

(4) We shall also have had to spend about £260,000 more for various special measures connected with the internal security of the country and possible eventualities on the frontier.

Taking net military outlay, i.e., gross expenditure less receipts, this now stands at £21·8 million against £20·2 million taken in the Budget.

15. As regards the civil heads, there is an excess of about £150,000 under furlough allowances, due to a partial relaxation of the restrictions on leave which were imposed at the beginning of the war. On the other hand, there is a saving of £120,000 on the interest payable on capital deposited by Railway Companies resulting from a curtailment of their intended borrowings.

The other items on the expenditure side reflect the results of a stricter policy of retrenchment. The scope for retardation of expenditure is of course much less on the Imperial than the Provincial side, since the latter includes all the main heads of civil administration; and in both cases it had already been restricted by the reduced allotments which we made in the budget of the current year. The total saving on the non-military Imperial heads amounts, however, to as much as £260,000, so that, taking the military services into account, the increase on the expenditure side as a whole is £1·3 million, which falls short of the improvement in revenue by some £900,000.

Revenue and Expenditure—Provincial.

16. The Provincial revenues were taken in the Budget at £30¾ million, and expenditure at £31·8 million, leaving a deficit of over £1 million to be met by drawings on the Provincial balances. The figures now are—revenue £30·638 million, expenditure £31·296 million, deficit £658,000. Like ourselves, the Provincial Governments have suffered in respect of their Land Revenue and Excise, their total loss under these heads, as compared with Budget anticipation, being about £380,000. There has also been a falling off of £120,000 in the Forest revenue—of which nearly £80,000 occurs in Burma and is due to shortage of freight and reduced demand for timber occasioned by the war. On the other hand, the Provinces share our fortune in having had better returns—to the extent of £215,000—under Stamps and Income Tax.

The reduction of expenditure, amounting in all to some £500,000, occurs under Civil Works, Education and Land Revenue. I must in this connection convey our appreciative acknowledgment of the loyal and thorough way in which the Local Governments have responded to our call for retrenchment both as regards 1915-16 and 1916-17, with the result, in the case of the present year, that though their original Budget grants were restricted at the outset, and their revenues have not quite come up to expectations, the Provinces are now expected to close the year with an aggregate deficit of some £400,000 less than their Budgets allowed for.

General Results—Imperial and Provincial.

17. The aggregate figures of Imperial and Provincial revenue and expenditure are brought out in the statement in paragraph 11, and I need only emphasise the following points:—

(1) The revenue is £2,100,000 more than we anticipated in the Budget, there being an increase of £2·2 million under Imperial, and a decrease of £100,000 under Provincial.

(2) The expenditure is £0·8 million more than we anticipated. There has been a saving of some £500,000 under Provincial, but an increase of £1·3 million under Imperial.

(3) Consequently the Imperial deficit is reduced from £3 million to £2·1 million, the Provincial from £1 million to £0·6 million, and the aggregate from £4 million to £2·7 million.

But as I shall explain later on (paragraph 60), our Budget proposals for the coming year will react on our revenue of 1915-16 to the extent of an addition thereto of about £110,000, so that the Imperial deficit becomes £2 million, or more exactly £1,986,000.

Revised estimate, 1915-16. Ways and Means position.

18. I now turn to the ways and means arrangements of the current year. Our Budget programme contemplated the continuance of the temporary loan of £7 million taken from the Gold Standard Reserve in the earlier months of the war and the renewal of the temporary debt, also amounting to £7 million, which had been raised by the Secretary of State in 1914-15 in the form of short-term India bills. Apart from these transactions, our Budget expectations as to the outlay to be financed and the resources by which it was to be covered were as follows:—

(In millions of pounds.)

Outlay.
Imperial deficit	3·0
Provincial deficit	1·0
Capital outlay—
Railways	8·0
Irrigation	1·1
Delhi	0·3
Discharge of debt (India bonds and Indian Midland Railway debentures)	1·0
Unfunded debt	0·2
Total	14·6

Resources.
From balances	5·0
Rupee borrowing	3·0
Fresh sterling borrowing	6·5
Famine Insurance and miscellaneous items	0·1
Total	14·6

19. The opening balance of the year (in India and England together) was estimated at £21·4 million and the closing balance at £16·4 million.

The actual opening balance has, however, turned out to be £22·7 million. This is mainly accounted for by the fact that the Imperial deficit for 1914-15, which we had taken at £2·8 million, proved to be £1 million less, owing mainly to unexpectedly better receipts under Railways and heavy clearances of Salt towards the close of the year. There was also some further lapse under capital expenditure.

20. The figures in paragraph 18 will now stand as follows:—

(In millions of pounds.)

Outlay.
Imperial deficit (vide end of para. 17)	2·0
Provincial deficit	0·6
Capital outlay—
Railways	4·9
Irrigation	0·9
Delhi	0·3
Discharge of debt	4·0
Famine insurance and miscellaneous items.	1·1
Total	13·8

Resources.
From balances	5·0
Rupee borrowing	3·3
Sterling borrowing	3·1
Unfunded debt	0·7
Special war receipts	1·7
Total	13·8

21. As regards outlay, I have already explained the decrease in the Imperial and Provincial deficits. The Railway programme was reduced by some £250,000 almost at the outset in consequence of pressure from the Treasury at home against undertaking new works. The remaining falling off under this head as compared with Budget anticipations is due to difficulties in obtaining Railway material, etc., from home and the economies enjoined with reference to the existing financial situation. There is also a minor saving under the Irrigation programme, and a slight excess, which will be explained later on, in the Delhi expenditure.

The various items that make up the Famine Insurance and Miscellaneous head, instead of almost counterbalancing one another as was anticipated in the Budget, have, on the whole, involved a substantial net outlay, owing mainly to heavier withdrawals of deposits and advances for our troops in the field, and also transactions connected with Council Bills. This head is thus transferred to the outlay side, while on the other hand the entry 'Unfunded Debt' is now expected to yield us a net receipt, and is transferred to the resources side of the account just given.

Lastly we have applied £3 million of the savings available under the outlay side of our original programme to the reduction by that amount of the £7 million which we temporarily borrowed from the Gold Standard Reserve in 1914-15; and as the Secretary of State's Council drawings have enabled him to discharge this liability at home, the Reserve is thus in a stronger position, actually as well as potentially, in the event of any future weakening in exchange. It will be noticed that this sum of £3 million corresponds roughly to the amount by which, in the special circumstances of the year, we have had to curtail the sum originally destined for Railway capital expenditure, so that that lapse may be regarded as having been employed in the next best way—that of strengthening our general position for the remainder of the war.

22. As regards resources, the increase of £300,000 as compared with the Budget estimate under rupee borrowing is due to the 50 lakhs received from the special Post Office section of the loan of 1915 to which I shall refer in greater detail later on. On the other hand the net sterling borrowing has fallen from £6·5 to £3·1 million since, in present circumstances, the Secretary of State has only found it possible to raise £3·4 million out of the £6·5 million of fresh sterling borrowing which the Budget calculations took credit for, while he has had to discharge some £300,000 of Railway debentures which he had originally intended to renew.

Under Unfunded Debt, in view of the heavy withdrawals from postal savings banks in 1914-15, we assumed in the Budget, as a matter of precaution, that there would be further withdrawals amounting to £1 million in the current year, which would, however, be largely counterbalanced by Provident Fund and other deposits. The anticipation of heavy withdrawals has happily not been realized. These amount to £170,000 only, of which £120,000 has gone into the post office section of the new loan. Thus the Unfunded Debt head has yielded receipts amounting (after including the large subscriptions to Provident Funds managed by Government and the accrual of fresh interest on savings bank accounts) to £700,000, instead of a net outlay of £200,000 as anticipated in the Budget.

We have also obtained certain special receipts arising from war conditions which we are temporarily carrying in our balances. These include £850,000 from the liquidation of hostile firms, and about £700,000 obtained from the employment of captured enemy vessels, as well as a balance on our wheat operations to which I shall refer later, and which we are holding in suspense until the wheat scheme is finally closed.

The transactions above described bring us to a closing balance of £17·7 million in India and England, exclusive of the amount held in the balance of the Home Treasury on account of the Gold Standard Reserve.

Budget Estimate of Revenue and Expenditure for 1916-17 on present basis of taxation.

23. The following table brings out, on the present basis of taxation, our Budget anticipations for 1916-17, as compared with the Revised Estimate for the current year.

[In millions of pounds.]

	Revised, 1915-16.			Budget, 1916-17.
	Imperial.	Provincial.	Total.	Imperial.	Provincial.	Total.
Revenue . . .	51·868	30·638	82·506	52·004	30·548	82·552
Expenditure . . .	53·968	31·296	85·264	54·599	30·913	85·512
Deficit (—) .	—2·100	—·658	—2·758	—2·595	—·365	—2·960

Revenue—Imperial.

24. Assuming a normal south-west monsoon in 1916, we take the Imperial revenue for 1916-17 at £52 million, or about £130,000 more than what we are now expecting in the current year.

The satisfactory results of the working of the Railways this year justify our assuming a considerably higher return than was considered safe a year ago, and we have put up both the gross receipts and the net revenue by more than £1½ million, as compared with the current year's budget. This head, however, is one under which it is specially necessary to take cautious estimates, since a relatively small percentage of error may lead to a difference in the aggregate sufficient to affect the financial position to a material extent. Even apart from the war and possible further trade restrictions connected therewith, the outlook for 1916-17 is not wholly satisfactory in view of the unfavourable south-west monsoon of the current year and the unsatisfactory winter rains, and we think, after very careful examination, that it is not safe to count on a full repetition of the record railway revenue which we count on obtaining this year. Thus our estimates, for gross receipts (£37·2 million) and for net railway revenue (£16·6 million), are from five to six hundred thousand pounds below the Revised Estimate of the current year, or to be more exact, £610,000 in the case of net revenue.

On the other hand we expect an increase of more than £400,000 under Opium. This is associated with a brisk demand in the Far East, which has led to an increase in the indents from the Straits Settlements and Hong Kong, whose Governments we supply direct, and has enabled us to raise the upset price of the opium which we sell by auction up to R1,300 a chest with effect from January last, so that we obtain the full benefit of the higher prices throughout 1916-17, as against a part only of the current year. Also, on a re-examination of the existing cost of production, we have somewhat enhanced the charge which we recover from Local Governments for opium supplied to them for excise purposes. We expect, too, a large increase in the demand for the export of opium to England for medical purposes, which has come into being from the shutting down of the Turkish market.

25. The variations under other heads are less important. In the Imperial share of Land Revenue we expect an improvement of £133,000 as compared with this year's yield, which has been reduced in some tracts by remissions and suspensions following the unsatisfactory monsoon. We allow too for a continued growth of revenue under Posts and Telegraphs, and for a reduction in the assignments of Imperial revenue to Local Governments owing to the absence of certain special contributions given in the current year. Interest receipts also show a substantial improvement owing to a larger investment in respect of the Paper Currency Reserve to which I shall refer at a later stage.

On the other hand, our Salt revenue is not likely to be again disturbed, as it has been for the last two years, by clearances towards the close of the year with a view to the evasion of a threatened increase in the salt duty; so we cannot count in 1916-17 on the additional revenue obtained this year.

For Customs as a whole we are practically repeating the Revised Estimate of the current year. We allow for a possible fall in the demand for silver and in the imports of piece-goods, but also for the fact that a considerable improvement is expected under sugar in view of the new tariff valuations, which reflect the high prices arising from the war.

Expenditure—Imperial.

26. On the expenditure side we have to provide for about £600,000 more than in the current year owing largely to increased provision for Postal and Telegraph and Military expenditure, amounting to about £280,000 and £150,000 respectively. In the former case the increase is mainly due to the necessity for replenishment of stores, stocks having been depleted in the current year.

Under Interest on Debt, there is comparatively little change. As each new rupee loan is raised the interest charges increase; but on the other hand we shall avoid next year a considerable payment of interest to the Gold Standard Reserve through the discharge of £3 million of the temporary loan which we took from it in 1914-15, and there will also be some saving, which I shall explain later on, in respect of sterling India Bills. There will, however, be some increase in the interest on capital deposited by Railway companies, as a whole year's interest payments will fall due upon their borrowings (through the Secretary of State) in the current year.

27. We estimate the net expenditure on military services at £22 million, against £21·8 million in the Revised Estimate for the current year. We shall be relieved in 1916-17 of certain arrear charges which we had to meet this year—vide paragraph 14 above. But in view of sudden military requirements which are likely to arise in a time of war, such as contributed to the large excess over our Budget Estimate in the current year, we think it only prudent to provide for some moderate reserve to meet such unexpected and minor contingencies.

I may mention here that, speaking very roughly—for the actual readjustment of charges in respect of the many units involved is an exceedingly complicated matter, and calculations are liable to further disturbance by changes in the strength and composition of the expeditionary forces fighting outside India—our contribution to His Majesty's Government in respect of the cost of the troops we have furnished for fighting the battles of the King-Emperor outside his Indian dominions will amount to about £11 million from the commencement of the war up to the 31st March 1916, and may be provisionally taken at £8 million for 1916-17. The amount is increasing with the additions which have from time to time been made to the contingents originally furnished by India. We have also during this period incurred a considerable outlay in India, which would not have come upon us but for the war.

28. Taking Imperial revenue and expenditure together, and still adhering to the present basis of taxation, our deficit for next year is likely to be £2·6 million, against £2·1 million estimated in present conditions for 1915-16, and £1·8 million which actually occurred in 1914-15, the first year of the war.

Revenue and Expenditure—Provincial.

29. The Provincial revenues are taken in the new Budget at £30·5 million, and the expenditure at £30·9 million, the deficit, to be met by drawings on Provincial balances, being thus restricted to about £400,000.

A small deterioration of £90,000 under revenue, as compared with the Revised Estimate, is due to non-recurrence of the special assignments of Imperial revenue mentioned in paragraph 13, partly counterbalanced by some expected recovery under the Land Revenue head following the depression of the current year. The further curtailment of expenditure amounts to about £400,000, this being effected by retrenchment in public works outlay. With the further prolongation of the war, economy in every direction is imperative, and the Local Governments, as I have already said, have co-operated most cordially and effectively in this policy.

30. It will, however, be seen from the following statement, which brings together the Provincial outlay under the heads Education, Medical and Civil Works for the last few years, that the retrenchments which have been made under Education and Medical are not in any way of a sweeping character. The Medical head of course includes sanitation outlay.

[In thousands of pounds.]

Year.	Education.	Medical.	Civil Works.
1911-12	1,963	1,088	4,619
1912-13	2,490	1,142	4,936
1913-14	3,056	1,199	5,950
1914-15	3,182	1,362	6,128
1915-16 (Budget).	3,270	1,299	4,892
1915-16 (Revised).	3,064	1,351	4,586
1916-17 (Budget).	3,187	1,318	3,945

It will thus be observed that the Education and Medical expenditure is still on a somewhat higher level than in the pre-war year, 1913-14, and, as regards Education, much above the outlay in the years 1911-13. There has been a very considerable retrenchment under Civil Works as is only natural, since this head works as a regulator of Provincial finance, enabling expansion of expenditure when times are good and reduction when they are bad.

General Results—Imperial and Provincial.

31. Reverting to the table in paragraph 23, we estimate that, on the present basis of taxation, the total revenue, Imperial and Provincial, for 1916-17 will be £82·5 million and the total expenditure £85·5 million, resulting in an Imperial deficit of about £2·6 million, and a Provincial deficit of about £400,000. The latter, as I have said, will be met by drawing on the balances at the credit of Local Governments. We have now to consider how the Imperial deficit is to be faced.

Additional taxation proposals.

32. In dealing with the Budget for the current year we determined, with the approval of the Secretary of State, not to impose any additional taxation with reference to the large deficit then anticipated for 1915-16 and that of 1914-15. Though assuming continuance of the war during 1915-16, we were not at that time warranted in anticipating its long duration thereafter, and we therefore found our requirements for the time being by temporary and exceptional measures. We renewed temporary borrowings to the extent of £7 million which we had made from the Gold Standard Reserve in 1914-15, and the Secretary of State did the same in regard to short-term India bills to a like amount which he had raised in London. It was also proposed that the Secretary of State should raise about £6½ million by fresh borrowing at home while we were to issue a rupee loan of £3 million in this country. Even so, however, we had to reduce our programme of Railway and other capital expenditure from about £14 million, the sum taken in the Budget for 1914-15, to £9·4 million. Circumstances are now altogether different. We must assume that the war will continue for yet another year, and, it may be, longer. The Secretary of State has been unable, owing to the financial situation at home, to raise the full amount of the fresh borrowing in London contemplated for this year, and it has become our evident duty to provide for our own requirements without outside assistance, while the supplying capacity of the Indian money market is limited. We have also to recollect that the termination of the war, when it comes, will leave us with heavy financial demands upon us. We shall still, in all probability, have a large amount of temporary debt to pay off, and must also prepare for the liquidation of the rupee loan raised this year, which has to be repaid by 1923. We shall likewise have to surrender nearly £2 million which we shall have received in connection with the liquidation of hostile firms and the employment of captured enemy vessels and are using temporarily to meet our own requirements. On the revenue side, again, we must recognise that the experiences and lessons of the war must also add in some directions to our permanent military charges; and, lastly, it is desirable that we should be in a position, when peace returns, or as soon after as may be, to provide further funds for such beneficent purposes as the improvement of education and sanitation.

In paragraph 54 of my speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1915-16, I said that the Government would not hesitate to resort to increased taxation to meet a deficiency in revenue which promised to be of a more or less abiding character. That contingency has now to be faced. The war continues, and we cannot go on, year after year, with uncovered deficits. We consider it essential in the present uncertain outlook to increase our revenue resources in order to make good the anticipated Imperial deficit of the coming year and also to supply a substantial surplus. I now proceed to indicate the methods by which, with the approval of His Majesty's Government, we propose to effect this.

33. In the first place we propose to raise a sum of about £2·1 million by new and enhanced customs duties in the manner which I now proceed to explain :—

Our general import tariff has been at the rate of 5 per cent ad valorem since 1894. We now propose, save in the case of sugar, to raise it to 7½ per cent ad valorem, and we hope thereby to get an increase of revenue of about £420,000, excluding the duty on metals which I deal with later. In this, as in other cases, I have, in calculating enhanced receipts, made allowance for decrease in consumption following the higher rates.

In the case of sugar, in view of the large imports of this article and India's facilities for internal supply, we consider that we shall not be inflicting any real hardship on the consumer by fixing the import duty at 10 per cent, by which we hope to raise an extra £400,000.

34. Next we propose a material curtailment of the free list. The present list is based partly on the existing tariff law and partly on executive concessions, with the result that revenue is being unnecessarily surrendered, and the increasing range of exemption encourages applications for still further concessions. We propose hereafter to confine the statutory free list to the following items :—

First.—Gold coin and bullion; and current Indian silver, nickel, bronze and copper coin.

Second.—Certain essential materials—raw hides and skins, raw cotton, raw wool and paper-making materials.

Third.—Certain agricultural requisites—machines and implements for husbandry, dairy appliances, and manures, including certain chemical manures.

Fourth.—Certain articles, the exemption of which follows logically from our practice of levying an excise on cotton goods and beer, namely, cotton yarns and cotton thread, cotton spinning and weaving machinery, certain stores and articles used in the manufacture of cotton goods, and hops.

Fifth.—A few specific articles, the exemption of which is either (a) supported by the practice of most countries—animals, works of art devoted to public purposes, books, natural science specimens, uniforms of public servants and military officers, and arms forming part of their equipment; or (b) justified by their special importance in Indian conditions—quinine and anti-plague serum.

We have further included in the statutory free list the conditional exemption hitherto granted by executive instructions to salt imported for manufacturing purposes; and also the exemptions in favour of oil-seeds imported by sea from a Native State, and in regard to the professional equipment imported by passengers, trade catalogues and circulars imported by post, and second-hand gunny bags.

35. The following articles now on the free list will hereafter pay duty at 2½ per cent ad valorem, which will still leave them 5 per cent below the general tariff rate :—

Grain and pulse; tea chests and lead sheets used in their manufacture, and tea racks; firewood; printing and lithographing material; machinery other than the cotton spinning and weaving machinery above indicated; railway material, including telegraphic apparatus imported for railways; and ships. Coal, coke and fuel will be taxed at a quantitative rate of 8 annas per ton, which is roughly equivalent to 2½ per cent ad valorem.

While taxing grain and pulse at 2½ per cent in ordinary circumstances, the Government will be prepared, when necessary, to consider the question of exempting them by executive order in famine years.

Railway material imported by railways worked by the State is, and will remain, free under section 20 of the Sea Customs Act, as Government stores. Railway material for other railways, including those owned by the State but leased to Companies, will be taxed at 2½ per cent. The taxation of this latter class of railway material follows logically on the proposed equivalent taxation of machinery and ships, these three groups of imports having always been equally treated.

36. The remaining articles now on the free list, which have got on to it more or less accidentally, and in regard to which there is no reason either for complete exemption or specially favourable terms, will be taxed at 7½ per cent under the general tariff rate. These are fresh fruits and vegetables, fish maws, bamboos, bristles and fibres, horn, raw jute, oil cakes, plants, precious stones and pearls, gum olibanum, motor cars for goods, and earth, common clay and sand.

37. The above modifications of the existing free list are estimated to give us £160,000.

38. The duty on iron and steel, which is now one per cent ad valorem, will be raised to 2½ per cent; and that on other metals, which is now 5 per cent, will go up to 7½ per cent, following the increase in the general rate on imports. These increases will yield about £80,000.

39. I now come to articles which are subject to special rates of duty under the existing tariff. We propose, as I shall explain directly, to enhance the existing rates in the case of arms, liquors, tobacco and silver manufactures. I shall then briefly refer to some articles on which we propose to leave the existing tariff rates untouched, and finally pass on to two important additions to our list of dutiable exports.

40. As regards arms and ammunition, the effect of the present tariff is, generally speaking, that these are ultimately taxed at a rate of 10 per cent ad valorem. We propose to double this, the additional revenue expected being some £20,000.

41. The taxation of liquors involves considerable complications, so I will deal with the matter class by class—

(1) The duty on ale, beer, porter and cider is now 3 annas per gallon against 8*d*. per gallon in England. We propose to raise this to 4½ annas, and, in accordance with the usual practice, to make a similar increase in the excise duty on locally manufactured beer.

(2) The rates on spirits will be recast as follows, and the rate now prescribed for potable spirit will, again in accordance with previous practice, apply to spirit of the same description manufactured in India and technically known as "foreign spirit."

(a) Perfumed spirit, per liquid gallon R18-12.

(b) Liqueurs, cordials, mixtures and other preparations containing spirit—(1) if entered in such a manner as to indicate that the strength is not to be tested, R14-10 per liquid gallon; (2) if tested, R11-4 per proof gallon.

(d) Spirit, other sorts, per proof gallon R11-4.

(3) In explanation of these proposals I may observe that:—

(a) The rate on potable spirit, which is of course much the most important item, is to be raised from R9-6 to R11-4 per proof gallon so as to bring the Indian rate of duty to the level of the English rate, which is approximately 15 shillings per proof gallon.

(b) The preferential rate of R7-13 per proof gallon which was accorded by the tariff of 1910 to spirit contained in drugs, medicines or chemicals is now to be withdrawn. This preferential rate evoked protests from manufacturing chemists in India, who had to pay for imported spirit required by them for the local manufacture of drugs at the rate applicable to potable spirit, and were therefore placed at a disadvantage compared with manufacturing chemists outside India. To remove this disability administrative arrangements have been in force since 1910 under which Indian manufacturing chemists have been able to obtain spirit at the rate of R7-13 per proof gallon. We propose to adjust these difficulties, and at the same time to obtain a larger revenue, by taxing the spirit now in question at the same rate as potable spirit.

(c) Similarly, administrative difficulties have arisen in connection with the treatment prescribed in 1910 for the assessment of liqueurs, cordials and perfumed spirit and toilet preparations. The proposals now put forward follow closely the procedure adopted in England in the treatment of these spirituous preparations. A higher liquid gallon rate, viz., R18-12, corresponding to the English rate of £1-5, is proposed for perfumed spirit; and a somewhat lower liquid gallon rate is proposed for all spirit not tested, other than perfumed spirit. The present position is that perfumed spirit pays R13 per liquid gallon, while liqueurs, etc., pay at the same rate, and without any statutory option of test with reference to proof strength, an omission which weighs unduly on the weaker liqueurs.

(4) The duty on champagne and sparkling wines now stands at R3-12 per gallon, which it is proposed to raise to R4-6, while the duty on still wines will be increased from R1-8 to R1-12 per gallon. The imports of these articles are on the decline, and it is thought that a higher rate would not be fiscally productive. The increase we are now making is, moreover, proportionately nearly the same as that which we propose under spirits.

(5) We estimate that we shall get about £130,000 from the above proposals, inclusive of £20,000 from the excise on beer and spirits.

42. The present rates of duty on tobacco, cigars and cigarettes are as follows :—

	R	A.	P.
On unmanufactured tobacco	1	0	0	per lb.
On cigars	1	10	0	„
On cigarettes weighing 3 lbs. or more per 1,000 . .	1	4	0	„
On cigarettes of less weight	5	2	0	per 1,000.
On manufactured tobacco, other sorts	1	2	0	per lb.

43. (1) We leave the rate on unmanufactured tobacco unaltered, as the present duty is approximately 100 per cent ad valorem.

(2) The quantitative rate on cigars and cigarettes is to be replaced by an ad valorem rate of 50 per cent. In the case of cigars this rate may be taken as equivalent to an increase of about 30 per cent on the present quantitative rate. As regards cigarettes, the aggregate duty collections now represent approximately 30 per cent of value; but the present quantitative rate presses heavily on the very cheap brands, invoiced at R6-14 a thousand, which form the bulk of the imports. The duty represents, in their case, 45 per cent of value, while in the case of a large number of the better brands of cigarettes, particularly those imported from Egypt, the proportion of duty to value is considerably less, running between 9 and 35 per cent. A certain amount of inconvenience and loss is also caused to importers by the necessity of weighing the cigarettes to ascertain the duty leviable at the quantitative rates. The substitution of an ad valorem rate will thus have the double effect of drawing some additional revenue from the better class of cigarettes without adding materially to the burden on the cheaper class, and of removing the practical difficulties in applying the present quantitative rates.

(3) We propose to raise the rate on manufactured tobacco, other sorts, from R1-2 to R1-8 per lb., which will be roughly proportionate to the increase of duty in the case of cigars.

(4) We hope to get about £30,000 from these changes in connection with tobacco.

44. We do not propose any increase in the duty of 4 annas an ounce imposed on imported silver in 1910, which represents an ad valorem rate of some 15 or 16 per cent. In the case of silver manufactures, however, which at present come under the general tariff, we propose to make a change, to remove a disability under which Indian silversmiths labour. They have now to pay duty at 4 annas per ounce for the silver required for the manufacture of their goods, while silverware and silver thread imported into India only pay duty at the general rate. We now propose that where the importer can give the Collector of Customs proof as to the silver contents of an article made or partly made of silver, the duty on such silver contents shall be at the rate applicable to silver, namely 4 annas per ounce, the residual value of the article being taxed at 7½ per cent. Where, however, no such proof is forthcoming, the whole duty will be at 15 per cent ad valorem. Executive instructions will, however, issue exempting from this special tax articles which only contain an inconsiderable proportion of silver.

45. We are not modifying the duty of 1½ annas a gallon imposed on imported petroleum in 1910, which is equivalent to some 20 per cent ad valorem. We also leave the export duty on rice unaltered. I shall refer presently to the case of salt.

46. The only other important item in the existing tariff on which I have not yet touched is cotton manufactures. For the last 20 years the position has been that cotton twists and yarns of all kinds are free of duty, while a duty at the rate of 3½ per cent is imposed on woven goods of all kinds, whether imported or manufactured in Indian mills. We propose to leave the position here as it stands.

The Council will naturally ask why, at a time when fiscal necessities compel us to make a material enhancement of the tariff in nearly every other direction, we should leave cotton alone. Well, the Government of India have not failed to represent their view that there should be a material increase in the cotton import duties, while the cotton excise, which has formed the subject of such widespread criticism in this country, should be left unenhanced, subject to the possibility of its being altogether abolished when financial circumstances are more favourable. But His Majesty's Government, who have to consider the position from a wider standpoint, felt that the raising of this question at the present time would be most unfortunate, as it would provoke a revival of old controversies at a time when they specially desired to avoid all contentious questions both here and in England, and might prejudice the ultimate settlement of the larger issues raised by the war. His Majesty's Government feel that the fiscal relationship of all parts of the Empire as between one another and the rest of the world must be reconsidered after the war, and they desire to leave the question raised by the cotton duties to be considered then, in connection with the general fiscal policy which may be thought best for the Empire, and the share, military and financial, that has been taken by India in the present struggle. His Majesty's Government are aware of the great interest taken in this question in India and of the impossibility of avoiding some reference to it when new taxation has to be raised, but they are confident that their decision is in the best interests of India and that premature discussion of this particular issue could only be harmful. We fully realise the force of these arguments at the present juncture, and consequently we are reluctantly compelled not to propose any modification in respect of the cotton duties.

47. Our final proposal connected with the tariff is the imposition of an export duty on two important staples, namely, tea and jute. Both these industries have been specially prosperous during the war, and in the case of jute I think there is already a considerable consensus of opinion that if the financial situation created by the war should necessitate heavy additional taxation, this is one of the first articles which might legitimately be taxed. The case of tea is hardly less strong, especially in view of the fact that, in spite of its largely industrial character, the tea business has for 30 years been exempted from income tax.

I may add that in the case of tea, we have a precedent for special taxation in the recent action of the Ceylon Government, which, after the war broke out, imposed an export duty of R1½ per 100 lbs. We propose to follow this example and adopt the same rate, a measure which is estimated to produce some £300,000 of revenue in the coming year. Our proposals contemplate, however, the exemption of forward contracts entered into before the present date. We also propose to exempt tea waste.

48. Jute is an article which can well bear a special rate of export duty, not only because of the present prosperity of the trade, but in view of the monopoly which India has in this product. The only existing special taxation on jute is a small cess levied in Calcutta and Chittagong, the proceeds of which go to the Improvement Trust in the case of Calcutta, and the local Port Trust in the case of Chittagong. It was accepted, however, when these cesses were imposed, that they were not to prejudice any future claim of Government to tax jute for our Imperial purposes.

Our present proposal is to tax both the raw and the manufactured article. In the case of raw jute we contemplate a general rate of R2-4 per bale of 400 lbs., which is approximately equivalent, at present prices, to an ad valorem duty of 5 per cent. There are, however, certain classes of jute, known technically as "cuttings" and "rejections", which are of much smaller value, and we therefore propose a special rate of 10 annas per bale on cuttings and R1-8 on rejections.

Manufactured jute falls under two main classes, known to the trade as sacking and hessians, respectively. We propose a duty of R10 per ton on sacking and R16 per ton on hessians—a rate which, in each case, corresponds approximately to the taxation, at 'raw jute' rates, of the material used in the production of the goods.

49. We propose, however, following the spirit of section 20 of the Sea Customs Act, to exempt from this duty manufactured jute which is exported under specific demand from His Majesty's Government, i.e, in pursuance of War Office contracts.

Also, as in the case of tea, we propose to exempt forward contracts entered into before the present date, a concession which will appreciably diminish the revenue to be obtained from the new duty in the first year. We estimate this at about £580,000.

50. The tariff changes above indicated will apply to external trade by land, from which another £30,000 is expected, as well as to that by sea. In the aggregate, they are estimated, as I have already stated, to bring in a total increased revenue of about £2·1 million. I shall, during the present sitting, introduce a Bill embodying the legislation required, and I shall ask Your Excellency's permission to suspend the rules of business so as to admit of the immediate nomination of a Select Committee thereon and an instruction to them to report at a very early date. It will be readily understood that it is most essential to get the fiscal changes which we propose passed into law as soon as possible, and with effect from the present date, since otherwise there would be large clearances of goods to avoid the higher duties.

51. The next source from which we propose to derive increased revenue is Salt. Between 1888 and 1902 salt was, generally speaking, taxed at R2½ per maund. Then a cycle of prosperity permitted a gradual reduction of the duty to R2 per maund in 1903, to R1½ in 1905, and to R1 in 1907, at which figure it now stands. The maund on which this duty is calculated is a little more than 82 lbs.; consequently, the existing rate amounts to only about one-fifth of an anna per lb.

Enhancement of the salt tax has always been looked on as a reserve to be utilised when war or other financial calamities should come upon us, and in making the reductions of the tax which I have noted above our predecessors had in view the increase thus afforded in the potentialities of this reserve. It is only natural, therefore, that in the present situation we should turn to an increase in the salt duty. On the other hand, it has to be remembered that the duty is largely paid by the poorer classes; and that the increases proposed in our customs tariff will to some extent fall upon poor consumers. In the interests of the poor, therefore, we propose to make only a very small increase in the salt tax, i.e., to increase it from R1 to R1¼ per maund. This rate will still be less than that levied only nine years ago, and the taxation will now amount to about ¼ anna per lb. We estimate the extra revenue obtainable from this increase in 1916-17 at £600,000.

It may interest the Council in this connection to be informed that Italy, too, derives a considerable amount of revenue from salt. This was put down in the Italian budget for 1914-15 at the equivalent of £3·6 million, and the taxation has recently been raised so as to bring in another £800,000. Our salt revenue on the present basis of taxation is estimated at £3·4 million, and with the extra duty at £4 million. Italy, therefore, is raising rather more than we do from salt, and from a population which is about one-seventh of that of British India.

52. Here, too, it is necessary to apply the increase to imported and, generally speaking, to locally produced salt, with effect from the 1st March. The enhancement of salt duty will not require special legislation. It can be effected under the law by notification by the Governor General in Council.

Locally produced salt in Burma has hitherto been taxed at less than the general rate of duty, though the tendency has been gradually to work up to this. We shall consider later whether the present enhancement should not also involve a proportionate increase in the special Burma taxation.

53. I now come to Income Tax, in regard to which I may first note that this term now replaces the old designation 'Assessed Taxes' in Heads VIII and 10 of our Revenue accounts, since there is at present no other tax to reckon with under these heads. The first general income tax for British India was enacted in the year 1860, and it may be noted that all incomes above R500 a year paid 4 per cent, or about 8 pies in the rupee, and that profits on land were assessed, except in the case of cultivators of land whose rent value was less than R600 per annum. This Act had a short life, but it was succeeded by various other income tax and license tax enactments, ending with the present Income Tax Act of 1886.

54. The main features of this Act are as follows. It exempts—

(a) Incomes derived from land assessed to land revenue and from agriculture.

(c) Salaries of officers and soldiers employed in a military capacity, when these do not exceed R500 a month, or R6,000 a year.

(d) All incomes which would otherwise be taxable if these are less than R1,000 a year.

The last exemption originally stood at R500, but this limit was raised to R1,000 in 1903. With the exception of that change, the Act of 1886 has remained in force to this day.

The taxation arrangements which it authorises are as follows :—

Salaries and pensions are assessed at 4 pies in the rupee if between R1,000 and R1,999 per annum. If above that amount, they pay 5 pies in the rupee.

Other incomes, derived from sources outside profits of companies and interest on securities, if they are between ₹1,000 and ₹1,999, pay on a scale of fixed rates which varies from ₹20 to ₹42, and approximates roughly in its total effect to a 4 pie rate. Incomes of ₹2,000 or upwards similarly derived pay at the 5 pie rate.

Profits of companies are uniformly assessed at 5 pies in the rupee. The same rate is levied upon interest on securities; but here the holder may get an exemption or a rebate at the 4 pie rate, as the case may be, if he can prove that his income from all sources is less than ₹1,000, or falls between ₹1,000 and ₹1,999.

55. Speaking generally, therefore, our normal income tax rate is 5 pies in the rupee, which is about equivalent to 6*d.* in the pound, and it may be noted that, when the Act was introduced, the English income-tax stood at 8*d.* in the pound.

Since then, as is well known, very great changes have been made in the English income tax: the principle of graduation has been introduced, the rates have been very much raised, and since 1910 there has been a super-tax which is now levied on incomes above £3,000. In 1914, just before the war—the super-tax apart—the rates of income tax ranged from 9*d.* to 1*s.* 3*d.* in the pound. These were doubled after the war, and in 1915 there was a further increase of 40 per cent on the previously doubled rate, while the limit of exemption was reduced and the scale of previous abatements cut down. The English income tax, apart again from the super-tax, may, therefore, now be said to run from 2*s.* 1*d.* to 3*s.* 6*d.* in the pound. The contrast afforded by India is thus very marked.

Now it is not necessary, or desirable, to propose any such heroic measures as those which have been forced upon Chancellors of the Exchequer in England; but our income-tax here is undoubtedly very low, and there will be general agreement, I think, that, at a time when it has become necessary to increase taxation materially, and to hit the poor in some measure by the raising of the salt tax, more money should be exacted from the incomes of the relatively well-to-do.

56. Our proposals for obtaining more money from the income-tax are as follows:—

(a) We propose to leave all existing exemptions untouched, and also to make no alteration in the taxation of persons whose incomes, official or private, are less than ₹5,000 per annum.

(b) In the case of incomes under Parts I and IV of Schedule II of the Act, i.e., salaries and pensions, and incomes from the "other sources" mentioned above, which exceed the last-mentioned sum, we propose to enhance the tax in the following way:—

(1) Incomes from ₹5,000 to ₹9,999 will pay 6 pies in the rupee, or 7½*d.* per pound.

(2) Incomes from ₹10,000 to ₹24,999 will pay 9 pies in the rupee, or 11¼*d.* in the pound.

(3) Incomes of ₹25,000 and upwards will pay 1 anna in the rupee, which is equivalent to 1*s.* 3*d.* in the pound.

(c) Profits of companies will be assessed at the 1 anna rate; but this will be subject to abatement, or exemption, to individual shareholders who can show that their total income is such as to warrant a lower rate of taxation or none at all. Thus a shareholder whose income is less than ₹1,000 per annum from all sources would obtain a refund of the entire tax previously recovered on his dividends; a man whose total income is ₹5,000 would obtain a refund of the amount recovered in excess of the 6 pie rate; and so on.

We also propose, following what we are advised to be the correct construction of the law as it stands at present, as well as the actual practice in some provinces, to exempt altogether (as would be the case if it were a matter of an individual) the profits of companies which amount to less than ₹1,000.

(d) Interest on securities will be taxed similarly, i.e., the initial rate will be 1 anna, but the holders can obtain refunds of the whole or of part of the sum recovered with reference to their actual income of all kinds.

57. The total number of income tax assessees in 1914-15, counting companies as persons, was about 332,000. Of these about 216,000 were assessed on incomes between ₹1,000 and ₹1,999, and 79,000 between ₹2,000 and ₹4,999. Consequently, no less than 295,000 of the present assessees will be unaffected by the new rates of taxation.

we propose, which will fall on the 37,000 who are relatively well-to-do. Of these, again, about 24,000, on incomes between ₹5,000 and ₹9,999, will only have their tax increased by 1 pie on the rupee.

58. We expect in all to get £900,000 from this increased taxation. Here again I shall introduce a Bill to-day making the required amendments in Act II of 1886. But in this case it will not be necessary, as in regard to salt and customs, to make the new taxation applicable before the 1st April 1916. Arrears of income tax not paid by that date, but recovered subsequently, will be assessed at the old rates. The new rates will apply to all income the tax on which has not actually become due till the 1st April.

I may add that we propose to restrict the amendments of the Income Tax Act to those which are necessary to carry out the new scheme of taxation I have outlined. There are other matters, no doubt, in respect of which the existing Act might suitably be amended or made clearer, but these can wait till a season of greater leisure.

59. Lastly, I may explain that under the terms of the existing financial settlements with the provinces, income tax is a divided head, and the additional revenue accruing from our proposals will thus be shared between Imperial and Provincial. But as this additional taxation is imposed solely for Imperial purposes, the amount which technically accrues to the provinces will be set-off by a counter-adjustment from Provincial to Imperial under the head 'Transfers between Imperial and Provincial Revenues.' The same procedure was followed in 1910 in respect of the additional taxation then imposed under 'Stamps' and 'Excise.' A like adjustment will also be made on this occasion in respect of that portion of the additional duty on locally produced beer and 'foreign spirit' which will be credited to Provincial revenues under the terms of the settlements.

60. I now sum up the financial effect of the proposals above explained. We intend to get an additional revenue of—

(c) £900,000 by an increase under Income Tax.

Or in all a little over £3·6 million as against an estimated Imperial deficit of £2·6 million. This leaves us with a surplus of £1,052,000 which, though somewhat less than we have aimed at in the years just preceding the war, will supply a useful and much needed source of strength against the contingencies which face us in the future.

The imposition of a portion of our proposed taxation from 1st March (vide paragraph 58) will also yield about £110,000 in the current year, thus diminishing (as I have already noted) the Imperial deficit for 1915-16 indicated in paragraph 17 to about £2 million.

61. Consequently the statement given in paragraph 23 must be taken as superseded by the revised statement below, which shows our revenue and expenditure position for 1915-16 and 1916-17 as determined by the taxation measures above expounded.

Rupee borrowing.

62. Before I pass on to the general ways and means arrangements for the coming year, it will be desirable to make a few remarks on the subject of our rupee borrowing.

In paragraph 56 of my speech introducing the last Financial Statement I announced our intention of raising a loan of £3 million (4½ crores) in India in the current year, the time and the best method of borrowing being reserved for later consideration.

The internal conditions in India were generally favourable at the period of the year when we usually take into consideration the question of issuing a new loan. Trade was slack and money easy; the balances of the Presidency Banks stood at a high level; and though there was little demand for rupee securities and the market was extremely sensitive, the floating supplies of paper were reported to be small and its price had been comparatively steady. The situation was, however, entirely changed by the announcement, on the 21st June last, of the flotation of a British war loan for an unlimited amount carrying interest at 4½ per cent, with valuable privileges to subscribers in respect to the conversion of holdings in the previous 3½ per cent war loan, consols and annuities, into stock of the new war loan. This produced an immediate drop in the price of our 3½ per cent paper, and it became clear that more favourable terms than we had previously contemplated would have to be offered if a loan of the amount announced in the Budget were to be successfully floated, while the increasing difficulties in raising further loans in London on behalf of India rendered it impossible to reduce the Indian borrowing.

The line of action to be followed in these conditions formed the subject of anxious deliberation on our part and, after discussion of the question at an informal conference which I held with the representatives of the three Presidency Banks, it was decided to fix the rate of interest at 4 per cent and to offer at par a short-term issue which would be redeemed after eight years in any case, while the Government reserved the right of redeeming it at any time after five. Political and financial circumstances rendered it most undesirable to take any risk of the loan proving a failure, and accordingly it was arranged that the Presidency Banks should underwrite the entire loan, and should in any case subscribe for a minimum sum of R1½ crores, in return for a commission of 1 per cent on the amount of the loan. The loan as thus settled was notified on the 28th July last and subscriptions were invited between the 2nd and 17th August, these being receivable at the head offices of the Presidency Banks and their branches, and at all places at which we have account offices, instead of as formerly at the presidency towns only. Considering the moderate amount of interest offered and the conditions prevalent, the loan was wholly successful, being oversubscribed by more than two crores.

63. We also initiated an important new departure in the direction of trying to bring the Government into more direct touch with small investors by issuing a supplementary section of the loan to be subscribed for through Post Offices. The loan proper was to be subscribed by the 17th August, but the Post Office section, into which subscriptions of any amount (in even hundreds of rupees) from R100 to R5,000 were receivable, remained open till the end of October, and all the amounts tendered through it were taken in full. Special arrangements were made for wide publication of the terms on which applications would be received through the Post Office, by notices and brief posters exhibited in post offices, treasuries, and district offices, and by advertisements inserted in newspapers, English and vernacular.

The total amount thus realised was about R50 lakhs, or £333,000, and of this amount only about 18 lakhs represented withdrawals from existing savings banks accounts (which so far gave us the advantage, in present circumstances, of transfer of liability from a call account to one which we need not liquidate for some years), while the remaining 32 lakhs was new money lodged with Government. Of the total, 21 lakhs was obtained from Europeans, 26 lakhs from Indians, and 3 lakhs from banks and public bodies. R6 lakhs represented individual applications not exceeding R500, while out of a total of some 4,250 applications, over 500 were for the minimum amount possible, viz., R100. It is also interesting to note that in all nearly three lakhs of rupees, representing some 300 applications, came from Indian ladies. As further evidence of the extent to which this section of the loan tapped sources which would otherwise not have been available, it may be mentioned that about 40 per cent of the total was applied for through sub and branch post offices in the mofussil.

The total amount obtained may seem small, but I would remind the Council that 50 lakhs is a quarter of the total rupee loan issued so recently as 1911-12, and one-third of that which was issued in 1910-11. Considering the novelty of the experiment, the troubled times, and the innate conservatism of the bulk of the Indian people, I hold that this Post Office loan operation has been a marked success, and has justified us in making the procedure a permanent one. We shall also consider, in respect of future issues, the desirability of further simplifying methods so as to avoid some local difficulties and misapprehensions which this year's experiment brought to notice.

64. I now come to our borrowing programme for the next year. That must take place entirely in this country, since, as I have already indicated, we cannot, in the interests of the Empire, set foot on the borrowing market at home. The position of 3½ per cent paper is also a very relevant factor in this connection. I referred last year with legitimate satisfaction to the strength of that paper, but since then it has fallen greatly. At the beginning of the present financial year its selling price was R92½. In December and January, however, it fell rapidly to the neighbourhood of R80; and in spite of some recovery subsequently, it has recently stood about eight points below the opening price of the year. That is, of course, a very serious matter for the holders of Government paper, and various suggestions have been made, in the press and otherwise, that we should assist them by the conversion of the whole of our 3½ per cent debt, which at present stands at about £92 million, into a 4 per cent security. This would involve a very considerable burden to the general taxpayer, which I am certainly not prepared to impose upon him. Nor can I admit that the Government can be held responsible for such unforeseen falls in securities, Government or other, as have taken place by reason of the war and the higher rates of interest which it has brought about. On the other hand, the Government cannot look with indifference on a large depreciation of the price of the premier security of India, or ignore the grave difficulties which such depreciation, if unremedied, will place in the way of their own future borrowings, especially in the coming year.

65. Consequently, after very careful deliberation, and with the approval of the Secretary of State, we have decided to do something for the holders of our existing Government paper which will be in our own, that is in the public, interests as well as theirs. In view of our ways and means requirements, and to strengthen our position generally, we consider that we should raise not less than £4 million in India next year, outside the amount which we may get from the Post Office section of our loan. To facilitate this we propose that subscriptions to our new loan should carry with them the privilege of converting an equivalent amount of 3½ per cent paper on favourable terms, by which I mean terms that will be better than the arithmetical result of a comparison between 3½ per cent interest and the higher rate which we shall have to pay for the new loan: e.g., if our new loan is issued at 4 per cent, the conversion rate for 3½ per cent paper will be higher than R87½. This privilege will also cover the conversion of our remaining 3 per cent paper on terms proportionally equivalent to those fixed in respect of the 3½ per cents. Thus a subscriber of say one lakh of rupees to the new loan will thereby obtain the right, which we shall allow him to transfer, to obtain another lakh by the conversion, on such terms as may be decided on, of 3½ per cent or 3 per cent paper.

66. Further, we propose that this offer of limited conversion in 1916, conditional on subscription to a new loan, shall be repeated in 1917 and 1918 if we borrow in those years at a higher rate than 3½ per cent. Thus supposing the 1917 loan to be of that character, a subscriber thereto, or a purchaser of conversion rights attached to the loan, will be able to convert 3½ per cent paper into debt of that year's issue, whatever its terms may be. I must explain, however, that the conversion rates will be fixed on each occasion with reference to the circumstances of the time and the character of each new loan, and I can hold out no hope that they will under any circumstances be more favourable hereafter—indeed they may quite possibly be less so—than the terms we shall offer in 1916, when money conditions are specially stringent. I may explain also that conversion facilities will not be attached to any short-term borrowing, such as the loan we raised last year with a currency of 5 to 8 years only; and generally that the Government of India reserve full discretion as to the terms to be offered for future loans, and also as regards the conversion rights associated therewith.

67. We believe that these measures will confer a substantial degree of protection on the holders of our existing paper, and will be found well adapted to the particular conditions which this problem presents to us in India. The requirements of the Government of India are not such as to call for a vast scheme of unlimited conversion in a single year as was the case at home. The Indian markets could not find the money; and if they did find it, we could not employ it ourselves in India, or remit it to England without wrecking exchange. We feel too that in view of the comparative narrowness of the Indian money market in ordinary times, and the special stringency which exists at present, we should—if we confined the opportunity of conversion to a single year's issue—deprive many holders of our paper of an effective chance of participating. On the other hand, we are not prepared to admit that the conditions call for the eventual extinction of the whole mass of our 3½ per cent paper, and could not wisely saddle ourselves with the grave liabilities incidental to a conversion scheme extending over a considerable number of years. In the conditions of the present year our next issue must be a repayable loan, and though we in no way pledge ourselves to confine our flotations in the conversion period to repayable debt, we may of course find it necessary to do so. Now, the association of conversion rights with a repayable loan doubles the amount which has to be repaid in the future. It will be readily understood that this is a very serious element in the problem; and when the time for repayment came, we might be seriously hampered as regards our productive capital expenditure and our finances generally if the amount of debt falling due for discharge were of excessive amount. These reasons have weighed with us in limiting the conversion period to three years. We have also had to bear in mind that one main justification for a conversion scheme is the inducement which it offers to the public to subscribe to the loans issued at a time of difficulty and crisis, and we cannot afford to have this inducement weakened by an undue prolongation of the opportunities for conversion.

68. It would be premature as yet to decide what the exact terms of the 1916 loan shall be in respect of interest and currency, though I may say now that the loan will on this occasion be repayable at the end of some specific, though probably somewhat distant, date. Nor can I yet state the conversion rate which will be offered for 3½ per cent and 3 per cent paper. These are matters which will still require very careful consideration; but I may say at once that the effective amount of our new loan, that is excluding the new debt created by conversion of previous issues, will, as I have already indicated, be not less than £4 million outside the Post Office section (to which, I may observe, the same conversion facilities will apply) and that we shall be prepared to accept subscriptions up to £8 million. We are willing to take that large amount this year partly to make the remedy of conversion more immediate and efficacious, and partly to strengthen our financial position generally in view of the war. But we in no way contemplate, or pledge ourselves to, similarly large flotations in 1917 and 1918; and investors who stand aside from this year's issue in the expectation of being as readily able to obtain conversion rights in the two following years will run the risk of disappointment in that respect.

69. I may mention here that we have decided, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to introduce a new form of Government securities in the shape of bearer-bonds, to meet the convenience of persons in large business centres who wish to dispose of, or raise money upon, Government paper with greater ease and rapidity than are afforded by our existing promissory notes with the formalities attendant upon the transfer of these from one holder to another. We have no desire, however, to alter or abandon the present form of promissory note, which is much valued for purposes of safety by those who wish to hold Government paper permanently or for considerable periods. Accordingly the bearer-bond form will be purely optional and the fullest facilities will be given for the conversion of promissory notes of the existing form into bearer-bonds and vice versa. This reform will be introduced as soon as certain legal points which are under consideration have been settled, and when the best form of the new bearer-bond has been determined on.

Ways and Means Estimate for 1916-17.

70. Before setting out the figures in the manner adopted in paragraph 20 above, I would emphasise that they are very materially affected by the facts that, as I have already said, we cannot count on any home borrowing next year; that, on the contrary, we ought to give some little help to the Home

Government in maintaining a grip over the London money market by repaying a portion of the Secretary of State's outstanding India Bills; and that, in view of the limitations of the Indian money market, we must take a cautious view as to the immediate response to our offer of conversion facilities. Consequently, even though it is proposed to meet the Imperial deficit entirely by taxation, and convert it into a surplus, we have had to cut down the capital expenditure programme to the lowest possible limits, allowing only £3 million for Railways and £1·2 for Irrigation and Delhi.

The figures we have to deal with are then as follows:

Outlay.	£ million.	Resources.	£ million.
Provincial deficit	0·4	From balances	0·3
Capital Expenditure—		Imperial surplus	1·1
Railway	3·0	Rupee borrowing	4·3
Irrigation	0·9	Unfunded debt	0·3
Delhi	0·3	Famine insurance and miscellaneous items	0·2
Discharge of debt	2·0	Special war receipts	0·4
	6·6		6·6

71. I have already explained the amount of the Provincial deficit and the Imperial surplus as arrived at by the new taxation, and now add the following elucidatory remarks in respect of other items.

Railway Programme.—As I have said, the financial position requires us to cut this down to a very low figure. We are advised, indeed, that it is very questionable whether a larger allotment could be profitably spent in view of the great difficulty, in present circumstances, in obtaining railway material from home and its extremely high cost. The present price of rails, for instance, landed in India, is nearly double the pre-war price, while the Tata Works, on which we could normally rely for local supplies, are now mainly occupied in the manufacture of steel for munitions. Our own railway workshops too are largely engaged in the same work.

The £3 million programme has been fixed so as to continue progress, but generally at a reduced rate, on works already in hand which could not without loss or great inconvenience be interrupted. Provision has also been made for the restoration of the hill section of the Assam-Bengal Railway, but only such new works are included—for example, water-supply schemes where the existing supply seems likely to fail—as could not with safety be postponed. The bulk of the expenditure proposed is consequently on open lines.

Irrigation.—Here too the financial position has to be taken into account, and prevents our doing more than repeat the revised estimate provision of £900,000.

Expenditure on Delhi.—This, as in the current year, is confined to what is absolutely necessary to keep things going without deterioration of material and disbanding of necessary establishments.

Discharge of debt.—We provide here £500,000 for the discharge of India bonds issued in connection with the purchase of the Indian Midland Railway, which fall due in the coming year. We also provide £1½ million for the discharge of some of the short-term sterling India Bills issued by the Secretary of State in 1914-15, a measure which, as I have indicated, will be a contribution on our part to the retention of the Home market for borrowings by His Majesty's Government in connection with the war. We shall also, incidentally, save a certain amount in interest charges. The temporary loans we raised in 1914-15, which still stood at £14 million at the commencement of the current year, will thus have been reduced to £9½ million, i.e., to £4 million from the Gold Standard Reserve (vide paragraph 21) and £5½ million in sterling India Bills.

72. I have already said as much as I can at present in respect of the rupee loan. We take the amount of this for the purpose of the present calculations at £4·3 million, of which £300,000 is estimated as accruing from the Post Office section. But, as I have already indicated, we are prepared to accept subscriptions up to a further sum not exceeding £4 million. To the extent that we obtain these we shall employ them in paying off our remaining debt to the Gold Standard Reserve.

It is very necessary, in present conditions, to conserve the Indian money market for the requirements of Government to a greater extent than is normally necessary. We do not propose to go at all as far in this direction as His Majesty's Government have had to do at home, but we are fully justified in issuing instructions, as we have done, that local bodies shall, as far as possible, keep down their development expenditure which is financed from borrowing; and that all loan flotations by such bodies, as well as branch line companies' loans, shall be held absolutely in abeyance from the present date until our coming loan has been floated.

For unfunded debt we take a net incoming of £300,000 only, as we must be cautious in regard to the Post Office deposits, and we are for the present anticipating that there will be a reduction in these by direct withdrawals, or by transfer to the Post Office section of the loan, to the extent of £700,000 in the coming year.

Under special war receipts we assume a receipt of £400,000 from the continued employment of enemy vessels.

73. These and other transactions bring us to an estimated closing balance of £17·4 million on the 31st March 1917, exclusive of holdings for the Gold Standard Reserve temporarily included in the balances of the Home Treasury. This is about £1 million more than the normal minimum balance required in India and England together; but it will be readily understood that in present conditions, which in several directions expose our balances to exceptional strain, it is necessary to have some margin. This is the more desirable in that, as I have already said (paragraph 32), we shall eventually have to make good the large sums—of which we are making temporary use—that we are deriving from the employment of captured enemy vessels and the liquidation of hostile firms.

Remarks on certain special heads.

A.—Opium.

74. In paragraph 36 of my speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1914-15, I referred to the question of the disposal of the stocks of Indian opium which had accumulated in the China ports as the one problem of our past opium trade with China still remaining for solution. At the commencement of this year the amount of stocks still unsold was considerable and the rate at which they were passing into consumption was slow, while all the consuming provinces in China except three had been declared free of cultivation and were consequently closed to Indian opium in accordance with the terms of the Opium agreement of 1911. Arrangements had also been made in accordance with that agreement for the inspection, early last summer, of Kiangsu with the object of applying the closure to this province also. These arrangements were however cancelled at the request of the Chinese Government, on the ground that investigations had shown that certain districts were not free from poppy cultivation; and shortly afterwards it became known that an arrangement had been arrived at between the Chinese authorities and the opium merchants which would have the effect of removing restrictions which had previously hampered the latter's trade. This was followed by the announcement, a few months later, that the whole of the stocks lying in Hongkong and a portion of those remaining in Shanghai had been purchased by representatives of the Chinese Government. It may fairly be assumed that the small remaining balance of the stocks is not likely to cause any embarrassment to the Government of India, and so a further, and apparently final, stage has been reached in the connection of this country with China in the matter of the opium trade.

75. Shortly after the outbreak of war we found it desirable to raise—from ₹1,200 to ₹1,600 per chest—the upset price fixed in respect of the opium which is auctioned monthly for export to the non-China markets. During 1915 the full amount of the opium offered at this price was sold and, in view of the active conditions of the trade towards the close of the year, it was decided, as I have previously mentioned, to make a further enhancement of the upset price to ₹1,800 with effect from January 1916. The price obtained at our auction sales rose at once on the announcement of this decision in September and has recently been above the new minimum.

76. I mentioned last year that we had arranged to sell direct to the Government of the Straits Settlements the amount of opium required by that Government for its opium monopoly. A similar arrangement has since been concluded with the Government of Hongkong, and the amount of opium which has been announced for auction is exclusive of the requirements of these two Governments.

77. Incidentally the war has led to an increased demand for medicinal preparations made from opium and, supplies from Turkey being interrupted, it has been arranged with the Secretary of State to test the suitability of Indian opium for this purpose by placing a quantity at the disposal of the London market. The permanent success of the experiment cannot, of course, be established till the return of peace conditions, but we have been able so far to sell 1,400 chests at a substantial profit and anticipate a larger sale in the coming year. It is a matter of satisfaction to us that in this way the production of Indian opium has relieved a want which must otherwise have been acutely felt.

B.—Military Services.

78. The table below shows the gross and net expenditure on Military Services for the coming year and the four years preceding :—

	Gross.					Net, i.e., deducting receipts.
	Army.	Marine.	Military Works.	Special Defences.	Total.	All Military heads.
	£	£	£	£	£	£
1912-13 . . .	19,576,526	479,928	887,379	9,267	20,953,100	19,565,466
1913-14 . . .	19,789,239	512,845	947,297	16,284	21,265,765	19,896,113
1914-15 . . .	20,336,559	463,270	996,071	13,603	21,809,603	20,434,915
1915-16 (Budget) .	19,973,700	650,400	744,300	21,100	21,389,500	20,169,200
1915-16 (Revised) .	21,650,200	519,100	830,200	16,300	23,015,800	21,842,700
1916-17 (Budget) .	21,579,100	707,600	858,300	20,900	23,165,900	22,000,000

79. The total net expenditure in 1915-16 is now expected to reach the figure of £21·8 million or about £1⅔ million more than the Budget. I have already referred (in paragraph 14) to the main causes contributing to this large excess and need only add the following supplementary remarks. The developments of military science have rendered it necessary to increase the efficiency of the army in India in various directions while the war proceeds, e.g., by the provision of mechanical transport, at a cost of £78,000, and of an aviation squadron, at a cost of £74,000. The expenditure on Military Works is now estimated to exceed the Budget figure by £86,000, chiefly on account of urgent improvements to frontier roads, the provision of accommodation for the Indian sick and wounded returned from the front, and improvements to the Cordite factory and to the Ordnance factory at Ishapore. A fall in receipts of £17,000, which is chiefly due to war conditions, also contributes to the increase in net expenditure.

In certain respects the programme of expenditure has not been fulfilled; for instance, the Admiralty were unable to make progress with the construction of the Royal Indian Marine vessels referred to in my speech of last year, and this has involved a lapse of £149,000. On the other hand, the outlay on home stores for marine requirements is higher by £23,000. Other minor variations combine to account for the balance of the estimated excess.

80. For the year 1916-17 a sum of £22 million has been allotted as the net Military expenditure, again on the assumption, which governs all our calculations, that the war will continue throughout the next financial year.

In view of the general financial situation, only absolutely necessary and urgent measures are being provided for. The causes which affected Military expenditure during 1915-16 will remain for the most part operative in 1916-17. There will, it is true, be considerably less expenditure on sea transport charges, since the contribution during the current year included arrear payments on account of 1914-15. We also anticipate reduced expenditure on certain other measures connected with internal defence; and there will be a saving in connection with the mechanical transport companies, due to the initial expenditure being met for the most part during the current year. On the other hand, we anticipate increased expenditure of £189,000 in connection with the vessels the construction of which at home had to be postponed during the current year, and on replacement of stores and coal, and a somewhat higher provision has to be made for measures in connection with military arrangements on the North-West frontier. Broadly speaking, however, the anticipated expenditure in 1916-17 would be a little lower than in 1915-16 but for the fact that, as I have already explained, we have thought it wise to provide a margin (of rather over half a million pounds) to meet unforeseen demands.

81. The Indian Army still continues to play a conspicuous part, side by side with representatives of every portion of the Empire, in the great war which the King-Emperor and his Allies are waging for the cause of liberty and right. Nor, as I indicated in my speech in the closing budget debate last March, is this the only respect in which India has borne her share of the Empire's burdens. She has rendered invaluable aid by recruiting and training large numbers of soldiers; by furnishing supplies of all sorts—foodstuffs, clothing, ordnance, equipment and munitions; by training and despatching horses; by lending to the Admiralty a great part of her Royal Indian Marine fleet; and by fitting out transports. The total value of the supplies and services of all sorts which she has thus undertaken on behalf of the War Office amounted, including some similar expenditure brought to account at home, to about £10 million in 1914-15 and is estimated at about £18 million in 1915-16 and £20¾ million in 1916-17. These figures include also the outlay in civil departments on the manufacture of munitions which is now in full progress. They do not, however, include the services, representing a recoverable outlay of £850,000 in 1915-16 and about £1 million in 1916-17, which we are able to render to the Australian Government.

82. I mentioned in paragraph 65 of my speech introducing the last Financial Statement the assistance given by the Indian princes in respect of their Imperial Service Corps and in special gifts towards the cost of the war. The latter now total about £900,000. Further, considerable sums have been placed at the disposal of the Commander-in-Chief to be spent in the purchase of horses, motor cars, motor ambulances, etc., or in any way which His Excellency may think advisable for the good of the army. It is of course impossible to mention all these individual gifts, which find no place in the Budget; but I would refer particularly to a recent personal gift of one lakh from His Excellency Maharaja Sir Chandra Shumshere Jung Bahadur Rana, Prime Minister and Marshal of Nepal, as well as of 2 lakhs from the Nepal Durbar, who also are bearing all the ordinary pay charges of a Nepalese contingent now serving in India.

83. The Council will readily understand that the task of deciding the many complex questions relating to the incidence of expenditure as between the Government of India and His Majesty's Government, and of devising a simple and efficient system of accounting, has been a most difficult one. It was found necessary, early in the current year, to create a special appointment of Central War Controller to deal with these matters, and Mr. B. N. Mitra, C.I.E., was appointed to the post. I gladly take this opportunity of acknowledging the conspicuous ability and untiring energy with which he has discharged his duties, and the appreciation they have met with at home as well as here.

C.—Famine Relief.

84. I have already mentioned that the faulty distribution of the monsoon has led to distress in certain areas. This, however, has fortunately, so far, been on a comparatively small scale. Some direct expenditure on relief in the tracts affected by floods in Assam and the United Provinces was necessary. Distress due to drought exists at present in the Bankura district of Bengal; in the Manbhum and Singhbhum districts of Bihar and Orissa; in Ajmer-Merwara, and in the Karauli State in Rajputana; whilst that in the Tipperah district of Bengal is due to floods. Test works have been opened in these tracts and gratuitous relief is also being distributed. The maximum number, so far, on test works in all the affected tracts has been 21,000 and on gratuitous relief 23,000. The Kolhan Government estate in Singhbhum, with an area of 1,200 square miles and a population of 80,000, is however the only area which passed beyond the stage of observation and test, scarcity having been formally declared in October last. Distress there, however, is practically over for the present, though some recrudescence is anticipated when the harvesting of winter rice is finished. Assistance in the shape of agricultural loans has been necessary in these tracts, as well as in Assam; whilst owing to the scarcity of fodder in Ajmer-Merwara, Rajputana and the Punjab the usual concessions for the carriage of fodder at reduced rates have been introduced in large areas. Special railway concessions have also been granted in order to encourage the emigration of cattle from Ajmer-Merwara.

The actual expenditure incurred in relief is fortunately, however, on a very small scale. It may be taken at £93,000 in the current year, of which £40,000 is debited to the head 33—Famine Relief and mainly represents the cost of fodder concessions. The total outlay at present anticipated in the coming year is £73,000, of which £46,000 is intended for fodder concessions and outlay on direct relief and appears under the Famine Relief head.

85. In the current year we provided £500,000 out of the Famine Insurance Grant of £1 million for protective works. The Famine Relief outlay of £40,000 is a first charge on the remaining moiety, and £460,000 is left for the reduction or avoidance of debt, of which £295,000 comes under the Imperial and £165,000 under the Provincial section.

In the coming year we are slightly reducing the provision for protective works, which is taken at £433,000. Of the remainder, famine relief accounts for £46,000, while £424,000 under Imperial and £97,000 under Provincial are allotted to the reduction or avoidance of debt, the Provincial allotment in the coming year being somewhat reduced as one more of the provinces has now obtained its maximum famine credit. I may add that I have not forgotten the promise, to which I referred in paragraph 69 of my speech last year, to consider the possibility of improving the system of Provincial famine credits. We have not yet had a final reply from one of the provinces mainly interested, but we shall hope to put the matter before the Secretary of State in the course of the coming year.

D.—Expenditure from Special Grants, Educational, Medical, etc.

86. I give below a table similar to that exhibited in paragraphs 46 and 70 of my speech introducing the last two Financial Statements :—

[In thousands of pounds.]

	Total grants given (1911-12 to 1916-17).		Total expenditure incurred* (1911-12 to 1916-17).	Balance expected to be available on 1st April 1917.
	Recurring.	Non-recurring.	Non-recurring.
(1) Education	763	3,253	2,213	1,040
(2) Sanitation	245	1,738	1,172	566
(3) Medical Relief, etc.	...	58	54	4
(4) Agriculture, etc.	...	177	169	8
(5) Grants for other special purposes	...	1,545	1,415	130
(6) Grants for general purposes (Discretionary grants)	...	667	381	286
Total	1,008	7,438	5,404	2,034
Add—Savings on recurring grants during foregoing period (about)				697
Total amount expected to be available from special grants on the 1st April 1917				2,731

*Non-recurring figures only are given as the recurring grants are treated as having been fully worked up to, any savings obtained from those grants in particular years being added at the foot of the statement.

In view of continued financial stringency, we have, naturally, had again to ask Local Governments to restrict their drawings on the portion of their balances which represents the unspent remainder of these special grants, and we have also had to limit outlay from the portion of previous recurring grants which have remained at our own disposal. Any short expenditure by the Government of India from these recurring grants in the current and coming years will, however, be made good when financial prosperity is restored.

E.—Financial position of the Provinces.

87. The financial history of the provinces in the current year, as I have already shown, has been one of severe restriction of expenditure, and this must inevitably be continued in the coming year also. The only important change in the financial arrangements with Local Governments which I have to mention now is the final decision on the question of improving the terms of the Burma provincial settlement, in connection with which I mentioned in paragraph 72 of my last year's speech that we had decided to increase the permanent resources of the Local Government to the extent of £100,000 a year. We had also under consideration at the time a further concession, which has since received the approval of the Secretary of State, namely, the guarantee to this province of a minimum aggregate of revenue advancing progressively every year. The annual increment of revenue thus assured to the province is £53,000, and the guarantee extends until 1923-24. It does not actually become operative until the conclusion of the war; but the total minimum guaranteed revenue on which the province will then begin will be fixed as if its revenues had started at the full amount anticipated in the calculations on which the provincial settlement of April 1911 was based, plus the additional £100,000 mentioned above, and had subsequently increased every year at the guaranteed rate. The arrangement is a new feature of our provincial settlement system, and one which we are not likely to extend, as it originates from two factors special to Burma, namely, first, the unusually fluctuating character of her revenues as a whole, and, secondly, the special necessity in her case, for making an assured provision for a steady scheme of development of communications. Such a scheme cannot be taken up and carried on in the absence of some assurance of a growth of minimum revenue sufficient to provide for an adequate working programme without constant set-backs when an indifferent year happens to succeed one of special prosperity. We ourselves believe fully in the elasticity of the Burma revenues; and we felt that, if this confidence in the future growth of provincial revenues could be turned into a certainty, so far as the Local Government is concerned, by the procedure proposed, a great difficulty in attacking this problem of road development could be met.

88. We have also during this year made good progress with the problem of attempting to define and enlarge the financial powers of Local Governments and of authorities subordinate to them on the one hand, and of the various Imperial authorities on the other. Our hope is to evolve a systematic and liberal scheme of delegation which will help to solve, with greater simplicity and generality than has hitherto been attempted, many questions of decentralisation which have been under consideration for a number of years past, as well as certain parallel questions of audit control to which, as Hon'ble Members are aware, much attention has recently been paid. In this Your Excellency has taken a special personal interest, and I should have been glad if it had been possible to make a more definite announcement on the subject on the present occasion. But the matter is one in which we cannot act alone, for no definite scheme can be introduced without the concurrence of the Secretary of State.

F.—Railways. (Capital Outlay.)

89. The following statement gives the figures of Railway capital expenditure on State-owned lines included within the Railway programme for the coming year and the four years preceding:—

—	1912-13.	1913-14.	1914-15.	1915-16 Revised.	1916-17 Budget.
	£	£	£	£	£
Open lines including rolling stock .	7,134,200	10,303,100	10,534,300	4,250,100	2,730,000
Lines under construction—
(a) started in previous years . .	2,658,700	1,871,500	898,800	660,700	270,000
(b) started in current year . .	103,200	131,700	...	35,900	...
Total .	9,896,100	12,306,300	11,433,100	4,946,700	3,000,000

90. As I have already stated, the financial position has necessitated a large reduction in our Budget programme for 1915-16, and also requires us to cut down expenditure in the coming year to a very low figure. The greater part of the reduced outlay for 1916-17 will, as usual, be devoted to the improvement of open line equipment, including provision for the repair of damage done to the hill section of the Assam Bengal Railway by the abnormal floods of last July.

The difficulty of obtaining imported material without interference with more important work and at reasonable cost has limited the proposals for the purchase of new rolling stock to extremely modest dimensions, though, in order to provide work for the railway shops which build coaches and wagons, some material has to be bought from abroad. Works will absorb the greater part of the allotment, and what cannot be made in the country will be found from the stores already collected whenever possible.

91. The small amount which remains over for construction expenditure we propose to utilise in continuing, as far as possible, progress on lines already in hand which cannot well be interrupted without loss or considerable inconvenience. Very nearly half of it goes to the Burdwan-Howrah Chord which, as explained last year, may be regarded as a work of open line improvement designed to relieve the congestion of traffic on existing lines between Calcutta and the coal-fields. Work has here reached an advanced stage, and in order to render the outlay already incurred remunerative it is necessary to provide for its early completion.

Another work of this description is the overhead connection with the Victoria terminus in Bombay, the provision for which will enable moderate progress to be made. The only other important line requiring notice is the Itarsi-Nagpur, on which considerable progress has been made in the current year. The northern section from Itarsi to Parassia, a length of 134 miles, has already been opened to traffic, and it is expected that the southern section from Nagpur to Katol will be ready for opening within the next 3 or 4 months. We have provided a small sum for the completion of this section, but funds will not permit of work being proceeded with on the remaining section Katol to Amla. Circumstanced as we are it is out of the question to make provision from programme funds for any new line of railway.

92. It is all the more gratifying, therefore, to find that the activity of Branch Line companies has been in no way abated. Last year I informed the Council that the total mileage of railways sanctioned for construction by such companies was 234, and that several District Board projects were about to mature. Since then we have sanctioned the construction of four new lines, of a total length of 72 miles, to be financed by certain District Boards in Madras, and have also authorised the flotation of Branch Line companies for the construction of five new railways comprising a total mileage of 258. One of these, the Mymensingh-Bhairab Bazar Railway, is a project of importance which has been under consideration for years past; and the company undertaking its construction is the largest railway concern recently floated in India. These facts bear evidence to the popularity of the terms which we now offer to investors in such undertakings.

93. The following figures show the capital outlay on all State lines up to the end of each year from 1912-13 and the net return obtained, after deducting working expenses and interest charges:—

[In thousands of pounds.]

94. The return on Railway capital (excluding interest charges) was estimated in the current year's budget at 4·01 per cent. We now estimate it at 4·69 per cent, in consequence of the large increase in net railway earnings which I have already dealt with in my review of the Revenue estimates. For next year we put it at 4·49 per cent consequent on the smaller estimate of net earnings provided for in the Budget.

The charges for interest in the current and ensuing years work out to 3·77 and 3·81 per cent respectively on the capital outlay, so that the final net profit on railways in each of these years is 0·92 per cent and 0·68 per cent. But as I said last year, the interest charges include certain annuity and sinking fund payments which really go to the discharge of debt.

G.—Irrigation. (Capital outlay.)

95. The financial position of our great Irrigation undertakings may be gathered from the following table, which brings up to date the information given in previous Financial Statements. The figures are in thousands of pounds:—

96. On the 31st March 1915 the total length of main and branch canals and distributaries which had been constructed on irrigation works of all classes amounted to 62,758 miles, a figure which, it is expected, will have increased by some 500 miles during the current financial year. These channels command an area of approximately 50 million acres of culturable land, and in 1914-15 actually irrigated almost 25½ million acres. The area of irrigation of 1915-16 is, however, expected to show a decline to about 24 million acres as the deficient rainfall in parts of Northern India diminished the available water-supply.

97. In addition to the canals in use there are 39 major projects which are either under construction, awaiting sanction, or being examined by the professional advisers of Government. Of these 14 are productive and 25 protective; they are designed to irrigate 7½ million acres and to cost £30 million.

During the current year only one new work of any magnitude was sanctioned, namely, the Gokak canal, a work of the protective class estimated to cost £1·3 million. It will extend the benefits of irrigation to portions of the Belgaum and Bijapur districts in the Bombay Presidency, and to tracts in Kolhapur and certain other adjacent Native States. Work on this project has not however yet been started, and it is unlikely that a beginning can be made while the present financial stringency endures.

98. In paragraph 84 of my speech of last year I referred to five projects of the first importance which had been engaging the attention of the Government of India for some considerable time. The investigation of the Sukkur, Kistna, and Sutlej projects is still proceeding, while the Cauvery reservoir scheme continues to be held up pending the settlement of certain questions respecting the division of the waters of the Cauvery river as between Madras and the Mysore State. An alternative scheme for the utilisation of the waters of the Sarda river in the United Provinces has been advanced by the local Government and is now being examined. The Koch Dam project in the Punjab has been abandoned as financially impracticable.

99. The opening of the Upper Jhelum Canal by Your Excellency in December last marked the practical completion of the Punjab Triple Canals project, for upon this canal the two other linked systems—the Upper Chenab and Lower Bari Doab Canals—depend for their supplies in the rabi season. During the first eight months of the current financial year the two last-named works had irrrigated an area exceeding half a million acres, while, on full development, the triple system as a whole will serve an area of 1,870,000 acres annually. Colonisation on the Lower Bari Doab made good progress during the year.

In the United Provinces good progress was made with the erection of a permanent weir and regulator at Hardwar, the site of the headworks of the Upper Ganges Canal. This work, it is hoped, will be finished in the course of the present calendar year, and will greatly improve the efficiency of the canal.

In the Central Provinces the Weinganga and Tandula Canals are approaching completion : it is hoped that irrigation from the former will begin in 1916 and from the latter in 1917.

Satisfactory progress continues to be made with the important protective works in the Bombay Deccan, viz., the Pravara, Godavari, and Nira Right Bank Canals.

In Burma the Twante Canal is nearly finished. This is a purely navigation work and is intended to improve communications between Rangoon and the rich rice-producing lands of the Irrawaddy delta. It will, it is hoped, be ready for use by the end of 1916.

H.—Delhi Expenditure. (Capital Outlay.)

100. We provided £267,000 in this year's Budget for expenditure under the head 51—Initial expenditure on the new Capital. This has been somewhat exceeded, owing largely to existing commitments resulting from the higher scale on which the programme for 1914-15 had been based, and the actual expenditure is now estimated at £333,000. For the coming year we repeat this year's Budget provision.

The Delhi Committee have been engaged during the present year in carrying on preliminary operations, such as levelling the site, collecting materials, manufacturing bricks and similar miscellaneous work. The Indian clerks' quarters and the menials' quarters, which were commenced in 1914, have been completed ; bungalows have been provided for the occupation of the works staff ; and progress has been made with the detailed schemes and estimates. But the only important buildings on which a beginning has yet been made are Government House and the Secretariat, on which a moderate rate of progress will be maintained. The programme of work in 1916-17 will be on similar lines; and the staff employed will be kept down to the minimum necessary to supervise the work in hand and to ensure the completion of the estimates at a reasonably early date, while the larger schemes, such as those relating to sanitation, electric lighting and irrigation, must await an improvement in financial conditions.

The pro forma account of expenditure on the Delhi Province which was first given last year has been brought up to date and is produced as an appendix to the Financial Secretary's Explanatory Memorandum.

Council drawings, Exchange and Paper Currency Reserve.

101. As I explained in paragraph 10 of my speech last year, a considerable portion of the aggregate remittance which we have to make to the Secretary of State to finance his home expenditure is now being carried out indirectly, owing to the fact that we are incurring a large amount of military expenditure in India on behalf of the Home Government which the Secretary of State recovers from the War Office. The result from our point of view is of course the same as if he had drawn Council Bills on us to that extent and had correspondingly reduced our capacity to meet his further drawings. We estimated in the Budget that we should thus incur £7·5 million of recoverable military expenditure in India, but this has risen, with the development of the operations which we assist in financing, including the manufacture of munitions, to £14·6 million. In addition, the system adopted, at the instance of His Majesty's Government, of financing the purchase of wheat by direct payments on this side to the firms employed as our purchasing agents has involved a further expenditure of £2·9 million, which the Secretary of State recovered by the sale of the wheat at home. We also placed £2 million at the disposal of the Bank of England in India, against which the Bank made a similar payment to the Secretary of State. Finally, as previously mentioned (paragraph 81), we incurred some recoverable outlay—about £0·9 million—on behalf of the Australian Government.

Altogether, then, our recoverable disbursements here have amounted to £20·4 million. The effect of the wheat purchases and sales in depleting our balances here and inflating those of the Secretary of State was, however, corrected, when exchange fell in June—September and reverse bills were sold, by crediting the proceeds (£4·7 million) to our treasury funds in India, while the Secretary of State met the bills at home from his own balances.

102. Thus the net demand on our treasury balances as a result of these forms of indirect remittance amounted to £15·7 million, or about £8 million more than the Budget had contemplated. We were thus unable to meet the Secretary of State's Council drawings (from those balances) to the full extent anticipated, and yet these were on an unexpectedly large scale. The depression of exchange to which I have just referred was of comparatively short duration. It was doubtless connected in part with the system adopted for financing the wheat purchases, as well as with the demand for remittance in connection with the home war loan; and when these transactions had been adjusted, and the period of renewed activity which normally sets in towards the beginning of the cold weather had started, the situation was reversed, and eventually an exceedingly strong demand set in for trade remittances, which, in accordance with our accepted policy, has been fully met. The Secretary of State's Council drawings are now estimated to amount this year to £16½ million. Of this sum, £3·7 million has been met from our treasury balances, as against £7·1 anticipated in the Budget; and £7·5 million through the Gold Standard Reserve. The London portion of that Reserve had been weakened by having to meet heavy demands for reverse remittances after the outbreak of war, and we have been glad to take the opportunity afforded by a period of strong exchange to re-transfer to it the free portion of the balance which was thus accumulated in India, as well as the £3 million which we have repaid out of the temporary loan of £7 million which we took from the Reserve in the early part of the war. We still retain in India (in our treasury balances) the remaining portion of that loan.

103. The remaining drawings of the current year (£5·3 million) are being taken against the Paper Currency Reserve. As Hon'ble Members are aware, this is the normal practice when the trade demand for remittance exceeds the amounts which can conveniently be met from our treasury balances. But while in ordinary conditions the proceeds of bills thus drawn against the Paper Currency Reserve are 'earmarked' at home in gold, the Secretary of State has felt obliged, in the financial situation at home created by war conditions, to make a very sparing use of this procedure. To meet this difficulty without detracting from the "availability" of the Reserve, if I may coin a word, we took power by our recent Currency Ordinance to enable him to invest up to a limited extent in short term securities, such as Treasury bills, the sums which he would normally have earmarked in actual gold, and he is utilizing this power up to the extent of £3 million. At the same time we took the opportunity of making it clear that additional investments from the Currency Reserve, when made in India under the powers taken by the Currency Act of last year (V of 1915), can be effected by creating fresh Government paper ad hoc and placing it in the Reserve, thus enabling us to carry out the intention, previously announced, of obtaining, when necessary, additional resources for the assistance of trade or for our own possible requirements. The Currency Act just mentioned remains in force up to six months after the close of the war, and we shall ask the Council in the course of the present session to give the same duration to the useful supplementary legislation contained in the recent Ordinance.

104. In 1916-17 we again expect that the bulk of the funds required by the Secretary of State will be met, as in the present year, by the recovery from the Home Government of expenditure—estimated to amount to £17·1 million—which we shall incur on its behalf in India, besides which there will again be expenditure, amounting to about £1 million, on behalf of the Australian Government. The Secretary of State will therefore require to draw on us in the ordinary way to the extent of £5·1 million only. As usual, however, these announcements are merely provisional, and full discretion is retained to vary the amounts in such manner as may be found advisable.

105. The average rate of exchange in the current year, calculated on the Secretary of State's drawings, is taken at 16·068 pence per rupee.

Gold Standard Reserve.

106. The following statement shows the holdings in the Gold Standard Reserve on the 1st April last and at the date of the last published statement. I have also added figures showing how we expect the Reserve to stand on the 31st March in order to bring out important changes in its constitution to which some allusion has already been made.

* This represents the value of the securities at the minimum prices fixed for them as on the 31st March 1915.

† This represents the value of the securities as on the 31st October 1915.

‡ This represents the value as on the 31st October 1915 (the date of the last valuation) of the securities then held and the cost price of securities purchased since that date.

107. It will be seen that there will still be a 'loose' balance in India of £245,000. This represents interest which we have to pay for our temporary loan from the Reserve, and as it will not be credited till the 31st March next, there will not be time in the current year for its withdrawal, like the remainder of the balance, by the sale of council bills. The balance with which the year opened, and the repaid portion of the loan we had taken in 1914-15, were withdrawn—to the extent of £7·5 million in all—by the sale of council bills as already described; and the remainder was remitted to England by adjustments through the Paper Currency Reserve* in connection with a very interesting and expedient transaction.

At the time when the 4½ per cent British war loan of 1915 was floated, the Gold Standard Reserve held consols to the nominal value of about £3¼ million. It was decided to take advantage of the conversion scheme attached to the war loan to exchange these holdings into the new and more easily realisable security. This was effected partly by a direct subscription to the loan on behalf of the Reserve, the remittance above mentioned from our balance in India being made for this purpose, and partly by the purchase of conversion rights. The result of the transaction is that consols yielding a total interest of £81,660 a year have been replaced by much superior war loan securities yielding £97,992. Including the further war loan stock which we obtained by direct subscription, our total war loan holding in the Gold Standard Reserve now amounts to £3½ million.

Currency notes.

108. In paragraph 94 of my speech introducing the last Financial Statement, I alluded to the fact that during the period of emergency which followed immediately upon the outbreak of war we made special arrangements to secure the unimpeded encashment of our currency notes, and I announced that it would be our object to maintain, and if possible to develop, the facilities then granted. Definite steps have now been taken towards this end. The Royal Commission on Indian Finance and Currency recommended that Government should increase, whenever and wherever possible, the number of places at which notes can be encashed as of right, as well as the extra-legal facilities for encashment. Definite consideration of the Royal Commission's report having been postponed on account of the war, a decision on their recommendation in favour of additional statutory facilities has necessarily to stand over for the time being. We have not, however, thought it advisable to let the matter rest entirely, and we have accordingly revised the rules and practice relating to the issue and encashment of notes at Government treasuries. In our revised rules it is expressly laid down that all possible endeavour shall be made to meet the requirements of a payee as to the form of currency which he desires to take, and that all applications for the exchange of coin for notes, or of notes for coin, shall ordinarily be met; while we have undertaken to make these facilities real and effective by suitable arrangements for the supply of the coin required.

109. This arrangement relates primarily to those cases in which the treasuries are under Government management. We had, however, already recognised that the most favourable opportunities for developing the note circulation on these lines would probably occur at the larger trade centres, at most of which the Presidency Banks have branches and transact treasury business on behalf of Government, and accordingly the policy of enlisting the co-operation of the Presidency Banks has been steadily pursued. Substantial results have now been achieved in this direction. Thus arrangements have been made with the Banks for the issue and free encashment of notes at a considerable number of their existing branches, while new branches have been opened by the Bank of Madras at four places all of which are of considerable importance from the point of view of trade.

The main features of the new arrangements are that the Government have undertaken, for currency purposes, to keep the Presidency Banks in funds at each branch, and to supply them with any form of currency asked for as far as this may be required to permit of the free issue and exchange of universal currency notes, i.e., those up to ₹100. In consideration of the Banks carrying out these duties on behalf of Government, we have in one instance, in which the arrangements are for the present on a temporary and experimental footing, agreed to reimburse the out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Bank in connection with the establishment of an exchange department. In other cases we have given a guarantee in respect of the amount of Government funds which, under existing arrangements, are held at the Banks' branches for the transaction of treasury business. This takes the shape either of a guaranteed minimum balance, or of a guaranteed average balance of a specified sum during the busy period of each year. In fixing the remuneration of the Banks in this form the Government have had in view the policy alluded to in another connection in paragraph 11 of my speech introducing the last Financial Statement, by which the balances in the Presidency Banks are kept at as high a level as is compatible with other public interests with the object of enabling a reasonable amount of assistance to be given to trade. The arrangements above described have thus been made to serve a double purpose.

110. There are certain other matters connected with our paper currency system which deserve mention. The most important of these is the reform effected during the past year by which the practice of re-issuing currency notes has been discontinued. In future all notes presented at a currency office will be at once cancelled however short a time they may have been in circulation. This change of procedure follows the practice of the Bank of England, and has a special advantage as a measure of protection against forgery and fraud, as it is a common device for counterfeit notes to be deliberately soiled or stained in order to obscure the defects of the imitation. When, as is likely to result from the change of procedure, clean notes form the bulk of the circulation, such counterfeit notes will stand a smaller chance of passing current. The change is also likely, on other grounds, to increase the popularity of our notes, as we have found that the public are averse from receiving re-issued notes and not infrequently present them at once at the counter to be changed. I may mention, as a practical example of the way in which this reform has been appreciated, that the Controller of Currency has informed me that the Royal Calcutta Turf Club now issue clean notes only from their totalisators!

We hope in due course to be able to extend the new procedure to currency notes tendered at district treasuries, but there are certain practical difficulties in the way of the immediate extension of the prohibition to so wide a range of offices.

111. We have also had under consideration a proposal to prohibit the cutting of currency notes, which is at present very largely resorted to when these are sent by post. This proposal has, however, been dropped in view of the unfavourable criticism it elicited, the chief ground of objection being that, in view of existing Indian conditions in regard to banking facilities, the use of notes for remittance purposes is indispensable to a large section of the public, and that the prohibition or penalising of the remittance of notes in separate halves would injuriously affect the popularity of the paper currency as a whole. There was, however, one step which Government could safely take to diminish the undoubted inconvenience that results from our offices having to handle notes which have been cut, namely, by prohibiting the practice by which, in certain cases, notes were cut in our currency offices before being remitted to treasuries. It has recently been arranged to discontinue this and to check a similar practice in district treasuries.

112. As I indicated in the beginning of my speech, our currency circulation—partly, I may claim, as a result of the reforms above indicated—is now in a very satisfactory condition, as will be seen from the following statement which gives the active note circulation, i.e., excluding notes held in reserve treasuries and the headquarter offices of the Presidency Banks, on the 1st February in each of the last five years:—

1913	51·29	„
1914	51·91	„
1915	45·09	„
1916	54·11	„

The figure for the 1st February last is in fact a record in the statistics of our active circulation—a very notable circumstance, I think, considering the critical times through which we are passing.

The Wheat Scheme.

113. I have already had to make some reference to the Government wheat scheme in connection with the course of exchange and the Secretary of State's Council drawings. I may now say something as to the leading features of the scheme itself. It will be remembered that towards the end of 1914 Indian wheat prices began to rise to an alarmingly high level, and that this rise was practically continuous during the first three months of 1915, in spite of the action taken by Government to limit exports during that period. Prices were being forced up by the effect of the external demand on stocks which were unusually short; and the prospects of the approaching harvest did not, as is ordinarily the case, succeed in easing the situation. So the problem which faced us was to secure that Indian prices should be divorced from world prices, and at the same time to provide an outlet for the surplus crop, which then promised to be large.

alike for the benefit of the Indian cultivator and in order to meet the requirements of the United Kingdom where wheat was in great demand. We therefore resolved, with the approval of His Majesty's Government, to control the export trade by prohibiting all private exports of wheat save some 95,000 tons already covered by existing contracts, and decided that we would ourselves purchase and export all future supplies that might be required for the United Kingdom, to which country our exports were, generally speaking, to be confined. For this purpose we employed the leading export firms as our agents and placed their operations under the control of a Wheat Commissioner. The latter, in consultation with the Government, instructed the purchasing firms month by month in regard to the quantities they might purchase for us and regulated the maximum price at which such purchases could be made. The price was originally fixed at a fairly high level, so as to get into touch with the market, but it was gradually reduced as tenders of wheat increased, and by the middle of June the Government f. o. b. price was brought down to R4-10-9 per maund at Karachi. At that time, this figure represented internal prices appreciably above those actually current, but later on the unsatisfactory development of the south-west monsoon brought current prices up to, and finally above, the Government export rate. Consequently, while in the early stage of the scheme the real check on exports was through the maximum allotments to the purchasing firms, since the prices offered would in themselves have attracted much larger quantities, the position has been reversed since the middle of July, export having practically stopped owing to the Government price not being acceptable to dealers in comparison with internal prices, especially in view of the possibility of these rising materially later through poor winter rains. From July onwards, however, the requirements of the United Kingdom became less urgent, so that the stoppage of exports was of no material consequence to it, and was satisfactory to us as decreasing the competition for wheat and thus tending to keep down a rise in prices. Moreover, owing to a fall in prices at home and subsequently, in the autumn, to a great increase in freight charges, further shipment to the United Kingdom of wheat purchased at the price we offered would have resulted in loss. I may mention here that the wheat we shipped home was disposed of under the direction of a Wheat Committee appointed by His Majesty's Government and containing representatives of the India Office, the Treasury and the Board of Agriculture.

114. The scheme speedily provided the check on prices in India which was its main object. In Northern India, just before the scheme came into operation, internal prices at various representative centres ranged between $6\frac{1}{4}$ and $8\frac{3}{4}$ seers per rupee. By the middle of May they had fallen to between 9 and $11\frac{1}{4}$ seers; and in spite of some subsequent rise, caused mainly by the unsatisfactory character of the south-west monsoon in the Punjab, and the delay in the arrival of the winter rains, they are still below the level at which they stood when the scheme came into operation. The scheme has also worked without hardship to the producer. Thus taking the Punjab, the most important portion of India affected, the cultivator there is in normal times well satisfied with a local wholesale price of R3 per maund which corresponds roughly, allowing for transport and other charges, to a price of R4-2-0 f. o. b. at Karachi, whereas it will be seen from what I have said already that the prices offered have been considerably higher than this. We have also some information to the effect that the cultivators appreciate the offer of a definite price by Government. The shipment of wheat under the scheme likewise produced an excellent effect in Great Britain, in lowering the prices there at a time when this was much needed: thus the home prices which were at one time 69*s.* a quarter had fallen to 52*s.* in the first half of June. For the success which has attended the scheme we are greatly indebted to the ability, tact and zeal of Mr. M. M. S. Gubbay, C.I.E., who discharged the duties of Wheat Commissioner till he took up, in October last, the post of Deputy Secretary in the Finance Department. The total amount of wheat exported up to date this year amounts to about 650,000 tons.

115. As regards the profits derived from the scheme, these, owing mainly to the enormous cost of freight and the larger supplies that came into the United Kingdom from other quarters, have been much less than might have been anticipated a year ago, and up to date they amount to about £150,000. A definite balance sheet cannot yet be struck, however, as the scheme is to continue in operation, in the interests of the Indian consumer, after the close of the current year, and we shall have to take into account the results of future transactions. In any case there can be no loss to India while the scheme continues in operation on its present lines, and thus still includes the guarantee of His Majesty's Government against such a contingency; and though we should of course have been glad of a large profit, this was not one of our primary inducements to undertake the scheme. The main object, so far as India is concerned, was, as described in Your Excellency's words in the final Budget debate last year, "to ensure a moderate level of prices, to safeguard the consumer and yet not to disappoint the cultivator of his legitimate profits"; and, as you also said on that occasion, such profits as may finally ensue will be employed in some special way to the advantage of the people.

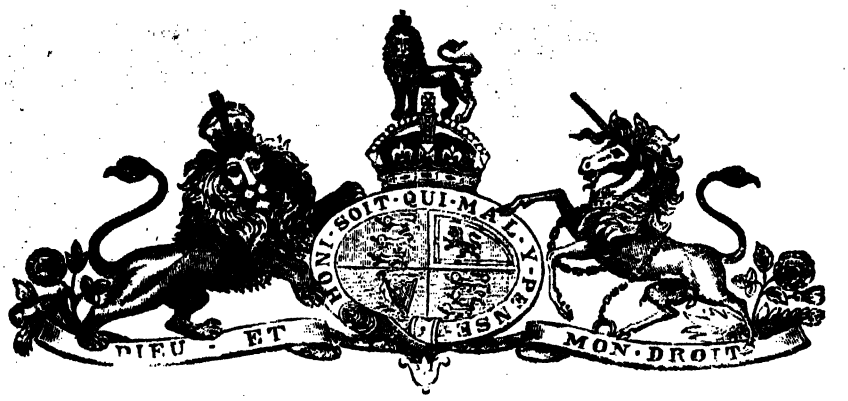
116. In regard to food-prices generally, I should like to draw attention to our very fortunate position as compared with some of the principal belligerent countries in Europe. Thus it appears from returns compiled by the Director of Statistics that in January last retail food-prices in Calcutta were only 7 per cent above what they had been at the beginning of the war, whereas, as we have recently learned from the Board of Trade Labour Gazette, the rise has been 47 per cent in Great Britain, 83 per cent in Germany, and no less than 112 per cent in Austria.

Conclusion.



117. Now, my Lord, I draw my remarks to a close. It has been a source of great concern to the Government of India that the last Budget to be presented under Your Excellency's auspices should be marked by the necessity of a large increase in taxation. But we should be flinching from our duty, and unmindful of the example which has been set to us in other parts of the Empire, were we to shrink from this, while the increased burdens which we have proposed are small in comparison with those which have to be borne by other countries participating in the war. We may also, I think, derive some satisfaction from the fact that whereas on the last occasion on which additional taxation had to be imposed (in 1910) that necessity arose from the domestic circumstances of India, our present measures arise only through the participation of India in the greatest war which any of us are likely to see and in which the whole future of the Empire is in issue. And when I recall the Resolution unanimously passed in this Council on the 24th February 1915, which affirms 'the unswerving resolution of Indians to support the honour, dignity and prestige of the Empire regardless of the sacrifice it may entail on them,' I am confident that the measures we propose will receive full acquiescence in the Council and in the country.

118. In conclusion I desire once again to express my heartfelt acknowledgments to the officers of the Finance Department for the way in which they have dealt, in their various spheres, with the very difficult conditions through which we have passed during the current year and which are likely to continue throughout the year to come. I can only repeat what I said last year that I am most deeply indebted to their loyal and efficient aid.
